Ginny Churns Off Florida

Government Authorizes Sale Of Corn To Hungary

U.S. And Soviet Launch Talks On Wheat Deal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government authorized the sale of 1.2 million bushels of yellow corn to Hungary Wednesday as U.S. and Soviet officials began negotiations on the sale of surplus wheat to Russia that were called promising by both sides.

The Hungarian transaction was announced by the Commerce Department. It said it had granted an export license for the corn shipment to the Soviet satellite country. The dollar value of the shipment was listed at $1,929,384. The department by custom declined to list the name of the exporter who received the permit.

Informed sources said a second and even larger deal sending corn to Hungary is now pending in the Commerce Department.

"Courtesy" Lunch

The wheat talks opened at a State Department "courtesy" lunch for the visiting Soviet delegation.

Sergei Borisov, head of the Russian delegation, said the sales agreement might be settled within a relatively few days. Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges called the session a "most satisfactory meeting." Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said the situation was very promising.

But both Borisov and Hodges noted that the discussion did not get into the hard cash details of the $250 million transaction such as the vital problem of shipping rates for the wheat.

Rate Guidelines Discussed

In announcing U.S. willingness to allow the surplus sales to Russia and other Iron Curtain countries, President Kennedy said the supplies would have to be carried in American vessels to the extent possible.

U.S. shipping rates are about $23 a ton compared with foreign rates of about $12, which would greatly increase the cost to the Russians.

Possible rate "guidelines" to reduce the U.S. shipping bill have been under discussion by the administration and spokesmen of the maritime industry.

Kennedy, House Leaders Confer On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy conferred Wednesday night with key House leaders of both parties in a personal effort to salvage a civil rights bill in the House.

Informed sources said Kennedy spent an hour with three top Republicans and three top Democrats from the House in an attempt to get some sort of agreement on legislation that can pass the House.

There was no definite result from the meeting.

The White House talks followed shortly after another administration effort to line up a majority of the House Judiciary Committee behind a compromise civil rights bill had failed.

Attending the White House talks were House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.; Republican leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana; Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma; the Republican whip, Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, and the two top men on the Judiciary Committee, Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio.

One possible result, sources said, is likely to be a second postponement of a showdown vote in the Judiciary Committee. The showdown was originally set for Wednesday but was put off until Thursday.

Prior to Wednesday's scheduled meeting of the committee, supporters of the more sweeping bill said that despite administration efforts, they had solid assurances of enough votes to send it to the House floor Thursday.

But if the committee doesn't meet, the bill can't be voted on.

The Kennedy administration has been battling since last week to get a bill more in line with the President's original proposals, fearing that the stronger measure cannot get through Congress.

There also were fears among administration sources that Southern Democrats on the Judiciary Committee would team with liberal Democrats and Republicans in voting out the strong bill, with the aim of eventually killing it.

Even if efforts to get the compromise bill fail, the administration is expected to try to work out a milder version on the House floor, either through a substitute or by amendments.

Senate To Delve Into Financial Deals By Baker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee voted Wednesday to launch next Tuesday a searching inquiry into the financial affairs of Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, who rose from page boy to the key $19,000 yearly Senate job he quit under fire.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., hinted that the affairs of other Senate employes, and some present ones, also might be delved into along with those of Baker, who was secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority.

The unanimous committee vote, Jordan said, gave him broad authority to obtain information from the FBI and to seek any income tax records which might bear on any conflict of interest by any present or past Senate employes. He may also look into Senate payroll records, Jordan added.

"Anything pertinent to the investigation will be asked for," he said, adding: "As for the present, we have no charges or evidence before us."

Baker, now 36 and the father of five children, came here from Pickens, S.C., as a youth to be a page. He was named secretary of the majority eight years ago when Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson was Senate majority leader. He had been considered a Johnson protege.

He gave up the job Oct. 7 at about the time Justice Department sources disclosed an investigation was being conducted into his affairs.

This was believed to be in connection with a $300,000 civil suit against Baker charging he had used his office to help win contracts with a government defense contractor for an atuomatic vending machine company with which he had financial dealings. Baker has denied this.

Korean Ferry Upsets; 49 Die

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—A flat-bottomed ferryboat crowded with picnicking school children capsized barely 30 feet from shore Wednesday and police reported 49 persons drowned in the swirling waters of the Han River.

There were 88 known survivors.

Police said the oar-propelled barge ferry was loaded to almost double its capacity, mostly with children returning from a school picnic, when it overturned shortly near Yoju, about 50 miles south of Seoul.

The ferry overturned when the children rushed to one side of the bow as it neared shore, shouting joyously "we're here, we're here," police said.

Screaming children, teachers, parents, other passengers and crewmen were spilled into a pocket of deep, swift water about 10 yards from the landing. They were sucked under and swept away by the swift currents.

Prolonged Autumn Heat Wave Dries Up Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Retail business has dried up in some sections of the country under a withering autumn heat wave.

A prolonged spell of Indian summer, accompanied by drought, sapped people's desire to buy heavy clothing for fall and winter.

"The weather is strapping sales right now," said J. Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Merchants Association, which has 11,000 members among department and specialty stores.

"It has been disrupting to business but hasn't hurt expectations of record Christmas sales."

In New York City, whose surrounding wooded watersheds are tinder dry and spotted with fires, a spokesman for Macy's, the big department store chain, said, "We are using caution but are committed to keeping stocks at a high level."

The effect of the hot weather was noted in lack of activity in current and spring business being written at the spring sportswear market in New York City.

Retailers shopping at the National Association of Men's Sportswear buyers market were reported to be buying in a limited way. Because their present stocks aren't moving at the usual pace of the peak autumn buying season, retailers aren't very interested in placing spring orders.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported some lines have been effected locally by hot weather but that there has been no effect on the sales and profit picture companywide.

GOP Victor Rests After N.D. Election

BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI) — North Dakota's new Republican congressman, Mark Andrews, 37, said Wednesday he will head for Washington as soon as Gov. William Guy certifies his election.

Andrews said in Fargo that he "plans to rest a few days" after the vigorous six - week campaign that gave him victory by more than 4,000 votes over Democrat John Hove, North Dakota State University English professor, in a special 1st District election Tuesday.

East German Reds Release U.S. Student

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists Wednesday night freed a 20-year-old American university student who had spent 21 months in jail on charges he helped East Berlin students escape to the West.

A U.S. spokesman said the student, 20-year-old Robert F. Mann, of Sepulveda, Calif., appeared to be "in good physical and mental health."

Mann, who attended Stanford University overseas branch at Stuttgart, Germany, stepped quietly into West Berlin early Wednesday evening.

He had served every day of the sentence meted out to him by a Communist court sitting in secret session on July 14, 1962. The court had sentenced him to 21 months at hard labor, but ruled the six months he had spent in jail awaiting sentence would be subtracted from his time.

The California student was spirited away by Western officials after his return to West Berlin.

A U. S. spokesman said he "will be staying privately in Berlin while completing arrangements for his return to the United States."

Mann was arrested in East Berlin on Jan. 22, 1962, on charges of attempting to aid East Berlin students flee to the West with borrowed passports.

Texas Blast Kills Three

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) —A cluster of acetylene and oxygen bottles exploded Wednesday at a construction site in the Coast Refinery Co. plant. Three workers were killed and 30 injured.

"Arms, legs and objects were flying everywhere," a witness said.

Cause of the fiery blast was not immediately determined. The welding fuels were being used in building a new unit at a petro - chemical plant, which suffered only minor damage.

Killed were Charles Melvin Stites, 28, a pipefitter foreman, W. R. Rakeshaw and Robert Hentges, all of Corpus Christi.

Critically injured were Jack Kay, Dan Kent, Joe Campbell, Tyrone Connelly, Wiley Bartin and Francisco Salizar. All were in Memorial Hospital.

Victims suffered from concusssions, burns and cuts from flying debris. The hospital said arms and legs of victims were blown off. A small fire followed the blast.

A refinery spokesman said the affected unit was not on the production line and output continued at a normal pace. The refinery, a subsidiary of Coastal State Gas Producing Co., is located on the Corpus Christi ship channel.

23 Guerrillas Seized

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — The government Wednesday announced capture of 23 guerrilla fighters in the mountain regions of western Venezuela. It was one of the adminstration's biggest "victories" in the undeclared two-year-old "war" with the terrorist underground.

"Big Lift" Schedule Threatened By Fog

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Fog raised problems Wednesday night in completing the vast movement of 15,000 U.S. soldiers from Texas to Germany in Exercise Big Lift. The mist put a damper on earlier hopes of beating planned schedules.

The fog also had Germans questioning whether similar weather would prevent rapid reinforcements of U.S. troops here in the event of an emergency. They raised this issue in the light of a persistent theory in Bonn that the big airborne maneuver may be a prelude to a cut in U.S. Army strength in Europe in favor of similar lifts to any future trouble spots.

Seeking to quiet these fears, a high U.S. official said in Washington Tuesday night that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will announce on a visit to West Germany this weekend that the United States expects to keep all of its 250,000 men in Europe.

Forecasters said the Rhein-Main airbase near Frankfurt, destination of all the lift's C135 jet transports, probably would be shut down for jets starting early Thursday.

C124 Globemasters, propeller-driven planes which can get in under lower ceilings with less visibility, probably will not be able to land at Rhein-Main after 3 a.m., the Air Force said.

There was no forecast on how long the shutdown might last.

An Army spokesman said that so far there have been "no problems, incidents or accidents" in the movement of the U.S. 2nd Armored Division soldiers from their landing fields to five depots south of Frankfurt. That is where they are picking up tons of heavy equipment.

By early evening, 70 planes had deposited 4,167 men and 248 tons of cargo.

An Air Force officer reported to newsmen that the over-all airlift may be slightly behind schedule. The schedule calls for landing the full division and supporting elements in Germany by late Friday.

Two other important bases used in the big lift, Ramstein and Sembach, have so far reported no weather difficulties.

The airlifted troops are to be used in maneuvers, "fighting" the 3rd Armored Division from Oct. 30 to Nov. 6.

The $20-million venture is designed to prove American ability to swing a military punch overseas anywhere in perilous times.

Steel Pricing Probe Begins

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury Wednesday started an antitrust investigation of the nation's steel industry, with emphasis on pricing practices.

Executives in many fields eyed the probe, hopeful that it would turn out to be routine and not of a nature that might prove harassing to business in general. The subpoenaing of 10 steel producers apparently took the industry by surprise.

On Wall Street, steels appeared to have weathered Tuesday's selling when news of the grand jury inquiry sent stock prices tumbling. Industry stocks rebounded Wednesday although some gains later were trimmed.

In the spring of 1962, President Kennedy's administration forced a rollbaek of a planned general increase in steel prices. Pressure from Washington was blamed in part for a sharp stock market break that followed.

Moon Shot Put Off Until Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency Wednesday postponed a launching of the Ranger VI mooncraft until next year.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said defects had been found in a number of small transistor diodes. These are tiny electronic parts.

The launch planned from Cape Canaveral, Fla., for the latter part of this year has been rescheduled to the first quarter of 1964.

The 730-pound spacecraft is designed to crash into the moon.

Six cameras aboard are to start taking pictures, about 10 minutes before the impact, and send the data back to earth. The expectation is that the cameras would be destroyed when the craft hit the moon.

Home Sheds Noble Titles

LONDON (AP) — Britain's prime minister shed his long string of noble titles Wednesday, renouncing 500 years of proud family history, and became a commoner in order to govern this island kingdom.

The 14th Earl of Home, Lord Dunglass, Baron Home and Lord Douglas, by a simple stroke of the pen, became Sir Alec Frederick Douglas-Home. He rates being called "Sir Alec" because he is a Knight of the Thistle—not a peerage.

He cleared away the biggest hurdle blocking his entry into the House of Commons—a right previously denied him by his noble heritage.

Now he must win a seat in the Commons in a special election set for Nov. 7.

Douglas-Home's historic act left him in a kind of political vacuum—he was no longer a member of the House of Lords, nor yet a member of the House of Commons. It was the first time in British history a prime minister had been in such a spot.

Butler Expects Early Talks With Gromyko

LONDON (UPI)—British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler expects an early meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on prospects of further East-West tension - easing measures, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

It was presumed U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk would participate in such a meeting which diplomats believe may be arranged before the year's end or early in 1964. It would be a continuation of the exploratory talks which Butler's predecessor, now prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas Home had with Rusk and Gromyko in New York last month.

Fact-Finding U.N. Mission In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A United Nations mission arrived Thursday to look into the deep-seated conflict between Buddhists and the government. The dispute has landed many religious leaders in jail.

The chairman of the seven-man U.N. group, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, said the committee came to "obtain the facts of the situation as regards the alleged violation of human rights by the government of South Viet Nam." He said the group would receive petitions from all organizations wishing to present them.

The Buddhist opposition claims the Diem government, whose leaders are Roman Catholics, discriminated against Buddhists. The government denies it.

President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime invited the U.N. mission here, but has announced no plans for its members to talk with leading Buddhist opponents. Most Buddhist leaders who have openly opposed Diem are in jail.

The regime has made it plain it would disapprove of any talks between the U.N. mission and the top Buddhist leader, Thich Tri Quang, now in asylum in the U.S. Embassy.

Pazhwak appealed to all parties involved to refrain from demonstrations during the group's expected 12-day stay. There have been rumors of impending new fire suicides by Buddhist monks.

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (UPI) —The 14th annual three - day West Virginia Tax Institute featuring a dozen speakers, including House Speaker Julius Singleton, will open here Thursday. The institute, sponsored by the State Bar, the State Society for Certified Public Accounts and the WVU Colleges of law and commerce, is to broaden the level of tax knowledge and practice.

Space Center At Canaveral "Buttons Up"

Erratic Hurricane Drifts Southward, Might Stall Again

MIAMI (UPI) —Wrong - way hurricane Ginny wandered toward the nation's space center at Cape Canaveral Wednesday night and forecasters predicted gales would rake the area.

Emergency crews were storing away massive missiles and "buttoning up" others for the blow at Cape Canaveral.

The Miami Weather Bureau, in a late advisory, said the center of the storm, packing 75-mile-an-hour winds, was 100 miles east of the space center.

The weather bureau said it was withholding hurricane warnings because of the "minimal intensity" of the storm, but ordered a hurricane watch from Melbourne, below Cape Canaveral, to Jacksonville, in north Florida.

It said the center of the hurricane would probably stall about 50 miles offshore Thursday morning.

Direction Uncertain

"The direction of motion Thursday is uncertain," the weather bureau said, "and interests in the area of the hurricane watch should keep in touch with future advices."

Forecasters said that even if the center reaches the coastline "maximum tides are not expected to exceed five feet and any evacuation recommended would be confined to the beaches and low lying areas near water."

Ginny stalled off the Florida coast earlier in the day and forecasters said the storm showed signs of swinging into an erratic loop that could send it shooting back to the north like a yo-yo.

Late in the day, however, the storm resumed its southward drift.

Heavy Seas Pound Coast

Heavy seas kicked up by Ginny's 75 mile an hour winds pounded the Florida shoreline, and at Cape Canaveral officials moved promptly to protect the nation's $1 billion investment in space hardware.

Ginny boiled up Sunday off the North Carolina coast and, true to form, struck out on a northerly course. But finding itself blocked by high pressure systems, the unusual storm began a slow drift southward that carried it within striking range of Florida.

In addition to the Cape Canaveral-to-Fort Lauderdale hurricane watch — a preliminary warning for residents to keep posted and be ready for quick action — the weather bureau also ordered up gale warnings from Jacksonville south to Palm Beach.

Raid By Cuban Exile Commandos Reported

MIAMI (UPI) — A Cuban exile commando group said Wednesday its "forces inside Cuba" attacked and "badly damaged" Castro government patrol boats based at the northern city of Isabela de Sagua in Las Villas Province.

There was no mention of any casualties in the raid which the group, known as "Mambises Commandos," said it carried out Tuesday.

Ginny May Be Mixed Up But Isn't 'Yankee Storm'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ex-Confederates committed a grave injustice Wednesday by dubbing wrong-way Hurricane Ginny a "Yankee storm."

This word came from the Weather Bureau. It said that if anybody is to blame it is Canada, which exported a large mass of cold air at a critical juncture.

The reason Florida newspapers and others call Ginny a Yankee disturbance is that she headed toward Florida from the North. Usually hurricanes are born in tropical climates, and many eventually head northeastward, where they blow themselves out over the Atlantic.

Ginny was born Sunday off the North Carolina coast. Norman Matson, head of the emergency warning section of the Weather Bureau, explained that hurricanes, generally speaking, are steered by the broad windflow patterns in which they are embedded.

In the last few days a large mass of cool air moved southeastward from Canada over the Eastern United States and western Atlantic. This was accompanied by winds from the northeast.

Now Ginny, confronted by this mass of cool air, sort of recoiled, and moved along with the prevailing winds on a southwesterly course.

"Ginny is rather rare so far as her motions are concerned," said Matson.

However, her erratic movements are not unprecedented. In 1935 another "Yankee storm," so-called, formed in the vicinity of the Bermudas. This storm, unnamed because the Weather Bureau had not then adopted the custom of calling hurricanes after girls, moved westward, then southwest across Miami.

The results were not humorous: 19 dead in Florida and the Bahamas, and $5.5 million property damage.

East German Reds Release U.S. Student

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists Wednesday night freed a 20-year-old American university student who had spent 21 months in jail on charges he helped East Berlin students escape to the West.

"Big Lift" Schedule Threatened By Fog

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Fog raised problems Wednesday night in completing the vast movement of 15,000 U.S. soldiers from Texas to Germany in Exercise Big Lift. The mist put a damper on earlier hopes of beating planned schedules.

The fog also had Germans questioning whether similar weather would prevent rapid reinforcements of U.S. troops here in the event of an emergency. They raised this issue in the light of a persistent theory in Bonn that the big airborne maneuver may be a prelude to a cut in U.S. Army strength in Europe in favor of similar lifts to any future trouble spots.

Seeking to quiet these fears, a high U.S. official said in Washington Tuesday night that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will announce on a visit to West Germany this weekend that the United States expects to keep all of its 250,000 men in Europe.

Forecasters said the Rhein-Main airbase near Frankfurt, destination of all the lift's C135 jet transports, probably would be shut down for jets starting early Thursday.

C124 Globemasters, propeller-driven planes which can get in under lower ceilings with less visibility, probably will not be able to land at Rhein-Main after 3 a.m., the Air Force said.

There was no forecast on how long the shutdown might last.

An Army spokesman said that so far there have been "no problems, incidents or accidents" in the movement of the U.S. 2nd Armored Division soldiers from their landing fields to five depots south of Frankfurt. That is where they are picking up tons of heavy equipment.

By early evening, 70 planes had deposited 4,167 men and 248 tons of cargo.

An Air Force officer reported to newsmen that the over-all airlift may be slightly behind schedule. The schedule calls for landing the full division and supporting elements in Germany by late Friday.

Two other important bases used in the big lift, Ramstein and Sembach, have so far reported no weather difficulties.

The airlifted troops are to be used in maneuvers, "fighting" the 3rd Armored Division from Oct. 30 to Nov. 6.

The $20-million venture is designed to prove American ability to swing a military punch overseas anywhere in perilous times.

Steel Pricing Probe Begins

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal grand jury Wednesday started an antitrust investigation of the nation's steel industry, with emphasis on pricing practices.

Executives in many fields eyed the probe, hopeful that it would turn out to be routine and not of a nature that might prove harassing to business in general. The subpoenaing of 10 steel producers apparently took the industry by surprise.

On Wall Street, steels appeared to have weathered Tuesday's selling when news of the grand jury inquiry sent stock prices tumbling. Industry stocks rebounded Wednesday although some gains later were trimmed.

In the spring of 1962, President Kennedy's administration forced a rollbaek of a planned general increase in steel prices. Pressure from Washington was blamed in part for a sharp stock market break that followed.

Moon Shot Put Off Until Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency Wednesday postponed a launching of the Ranger VI mooncraft until next year.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said defects had been found in a number of small transistor diodes. These are tiny electronic parts.

The launch planned from Cape Canaveral, Fla., for the latter part of this year has been rescheduled to the first quarter of 1964.

The 730-pound spacecraft is designed to crash into the moon.

Six cameras aboard are to start taking pictures, about 10 minutes before the impact, and send the data back to earth. The expectation is that the cameras would be destroyed when the craft hit the moon.

Fact-Finding U.N. Mission In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—A United Nations mission arrived Thursday to look into the deep-seated conflict between Buddhists and the government. The dispute has landed many religious leaders in jail.

The chairman of the seven-man U.N. group, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, said the committee came to "obtain the facts of the situation as regards the alleged violation of human rights by the government of South Viet Nam." He said the group would receive petitions from all organizations wishing to present them.

The Buddhist opposition claims the Diem government, whose leaders are Roman Catholics, discriminated against Buddhists. The government denies it.

President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime invited the U.N. mission here, but has announced no plans for its members to talk with leading Buddhist opponents. Most Buddhist leaders who have openly opposed Diem are in jail.

The regime has made it plain it would disapprove of any talks between the U.N. mission and the top Buddhist leader, Thich Tri Quang, now in asylum in the U.S. Embassy.

Pazhwak appealed to all parties involved to refrain from demonstrations during the group's expected 12-day stay. There have been rumors of impending new fire suicides by Buddhist monks.

Home Sheds Noble Titles

LONDON (AP) — Britain's prime minister shed his long string of noble titles Wednesday, renouncing 500 years of proud family history, and became a commoner in order to govern this island kingdom.

The 14th Earl of Home, Lord Dunglass, Baron Home and Lord Douglas, by a simple stroke of the pen, became Sir Alec Frederick Douglas-Home. He rates being called "Sir Alec" because he is a Knight of the Thistle—not a peerage.

He cleared away the biggest hurdle blocking his entry into the House of Commons—a right previously denied him by his noble heritage.

Now he must win a seat in the Commons in a special election set for Nov. 7.

Douglas-Home's historic act left him in a kind of political vacuum—he was no longer a member of the House of Lords, nor yet a member of the House of Commons. It was the first time in British history a prime minister had been in such a spot.

Butler Expects Early Talks With Gromyko

LONDON (UPI)—British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler expects an early meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on prospects of further East-West tension-easing measures, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

It was presumed U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk would participate in such a meeting which diplomats believe may be arranged before the year's end or early in 1964. It would be a continuation of the exploratory talks which Butler's predecessor, now prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas Home had with Rusk and Gromyko in New York last month.

Space Center At Canaveral "Buttons Up"

Erratic Hurricane Drifts Southward, Might Stall Again

MIAMI (UPI) —Wrong-way hurricane Ginny wandered toward the nation's space center at Cape Canaveral Wednesday night and forecasters predicted gales would rake the area.

Emergency crews were storing away massive missiles and "buttoning up" others for the blow at Cape Canaveral.

The Miami Weather Bureau, in a late advisory, said the center of the storm, packing 75-mile-an-hour winds, was 100 miles east of the space center.

The weather bureau said it was withholding hurricane warnings because of the "minimal intensity" of the storm, but ordered a hurricane watch from Melbourne, below Cape Canaveral, to Jacksonville, in north Florida.

It said the center of the hurricane would probably stall about 50 miles offshore Thursday morning.

Direction Uncertain

"The direction of motion Thursday is uncertain," the weather bureau said, "and interests in the area of the hurricane watch should keep in touch with future advices."

Forecasters said that even if the center reaches the coastline "maximum tides are not expected to exceed five feet and any evacuation recommended would be confined to the beaches and low lying areas near water."

Ginny stalled off the Florida coast earlier in the day and forecasters said the storm showed signs of swinging into an erratic loop that could send it shooting back to the north like a yo-yo.

Late in the day, however, the storm resumed its southward drift.

Heavy Seas Pound Coast

Heavy seas kicked up by Ginny's 75 mile an hour winds pounded the Florida shoreline, and at Cape Canaveral officials moved promptly to protect the nation's $1 billion investment in space hardware.

Ginny boiled up Sunday off the North Carolina coast and, true to form, struck out on a northerly course. But finding itself blocked by high pressure systems, the unusual storm began a slow drift southward that carried it within striking range of Florida.

In addition to the Cape Canaveral-to-Fort Lauderdale hurricane watch — a preliminary warning for residents to keep posted and be ready for quick action — the weather bureau also ordered up gale warnings from Jacksonville south to Palm Beach.

The institute, sponsored by the State Bar, the State Society for Certified Public Accounts and the WVU Colleges of law and commerce, is to broaden the level of tax knowledge and practice.

Raid By Cuban Exile Commandos Reported

MIAMI (UPI) — A Cuban exile commando group said Wednesday its "forces inside Cuba" attacked and "badly damaged" Castro government patrol boats based at the northern city of Isabela de Sagua in Las Villas Province.

There was no mention of any casualties in the raid which the group, known as "Mambises Commandos," said it carried out Tuesday.

Prolonged Autumn Heat Wave Dries Up Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Retail business has dried up in some sections of the country under a withering autumn heat wave.

A prolonged spell of Indian summer, accompanied by drought, sapped people's desire to buy heavy clothing for fall and winter.

"The weather is strapping sales right now," said J. Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Merchants Association, which has 11,000 members among department and specialty stores.

"It has been disrupting to business but hasn't hurt expectations of record Christmas sales."

In New York City, whose surrounding wooded watersheds are tinder dry and spotted with fires, a spokesman for Macy's, the big department store chain, said, "We are using caution but are committed to keeping stocks at a high level."

The effect of the hot weather was noted in lack of activity in current and spring business being written at the spring sportswear market in New York City.

Retailers shopping at the National Association of Men's Sportswear buyers market were reported to be buying in a limited way. Because their present stocks aren't moving at the usual pace of the peak autumn buying season, retailers aren't very interested in placing spring orders.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported some lines have been effected locally by hot weather but that there has been no effect on the sales and profit picture companywide.

GOP Victor Rests After N.D. Election

BISMARCK, N.D. (UPI) — North Dakota's new Republican congressman, Mark Andrews, 37, said Wednesday he will head for Washington as soon as Gov. William Guy certifies his election.

Andrews said in Fargo that he "plans to rest a few days" after the vigorous six-week campaign that gave him victory by more than 4,000 votes over Democrat John Hove, North Dakota State University English professor, in a special 1st District election Tuesday.

Ginny May Be Mixed Up But Isn't 'Yankee Storm'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ex-Confederates committed a grave injustice Wednesday by dubbing wrong-way Hurricane Ginny a "Yankee storm."

This word came from the Weather Bureau. It said that if anybody is to blame it is Canada, which exported a large mass of cold air at a critical juncture.

The reason Florida newspapers and others call Ginny a Yankee disturbance is that she headed toward Florida from the North. Usually hurricanes are born in tropical climates, and many eventually head northeastward, where they blow themselves out over the Atlantic.

Ginny was born Sunday off the North Carolina coast. Norman Matson, head of the emergency warning section of the Weather Bureau, explained that hurricanes, generally speaking, are steered by the broad windflow patterns in which they are embedded.

In the last few days a large mass of cool air moved southeastward from Canada over the Eastern United States and western Atlantic. This was accompanied by winds from the northeast.

Now Ginny, confronted by this mass of cool air, sort of recoiled, and moved along with the prevailing winds on a southwesterly course.

"Ginny is rather rare so far as her motions are concerned," said Matson.

However, her erratic movements are not unprecedented. In 1935 another "Yankee storm," so-called, formed in the vicinity of the Bermudas. This storm, unnamed because the Weather Bureau had not then adopted the custom of calling hurricanes after girls, moved westward, then southwest across Miami.

The results were not humorous: 19 dead in Florida and the Bahamas, and $5.5 million property damage.

U.S. Rebuffs Castro On Ending Embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States Wednesday bluntly rejected Fidel Castro's appeal that the American economic embargo of his Communist ruled island be lifted.

The State Department issued two statements concerning Cuba — one giving more details of the attack on the freighter J. Louis Tuesday; the other turning down Castro's request for an end to the embargo.

The department made it plain that the rejection was not prompted by the ship incident but rather on the broader issue of the overall aggressiveness of the Castro regime in this hemisphere.

The Cuban leader in a Tuesday television speech, had urged the lifting of the embargo to enable his country to recover from the devastion of hurricane Flora.

In response, the State Department said: "Our policies toward the Castro regime have been determined by its Communist character, its hostility toward the United States, and its efforts to overthrow other governments in the hemisphere by violence, terror and subversion. As long as the Cuban government chooses to follow this aggressive course, it leaves us no choice but to maintain our present economic controls."

Of the freighter incident, the department reported that the J. Louis, which flies the Liberian flag but is controlled by the subsidary of an American firm, was fired on by several planes rather than by a lone aircraft as originally beliveed.

The report said the attackers were "most probably jets" and that there were at least 16 firing passes at three to five minute intervals.

Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said there was no confirmation yet that the J. Louis may have strayed into a shooting fray between the Cuban air force and Cuban exile raiders.

Police Scurry As Tito Takes Surprise Trip

NEW YORK (AP)—President Tito of Yugoslavia made a spur of the moment sightseeing trip upstate Wednesday that had New York City police scrambling outside their own bailiwick to insure his protection.

Tito's aides have angered high police officials by belittling security measures taken locally during his New York visit, which began Sunday. Anti-Tito demonstrators have harassed the Red leader on several occasions.

In this rather strained atmosphere, Tito decided suddenly that he and his wife would like to see some New York farms, or maybe the Hyde Park estate where President Roosevelt and his wife are buried.

Because the Yugoslav president didn't want to travel more than 1½ hours from the city, a private recreational area, Sterling Forest, was selected. It is near Tuxedo Park in Orange County, about 60 miles north of New York.

State and township police along the route were alerted, but the main burden of security fell upon the New York police.

Keith Lynch, acting chief of security for the State Department, said: "Because of the short notice give us by Tito, we asked city police to escort us to Tuxedo and back."

So impromptu was the junket that no formal arrangements were made to feed Tito when he and his party reached the recreational area. But at a cafeteria there, Tito and his wife carried their own trays through the line.

Fugitive Found Working For FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI has found a fugitive hiding under its badge.

Last month FBI agents threw out a dragnet for Manuel Roosevelt Grange, 25, wanted on a fugitive warrant issued in New York.

Tuesday the trap snapped shut. Where? In the cafeteria of the FBI identification division where Grange had been working as a dishwasher for a private firm that operates the dining room.

No one was more surprised about the arrest than Grange. "How in world did you find me?" he asked.

Algeria Claims Post Retaken

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algeria Wednesday claimed its troops had driven royal Moroccan army units out of the key Sahara frontier post of Hassi Beida in an "important offensive" that pushed the Moroccans back six miles.

A Radio Algiers broadcast said the Algerian force threw back a Moroccan counter - attack after recapturing of Hassi Beida, and that fighting was continuing in the area.

It was the first mention by Algeria of the battle which the Moroccans reported had begun Tuesday in the Sahara area where forces of the two nations have been waging a see-saw struggle for control of disputed frontier territory.

(Moroccan military officers Wednesday claimed the Algerian troops had been driven into combat in virtual "suicide squads" in desperate attempts to recapture Hassi Beida and Tinnjoub.)

Canadian Ship Unions Placed In Trusteeship

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada Wednesday placed five Canadian maritime unions under an unprecedented government trusteeship in a move to end labor violence on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway.

The move by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's Liberal government climaxed months of waterfront labor trouble and at least two attempts to arrive at a voluntary trusteeship for the unions.

The trusteeship is aimed mainly at the Seafarer's International Union of Canada and its president, U.S.-born Hal C. Banks. In protest against the trusteeship, some eastern members of the SIU have held a three-day work stoppage.

Three trustees will have full power over the maritime unions, representing more than 22,000 Canadian seamen, for three years. The trusteeship measure received parliamentary approval earlier this month.

Justice T. G. Norris recommended the trusteeship as a means of ending labor violence. Norris conducted a long government-sponsored study of the waterfront situation.

The Norris report placed major blame for waterfront trouble on the SIU and Banks. It recommended that Banks be ousted as SIU president.

Four of the five maritime unions, along with the Canadian Labor Congress, agreed to the trusteeship. The SIU, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO, balked.

Japan's Leader Acts To Tighten His Hold On Diet

TOKYO (AP) — Smiling and confident, Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda dissolved the lower house of the Diet and called for a national vote of confidence on his conservative, pro-American policies.

It was a cooly calculated political move Wednesday to increase his hold on the Diet at a time when the government is relatively free from serious attack by leftist opposition parties.

The opposition, in fact, was caught flatfooted without any major campaign issue even though it has known for weeks that dissolution was coming.

In the election, scheduled for Nov. 21, Ikeda's Liberal-Democratic party is expected to increase its margin in the 467-seat lower house. It now holds 286 seats, compared with the 137 held by the primary opposition, the Socialist party.

Ikeda likely will argue that his policy of maintaining friendly ties with the United States and other Western powers, while approaching Communist China only informally, is the only feasible course for Japan.

The Socialists are expected to stick with their old, somewhat timeworn arguments that Ikeda's policies are inflationary and that he is dragging Japan into dangerous international alignments.

With consumer prices rising about five per cent annually for the past three years, the Socialist charges of inflation might have some effect.

When elected in 1960, the 64-year-old Ikeda pledged to double Japan's gross national product in 10 years. He is on schedule and experts predict a 10 per cent growth this year.

Bank Business Beckons To Mercury Astronauts

HOUSTON (AP) — Alan B. Shepard Jr., America's first space man, indicates he and the six other Mercury astronauts want to eliminate an old controversy involving conflict of interest.

Shepard says banking may be the answer.

None of the astronauts are considered wealthy but the problem has plagued the seven since they invested in a motel near the Cape Canaveral, Fla., space capsule launching center.

In 1961, offers by a real estate developer and the Houston Homebuilders Association to give the astronauts free homes appeared near acceptance several times before space officials in Washington turned it down with expressions of regret.

Shepard and two Houston investors signed an option Tuesday to purchase controlling interest in a Harris County bank.

He said the other six Mercury astronauts may come into the deal, possibly by the time his group takes over control of the First National Bank in Baytown in January.

"Investment in banking appears to be completely remote from any possible conflicts-of-interest," he said. "This is one of the things that appeals to us."

NASA officials said in Washington, however, authority to participate in the Baytown bank project had been granted only to Shepard and that no other requests for approval were on hand.

Shepard said the Mercury group is trying to sell its interest in the Cape Colony Inn at Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Florida sources indicate each astronaut holds a 3 per cent, or $48,000, interest in the $1.6-million inn.

None of the astronauts has indicated any income of consequence except his normal salary and allowances, plus income from a contract for personal stories.

Cambridge To Push Retraining Program

The committee said it would recruit applicants for the program from all parts of Dorchester County, of which Cambridge is the seat, and try to locate counselors and tutors from among the county's teachers to train those persons eligible for the program.

Widow Held In $200,000 Bank Embezzlement

BALTIMORE (AP)-A 40-year-old widow was arrested Wednesday in Baltimore County on charges of embezzling between $150,000 and $200,000 over a 12-year period from the bank where she worked.

Mrs. Anna Louise Douglas, of Bradshaw, Md., was accused of taking the funds from the Kingsville Bank between December, 1950 and April, 1962, when the bank merged with the Union Trust Co. of Maryland.

Edwin R. Tully, special agent in charge of the FBI's Baltimore office, said Mrs. Douglas, an assistant cashier who has been with the bank since 1940, was charged with taking the money by submitting withdrawal slips from dormant savings accounts and later removing the ledger cards on which the withdrawals were recorded.

Mrs. Douglas was being held on $15,000 bond pending a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkhart Thursday morning. Tully said Mrs. Douglas has no children and lives with her parents in Bradshaw.

TOKYO (AP) — Smiling and confident, Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda dissolved the lower house of the Diet and called for a national vote of confidence on his conservative, pro-American policies.

It was a cooly calculated political move Wednesday to increase his hold on the Diet at a time when the government is relatively free from serious attack by leftist opposition parties.

The opposition, in fact, was caught flatfooted without any major campaign issue even though it has known for weeks that dissolution was coming.

In the election, scheduled for Nov. 21, Ikeda's Liberal-Democratic party is expected to increase its margin in the 467-seat lower house. It now holds 286 seats, compared with the 137 held by the primary opposition, the Socialist party.

Ikeda likely will argue that his policy of maintaining friendly ties with the United States and other Western powers, while approaching Communist China only informally, is the only feasible course for Japan.

The Socialists are expected to stick with their old, somewhat timeworn arguments that Ikeda's policies are inflationary and that he is dragging Japan into dangerous international alignments.

With consumer prices rising about five per cent annually for the past three years, the Socialist charges of inflation might have some effect.

When elected in 1960, the 64-year-old Ikeda pledged to double Japan's gross national product in 10 years. He is on schedule and experts predict a 10 per cent growth this year.

Widow Held In $200,000 Bank Embezzlement

BALTIMORE (AP)-A 40-year-old widow was arrested Wednesday in Baltimore County on charges of embezzling between $150,000 and $200,000 over a 12-year period from the bank where she worked.

Mrs. Anna Louise Douglas, of Bradshaw, Md., was accused of taking the funds from the Kingsville Bank between December, 1950 and April, 1962, when the bank merged with the Union Trust Co. of Maryland.

Edwin R. Tully, special agent in charge of the FBI's Baltimore office, said Mrs. Douglas, an assistant cashier who has been with the bank since 1940, was charged with taking the money by submitting withdrawal slips from dormant savings accounts and later removing the ledger cards on which the withdrawals were recorded.

Mrs. Douglas was being held on $15,000 bond pending a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Ernest Volkhart Thursday morning. Tully said Mrs. Douglas has no children and lives with her parents in Bradshaw.

By NEIL J. SMITH

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) —Despite the widely proclaimed boycott against against South Africa, the Afro-Asian and Communist nations are doing more trade with this country than ever before.

South Africa is building up profitable two-way trade with countries — including Red China—which are among its greatest international enemies.

Nations of the Afro-Asian and Communist blocs bought more than $19.6 million worth of South African goods in the first four months of 1963, according to figures released here. In return, South Africa bought from them more than $35 million worth of goods, ranging from heavy machinery to glassware and from tea and coffee to lace.

The hostile nations all subscribe publicly to the international movement to boycott South Africa economically, expel it from world bodies and close their skies to South African planes because of the government's apartheid policy of racial separation.

Yet their imports from South Africa increased by $4.48 million, or 16 per cent, in the first third of 1963. Their export to South Africa dropped slightly, but only because Pakistani-South African trade fell by more than half. For the rest of the hostile bloc, sales to South Africa were up by more than 20 per cent.

The strangest of South Africa's new trading partners is Communist China, which preaches against whites to the newly independent black states. Within South Africa it is reported to finance the Yui Chiu Chan secret society for the dual purpose of subverting the white regime and weaning non - white South African leftists from the Moscow line of peaceful coexistence with the West.

Red China evidently does not believe in mixing politics and business. Peking bought nothing from South Africa during 1962. But in the first four months of 1963 it purchased $5.88 million worth of South African foodstuffs, and the tempo of trade is increasing.

Hong Kong, where South Africa will shortly establish a trade commissioner's office, bought another $3.25 million worth of goods, much undoubtedly destined for the Chinese mainland.

At the same time South African imports from Communist China increased from $266,000 in 1962 to $1.48 million in the first third of this year.

It is significant that this upsurge of Red Chinese - South African trade has come at a time when Russia has broken off trade relations with this republic. Two-way trade between South Africa and the U.S.S.R. totaled $14 million in 1960. It was zero in 1962.

Large city markets of the United States handle some 50 varieties of vegetables throughout the year.

The Shroud Of Turin . . . Is It Winding Sheet Of Crucified Christ Or Gigantic Hoax?

NEW YORK (UPI)—A length of yellowed, mottled cloth measuring about four by 14 feet has become one of the most revered — and controversial — objects in Christendom.

Known through the world as the Shroud of Turin, the cloth is the property of former King Umberto of Italy. It is kept under lock and key in the Cathedral of Turin most of the time, being placed on view only on rare occasions.

Some people say this piece of cloth was the linen winding sheet described in the Gospels as the shroud placed around Jesus' body after the crucifixion. Some say it is a hoax. In the middle are those who believe it is an example of medieval artistry, created out of a sincere desire to produce a religious painting.

The cloth bears the likeness—some say in blood—of a gaunt, bearded man. Those who believe it to be the shroud of Jesus say that this is the print of his body. Photographs have been taken showing the imprint in detail and magnified many times, but no exhaustive scientific tests to date the cloth or analyze the markings have been permitted.

Into the controversy has stepped a Roman Catholic layman, John Walsh, who first became interested in the shroud as a high school boy about 20 years ago. He has written the first complete report on the artifact in this country in a book entitled "The Shroud," published by Random House.

The origins of the Shroud of Turin are not known. The piece of cloth came to light only about 600 years ago, in France. Where it was before that, no one knows for certain, but millions of words have been written about it and men have devoted their lives to trying to prove either that it was the winding sheet of the crucified Jesus or a gigantic hoax.

A priest who devoted considerable time to studying the cloth finally concluded it was a painting done in the Middle Ages with no intention on the part of the artist to represent it as a shroud. A French doctor gave much of his life to making experiments on cadavers and severed limbs before concluding that the markings on the cloth were indeed blood from the nail wounds and scourging inflicted on Jesus.

The various studies prompted Walsh to write that "...perhaps surprisingly, this investigation has not been an official concern of the Catholic Church, in whose nominal charge the shroud reposes. It has advanced almost haphazardly as the fascination of the problem lay firm hold on this man or that."

In the interview, Walsh, who quit a job as a book editor to devote his full time to writing this book, said many scientific tests have been proposed but none has been approved yet by the owner of the shroud, Umberto.

"I hope," Walsh said, "that the book will arouse enough interest in the controversy so that scientists of stature will ask the former king to submit the shroud to scientific testing in a laboratory under the necessary controls. If it is true that this was the shroud of Christ, it will be the greatest religious relic in the world. If it is not true, we must stop venerating it."

The Shroud Of Turin . . . Is It Winding Sheet Of Crucified Christ Or Gigantic Hoax?

NEW YORK (UPI)—A length of yellowed, mottled cloth measuring about four by 14 feet has become one of the most revered — and controversial — objects in Christendom.

Known through the world as the Shroud of Turin, the cloth is the property of former King Umberto of Italy. It is kept under lock and key in the Cathedral of Turin most of the time, being placed on view only on rare occasions.

Some people say this piece of cloth was the linen winding sheet described in the Gospels as the shroud placed around Jesus' body after the crucifixion. Some say it is a hoax. In the middle are those who believe it is an example of medieval artistry, created out of a sincere desire to produce a religious painting.

The cloth bears the likeness—some say in blood—of a gaunt, bearded man. Those who believe it to be the shroud of Jesus say that this is the print of his body. Photographs have been taken showing the imprint in detail and magnified many times, but no exhaustive scientific tests to date the cloth or analyze the markings have been permitted.

Into the controversy has stepped a Roman Catholic layman, John Walsh, who first became interested in the shroud as a high school boy about 20 years ago. He has written the first complete report on the artifact in this country in a book entitled "The Shroud," published by Random House.

The origins of the Shroud of Turin are not known. The piece of cloth came to light only about 600 years ago, in France. Where it was before that, no one knows for certain, but millions of words have been written about it and men have devoted their lives to trying to prove either that it was the winding sheet of the crucified Jesus or a gigantic hoax.

A priest who devoted considerable time to studying the cloth finally concluded it was a painting done in the Middle Ages with no intention on the part of the artist to represent it as a shroud. A French doctor gave much of his life to making experiments on cadavers and severed limbs before concluding that the markings on the cloth were indeed blood from the nail wounds and scourging inflicted on Jesus.

The various studies prompted Walsh to write that "...perhaps surprisingly, this investigation has not been an official concern of the Catholic Church, in whose nominal charge the shroud reposes. It has advanced almost haphazardly as the fascination of the problem lay firm hold on this man or that."

In the interview, Walsh, who quit a job as a book editor to devote his full time to writing this book, said many scientific tests have been proposed but none has been approved yet by the owner of the shroud, Umberto.

"I hope," Walsh said, "that the book will arouse enough interest in the controversy so that scientists of stature will ask the former king to submit the shroud to scientific testing in a laboratory under the necessary controls. If it is true that this was the shroud of Christ, it will be the greatest religious relic in the world. If it is not true, we must stop venerating it."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: Parents often write and ask me what makes some children turn out well and some badly. Why do some youngsters grow up to be responsible, loving, well-adjusted adults while others seem to lose their way?

There are not pat answers to these questions. Heredity is undeniably a factor but there is more and more evidence to support the theory that a child is the net result of what happens to him in his early years.

The following piece came in the mail from a reader. It was signed "Author Unknown," and I would like to share it with you.

If a child lives with criticism he learns to condemn.
If a child lives with hostility he learns to fight.
If a child lives with fear he learns to be apprehensive.
If a child lives with pity he learns to feel sorry for himself.
If a child lives with jealousy he learns to hate.
If a child lives with encouragement he learns to be confident.
If a child lives with praise he learns to be appreciative.
If a child lives with acceptance he learns to love.
If a child lives with approval he learns to like himself.
If a child lives with recognition he learns to have a goal.
If a child lives with fairness he learns justice.
If a child lives with honesty he learns what truth is.
If a child lives with friendliness he learns that the world is a nice place in which to live.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a Navy wife whose husband is on a Polaris submarine riding the sixth patrol. My man is gone for 14 weeks and is home for 10 weeks.

My two children are in school so they don't require much attention. I read, sew, clean, shop, bowl, swim, watch TV and go to the movies but still I get lonely, especially for male companionship.

It is no secret that some Navy wives run around. Everyone knows who these women are. In some cases their husbands know and are willing to forgive and forget. I don't think my husband would be so broad-minded (or lion-hearted) if I stepped out on him.

So far I've been 100% faithful but it's becoming increasingly difficult not to wink back — if you know what I mean. Please help. — A POLARIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: To cheat or not to cheat — that is the question which faces almost all married people at one time or another. Disenchantment, or in some case plain boredoom, causes much of the straying.

Thousands of sad and sorry people have written to tell me they paid a dear price for what they had meant to be only a little fun. The ability to play it straight pays handsome dividends in long-term profits, my dear. This is what separates the girls from the women.

DEAR ANN: I was disappointed in your all-out knock for dancing schools.

You said, "Take that 11-year-old kid out of that silly dancing school and put him in a Y.M.C.A. swimming class."

Just because the kids got into a kissing game at a party for the dancing class was no reason to bum-rap the school. Where were the parents when this foolishness was going on? It is their fault, not the fault of the dancing school.

Please set the record straight. Thank you. — STILL BOILING

DEAR BOILING: Dancing is fun, lovely, beautiful, esthetic, healthy, and I do it myself. But I am NOT in favor of 11-year-old boys taking lessons in ballroom dancing. It puts youngsters in an adult type of setting which is unnatural.

You are right, however, in saying the parents and not the school were to blame for that "Heaven or Hell" game. Those kids should not have been without adult supervision.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Fate Had Little To Do With It

Do you admire the willowy figures of models and movie stars and feel that fate was kinder to them, by giving them such slender, graceful hips and thighs?

Fate probably had little to do with it. Chances are that those you envy have just learned to handle themselves posturewise. You'll see what I'm talking about immediately, if you'll put on a swim suit or some brief shorts and stand in front of your mirror, feet together and your knees pulled back hard. See how the rigidity of this position causes a space to form between your thighs and between your calves?

Even if your legs are underweight, you can learn to prevent this space from becoming apparent, just by getting into the habit of standing correctly. The secret lies in keeping your knees relaxed at all times and standing with one foot placed so that the heel touches the instep of the other foot. Try it. See how the ugly space disappears at once!

If your thighs are too slender, correct posture is only part of the cure. Muscle-building exercise is the rest, and although it is not strenuous, it takes time and practice. Do the following exercises rhythmically and methodically to get the results you desire.

1. Lie on your right side on the floor. Support your head on your right arm. Put your left hand flat on the floor to balance yourself. Now, raise your left leg about six inches and then bring the right leg up to meet it. Repeat fifteen times and then turn over on your left side and try for another fifteen.

2. Face and stand three inches from a wall, with feet together and toes pointing straight ahead. Relax your knees. Now twist your knees outward and away from each other as you slowly bend them until they touch the wall. Repeat ten times at the start and then try to increase from day to day until you reach thirty.

When you can do this with ease, try raising your left leg about twelve inches and bring your right leg up to touch it. This time lower your right leg first and then let your left leg come down slowly to touch it. Repeat on the opposite side.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Fate Had Little To Do With It

Do you admire the willowy figures of models and movie stars and feel that fate was kinder to them, by giving them such slender, graceful hips and thighs?

Fate probably had little to do with it. Chances are that those you envy have just learned to handle themselves posturewise. You'll see what I'm talking about immediately, if you'll put on a swim suit or some brief shorts and stand in front of your mirror, feet together and your knees pulled back hard. See how the rigidity of this position causes a space to form between your thighs and between your calves?

Even if your legs are underweight, you can learn to prevent this space from becoming apparent, just by getting into the habit of standing correctly. The secret lies in keeping your knees relaxed at all times and standing with one foot placed so that the heel touches the instep of the other foot. Try it. See how the ugly space disappears at once!

If your thighs are too slender, correct posture is only part of the cure. Muscle-building exercise is the rest, and although it is not strenuous, it takes time and practice. Do the following exercises rhythmically and methodically to get the results you desire.

1. Lie on your right side on the floor. Support your head on your right arm. Put your left hand flat on the floor to balance yourself. Now, raise your left leg about six inches and then bring the right leg up to meet it. Repeat fifteen times and then turn over on your left side and try for another fifteen.

When you can do this with ease, try raising your left leg about twelve inches and bring your right leg up to touch it. This time lower your right leg first and then let your left leg come down slowly to touch it. Repeat on the opposite side.

2. Face and stand three inches from a wall, with feet together and toes pointing straight ahead. Relax your knees. Now twist your knees outward and away from each other as you slowly bend them until they touch the wall. Repeat ten times at the start and then try to increase from day to day until you reach thirty.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: Parents often write and ask me what makes some children turn out well and some badly. Why do some youngsters grow up to be responsible, loving, well-adjusted adults while others seem to lose their way?

There are not pat answers to these questions. Heredity is undeniably a factor but there is more and more evidence to support the theory that a child is the net result of what happens to him in his early years.

The following piece came in the mail from a reader. It was signed "Author Unknown," and I would like to share it with you.

If a child lives with criticism he learns to condemn.
If a child lives with hostility he learns to fight.
If a child lives with fear he learns to be apprehensive.
If a child lives with pity he learns to feel sorry for himself.
If a child lives with jealousy he learns to hate.
If a child lives with encouragement he learns to be confident.
If a child lives with praise he learns to be appreciative.
If a child lives with acceptance he learns to love.
If a child lives with approval he learns to like himself.
If a child lives with recognition he learns to have a goal.
If a child lives with fairness he learns justice.
If a child lives with honesty he learns what truth is.
If a child lives with friendliness he learns that the world is a nice place in which to live.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a Navy wife whose husband is on a Polaris submarine riding the sixth patrol. My man is gone for 14 weeks and is home for 10 weeks.

My two children are in school so they don't require much attention. I read, sew, clean, shop, bowl, swim, watch TV and go to the movies but still I get lonely, especially for male companionship.

It is no secret that some Navy wives run around. Everyone knows who these women are. In some cases their husbands know and are willing to forgive and forget. I don't think my husband would be so broad-minded (or lion-hearted) if I stepped out on him.

So far I've been 100% faithful but it's becoming increasingly difficult not to wink back — if you know what I mean. Please help. — A POLARIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: To cheat or not to cheat — that is the question which faces almost all married people at one time or another. Disenchantment, or in some case plain boredoom, causes much of the straying.

Thousands of sad and sorry people have written to tell me they paid a dear price for what they had meant to be only a little fun. The ability to play it straight pays handsome dividends in long-term profits, my dear. This is what separates the girls from the women.

DEAR ANN: I was disappointed in your all-out knock for dancing schools.

You said, "Take that 11-year-old kid out of that silly dancing school and put him in a Y.M.C.A. swimming class."

Just because the kids got into a kissing game at a party for the dancing class was no reason to bum-rap the school. Where were the parents when this foolishness was going on? It is their fault, not the fault of the dancing school.

Please set the record straight. Thank you. — STILL BOILING

DEAR BOILING: Dancing is fun, lovely, beautiful, esthetic, healthy, and I do it myself. But I am NOT in favor of 11-year-old boys taking lessons in ballroom dancing. It puts youngsters in an adult type of setting which is unnatural.

You are right, however, in saying the parents and not the school were to blame for that "Heaven or Hell" game. Those kids should not have been without adult supervision.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Motions Delay Start Of SFIC Mail Fraud Trial

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federal judge put off Wednesday the start of the Security Financial Insurance Corporation (SFIC) mail fraud trial to consider new motions in the case.

Chief District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen said he probably will rule Thursday on motions by three out-of-state defendants asking that they be tried separately and in a federal court outside Maryland.

Lawyers filed the motions on behalf of C. Oran Mensik, Chicago financier; Henry McGurren, Mensik's civil lawyer, and D. Spencer Grow, a real estate and savings and loan investor from Provo, Utah.

The fourth defendant, A. Gordon Boone, self-suspended speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, "is more than willing to take this jury and stand trial in this court," said his lawyer, G. C. A. Anderson.

But Maurice J. Walsh, attorney for McGurren, told the judge he questions whether his client could get a fair trial in Maryland.

The same question had been raised in pre-trial proceedings before the jury was selected. He brought it up again, said Walsh, in light of the fact that it took week-long questioning of about 136 prospects to select the jury of eight women and four men.

The questioning of many of those rejected, Walsh suggested, made clear that an atmosphere prejudicial to the defendants exists in Maryland.

Walsh referred to a Washington (Post) newspaper account in support of his contentinn. It quoted the court clerk as saying the jury-selection period for this trial was the longest he could remember in his 34 years around the courthouse.

Edward J. Callahan of Chicago and Edward P. Morgan, attorneys for Mensik and Grow, respectively, told Thomsen their motions were based on the same grounds.

A grand jury indicted the four present defendants and two others last March on charges of devising a scheme to defraud investors in about 15 savings and loan associations which were insured by Security Financial. The firm was then the only Maryland chartered corporation insuring such associations.

One of the other defendants is Charles F. Culver, former member of the Maryland House of Delegates, who has pleaded no contest and is awaiting sentence.

The sixth is J. Thomas Ellicott, who is appealing a mail fraud conviction involving other savings and loan operations and has been granted a separate trial in this case.

Maryland Briefs

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)— Howard R. Penniman, Georgetown University government professor, has been named head of a new six-man advisory council for the University of Maryland's Municipal Technical Advisory Service.

The service furnishes technical assistance to municipalities.

The other five members of the council are Dr. Robert H. Connery, Duke University professor; Dr. Lyle C. Fitch of New York's Institute of Public Administration; Jacob R. Ramsburg, former mayor of Frederick; Walter A. Scheiber, city manager of Rockville, Md. and Laurence N. Woodworth, mayor of Cheverly, Md.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Fairchild Stratos Corp. has been awarded a $1.6 million contract to build shields for the fronts of missiles.

The shields, called payload fairings, will be fabricated for Martin Co., a missile builder.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bendix Field Engineering Corp. at Owings Mill, Md., has been awarded a $20 million, two-year contract for operation of a hemispheric satellite tracking system.

The award, a renewal of a previous contract, was made by the Goddard Space Flight Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Under the contract, Bendix will operate, maintain and supply satellite tracking equipment, data acquisition stations and control and communication centers at Goddard.

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP)— The number of highway fatalities so far this year in Maryland rose to 465 Wednesday, seven more than a year ago, with the death of Francis Barber, 28, in St. Mary's County Hospital. He had been injured in an accident near Lexington Park four days earlier.

Malice Denied By Magistrate In Racial Case

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — A Baltimore County police magistrate denied Wednesday that malice prompted him to send two integrationists to a state mental hospital for examinatimn.

The magistrate, Howard L. Muhl Jr., said he took the action Monday night because the defendants had behaved abnormally.

The two — Keith C. Kern, 27, and David A. Smith, 18, both of Baltimore — were before Muhl in Catonsville Police Court on trespass charges stemming from an anti-segregation protest at a roller rink.

Muhl ordered the pair sent to Spring Grove State Hospital for psychiatric tests.

Within 12 hours, Judge John E. Raine Jr. of Baltimore County Circuit Court freed the two on $103 bail apiece. Raine said Muhl's action was unwarranted and "a gross perversion of legal processes."

"The conclusion is inescapable," Raine said, "that the magistrate acted out of rancor and with express malice."

Answering these charges Wednesday, Muhl said Kern and Smith had been before him a week ago on similar charges. At the time, he said, the two promised "they would keep the peace" until their jury trials came up.

Muhl said, "I noticed that their behavior was unusual, but in view of their request for a jury trial I did not have the opportunity to pursue this further."

When they were arrested a few days later, Muhl said, "a police sergeant and a patrolman advised me that the two men in question had been acting 'very abnormal' ".

Muhl said police gave him memoranda that detailed the defendants' "unusual behavior."

He said his decision to send the two to the mental hospital was "in the best interest of the defendants."

"It is blatantly untrue that my decision was based on the fact that the two were repeat violators, and I emphatically deny that I so stated at the court proceedings," Muhl said.

Free Wheeling

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)— When Ronny Grant, 13, decided to get in shape for football at South Park Junior High School, he went at it wholeheartedly. He and his brother Gary, 11, who went along just for the ride, rode their bicycles 225 miles to Garner Park near Concan, Tex.

The trip took four days, with the boys sleeping in parks and eating at hamburger stands along the way. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed A. Grant, brought them home by car.

Tawes Defers Decision On Clemency

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A spokesman for Gov. Tawes said Wednesday there will be no decision until at least Thursday on a clemency request for three young Negroes sentenced to death for the rape of a 16-year-old white girl.

No reason was given for delaying the decision, which Tawes had told newsmen he expected to make Wednesday.

Odell Smith, assistant to the governor, said the decision might be announced Thursday, "but I can't say for sure."

The three Montgomery County men — John Giles, 22, his brother James, 24, and Joseph E. Johnson, 25, were convicted of raping the girl July 20 1961, after breaking into a parked car and getting into a fight with her 21-year-old boy friend.

Attorneys asked Tawes for clemency at a special hearing last week at which they presented evidence which they said was uncovered after the trial.

They said the evidence relating to the girl's moral character and juvenile court record would have won a lighter sentence if the case could be tried again.

Space Age Invention Aids Newborn Infants

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The same principle that makes it possible for the X15 rocket plane to fly at speeds of 2,000 miles an hour without its windshield fogging has been used to develop a cradle warmer for newborn infants. The warmer could make receiving blankets obsolete.

The warmer was developed by the Sierracin Corp., a small firm in nearby Burbank, which had built the X15's windshield with an internal heating system.

Inventor of the cradle warmer, William H. Lawson Jr., said tests have been encouraging enough to warrant building of more units.

A prototype of the warmer currently is being tested by Dr. Thomas K. Oliver, director of the University of Washington's Nurseries and Premature Center. Other models will be turned over to the Los Angeles County General Hospital, the Loma Linda School of Medicine and the Underwriters' Laboratory.

The warmer is simply a clear plastic with an inside conductive coating that is heated by electric current.

The cover maintains a constant temperature in the cradle during the critical hours following the infant's birth. This constancy is especially important in the case of premature infants.

At present a receiving blanket is used to help the infant maintain body heat. If the infant's body heat drops too rapidly he goes into shock.

Lawson said another advantage of the cradle warmer is that a baby may be examined safely or even cleaned and checked without use of a single blanket.

"Doctors told me there is a wide need for such a device, both in hospitals and in the home," Lawson said.

To Ship Whisky

LONDON, England (UPI) — While the United States and Canada propose to satisfy the appetites of hungry Soviets with huge shipments of grain, England plans to meet the demands of thirsty Russians with 1,000 cases of Scotch whisky.

Mrs. Terry Sklar, director of a wholesale wine agency here, said Wednesday she is negotiating an exchange of 1,000 cases of vodka from Russia for the shipment of whisky from England.

The periwinkel is known as vinca minor.

Spanish Ship Sinks

PENZANCE, England (UPI) —A 682-ton Spanish cargo ship, the Juan Ferrer, sank off the rocky Cornish coast early Wednesday.

It was feared that 11 members of the reported 15-man crew may have drowned. Four crewmen, including the captain, were reported rescued.

It was believed the ship struck a rock at low tide and sank immediately.

People In Italian Town Studied By University

STEFANACONI, Italy (UPI) —Few people who live here are aware of it, but everything of consequence that happens in their little hamlet is watched and tabulated thousands of miles away in classrooms at the University of Massachusetts.

Students and professors at the University know which families own television sets, which ones farm and which own shops, how much money is in the local banks and what the mayor is planning to do next week.

Stefanaconi is a village of less than 2,500 population down south near the toe of the Italian boot. It is one of many places in the south that have been losing population in recent years and that, for more than one reason, is why it is getting so much attention in Massachusetts.

Among those who left here were a couple named Lopreato, whose 15-year-old son Joseph grew up to be a sociology professor at the University of Massachusetts. After coming back here on a vacation one year, he selected Stefanaconi as a typical town for studying underdevelopment in the Mediterranean area.

When he comes here now, he spends long hours playing cards with the villagers, talking with childhood friends, walking about the village and questioning farmhands. They all think he's just seeking diversion from the cares of a professorial life.

But Lopreato is gathering research material on his home town and he already has published a number of articles about it in sociological journals.

Stefanaconi has been undergoing some import changes since Lopreato began studying it.

It used to have only a clay road running through it, muddy in winter and dusty in summer. Now it has a well-kept, asphalt-paved highway.

Television antennae are sprouting from rooftops. Where there were only three cars before, there are now 30 and an uncounted number of motorscooters. At the village cemetery, families build marble chapels that cost as much as a medium-priced Italian car.

Instead of the usual southern diet of bread and onions, people eat meat now at least once a week, and pasta two or three times.

Despite these outward signs of prosperity, people continue to flee to the industrial north or to other countries, and half the farmland around the village lies idle.

In 1951 Stafanaconi had 3,155 residents. Ten years later it had 2,500 officially, but in fact even less because many emigrants were still listed as residents.

Lopreato says people leave not merely to escape poverty but also to get away from the strict and often stifling social conventions of the south, which are little changed from the Middle Ages and impose particularly severe taboos on women.

The explanation for the newfound prosperity of the village, Lopreato says, is that the emigrants are sending money back to members of their family who stayed at home.

The townspeople once used this money to pay off debts and buy land. Now they have lost faith in the land, which never did produce much anyway, and are either saving for old age or buying the symbols of good living.

Paper money is an invention of the Chinese and the innovation is believed to date from the T'ang dynasty of the seventh century A. D.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

HOMEFRONT, U. S. A. (UPI) —Blame the New Frontier and its movement to make us string along with things musical — in the name of the cultural revolution.

Blame all the people who chorus that music hath charm and music soothes the savage beast, and once you discover musical magic you can throw away the tranquilizers.

Well, at any rate, all these pressures about music became so great — from Washington and other places — we could no longer resist. We bought an electrical organ for our living room — and also for the family.

One week after it's arrival, I'm convinced what this nation needs is a four or five passenger organ.

The nation needs, at the same time, a society that appreciates the noise that comes out of an organ when an entire family—four of us—six to 74 years of age — tries to play it all at once.

There are five of us when you count the 55-pound poodle who pads on a foot pedal now and then — throwing in a discordant bass note.

Unless we get a society capable of drumming up interest in the occasional harmonious notes produced when a beginning organist practices, real estate values in our neighborhood are going to slump.

I can tell the natives are getting restless. Sick and tired they are of wearing ear plugs to wall off the noises coming from our living room windows at any hour of the day or night. Mostly night.

Maybe instead of complaining about the painful adjustment ear drums must make during the family's musical orientation, I ought to count the blessings involved in this addition.

By blessings, I refer, of course, to the fact that the thing has so many octaves. If it didn't we all couldn't practice our little tunes simultaneously.

But that's not all. If it didn't have such a nice batch of octaves, all spaced just well enough to allow elbow room when we're all practicing, we all couldn't practice our music lessons at one time.

I call the lessons musical group therapy. The teacher doesn't know what to call what happens when he tries to teach us all at once. I'm secretly grateful no one calls the police.

Now that we've been practicing this thing for aweek, we're prepared to give a concert. Child, 6, plays "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" — with his eyes closed, demonstrating a mastery over something. I'm working on the "lost chord." Haven't found it yet.

Father, after practicing until 2 a.m. one morning, perfected "Long, Long ago." Aunt, 74, a fore-sighted type, has "Jingle Bells" down pat.

France Will Have A-Bombers In 1964

PARIS (UPI) — France's supersonic Mirage IV bomber equipped with atomic bombs will enter service next year, Defense Minister Pierre Messmer told a national defense commission of the National Assembly here Tuesday.

He was speaking before the commission on the defense budget for 1964.

President Charles de Gaulle's independent nuclear force will become operational when the first Mirage IV bombers come off production lines toward the end of the year and can be equipped with A-bombs.

They also need American tanker plans to give them strategic range.

Messmer also told the commission that "studies for the nuclear force are continuing in a satisfactory manner."

This was understood to refer to the study and development of French rockets which will carry nuclear warheads.

The mere inhaling of garlic will impart that garlic flavor to cow's milk, according to the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Business Tabs

NEW YORK (UPI)—A near-record 45.6 million kilowatts of new generating capacity were on order and scheduled for operation in the contiguous United States, the Edison Electric Institute reported.

The 45.6 million kilowatts, a six-year high, consist of 82 per cent thermal and 18 per cent hydraulic. Edison Electric also noted that 9.5 million kilowatts of generating capacity were put into operation in the first nine months of 1963.

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Humble Oil & Refining Co. announced the election of Carl E. Reistle Jr. as chairman and chief executive officer.

Reistle, president of Humble since 1961, succeeds Morgan J. Davis, who will retire at the end of October after 38 years of service, the last six of which were spent as the company's chief executive.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Avco Corp. announced its ordnance division at Richmond, Ind., recently obtained new military contract awards totalling $15.65 million from all three armed services for development and production of ammunition, tactical weapons and fuse systems.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Business in the electrical manufacturing industry this year has improved about 7 per cent over last year, Joseph F. Miller, managing director of the National Electrical Manufacturing Assn., said Tuesday.

The executive told delegates at NEMA's 37th annual meeting that 1962 sales totaled $25 billion and that based on first half results this year he expected sales to reach $26.7 billion by the close of 1963.

He predicted 1964 volume at a record $27.4 billion, "provided business maintains its present pace."

Buddhist Nun Disavows Son

SAIGON (UPI)—Buddhist Nun Dieu Hue, 67, who once pledged to burn herself to death to protest alleged religious discrimination, has disavowed her son, an official observer at the United Nations, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The disavowal was made in a letter. Buddhist sources said the letter was authentic.

In it, the aged Nun derides her son, Professor Buu Hoi, as a traitor. He is one of Viet Nam's best known scientists and is serving as temporary observer at the United Nations for the South Vietnamese government. He is accredited as South Viet Nam's ambassador to several West African countries.

"I feel ashamed because Professor Buu Hoi has betrayed me, betrayed Buddhism and above all betrayed the truth of what has happened in Viet Nam," the signed letter said.

"Therefore I declare to the United Nations and the whole world that Mr. Buu Hoi is no longer my son. I ask people here and abroad to understand my sorrow," the letter said.

Archeologists have dug up pieces of plank believed to be 10 thousand years old.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK

HOMEFRONT, U. S. A. (UPI) —Blame the New Frontier and its movement to make us string along with things musical — in the name of the cultural revolution.

Blame all the people who chorus that music hath charm and music soothes the savage beast, and once you discover musical magic you can throw away the tranquilizers.

Well, at any rate, all these pressures about music became so great — from Washington and other places — we could no longer resist. We bought an electrical organ for our living room — and also for the family.

One week after it's arrival, I'm convinced what this nation needs is a four or five passenger organ.

The nation needs, at the same time, a society that appreciates the noise that comes out of an organ when an entire family—four of us—six to 74 years of age — tries to play it all at once.

There are five of us when you count the 55-pound poodle who pads on a foot pedal now and then — throwing in a discordant bass note.

Unless we get a society capable of drumming up interest in the occasional harmonious notes produced when a beginning organist practices, real estate values in our neighborhood are going to slump.

I can tell the natives are getting restless. Sick and tired they are of wearing ear plugs to wall off the noises coming from our living room windows at any hour of the day or night. Mostly night.

Maybe instead of complaining about the painful adjustment ear drums must make during the family's musical orientation, I ought to count the blessings involved in this addition.

By blessings, I refer, of course, to the fact that the thing has so many octaves. If it didn't we all couldn't practice our little tunes simultaneously.

But that's not all. If it didn't have such a nice batch of octaves, all spaced just well enough to allow elbow room when we're all practicing, we all couldn't practice our music lessons at one time.

I call the lessons musical group therapy. The teacher doesn't know what to call what happens when he tries to teach us all at once. I'm secretly grateful no one calls the police.

Now that we've been practicing this thing for aweek, we're prepared to give a concert. Child, 6, plays "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" — with his eyes closed, demonstrating a mastery over something. I'm working on the "lost chord." Haven't found it yet.

Father, after practicing until 2 a.m. one morning, perfected "Long, Long ago." Aunt, 74, a fore-sighted type, has "Jingle Bells" down pat.

France Will Have A-Bombers In 1964

PARIS (UPI) — France's supersonic Mirage IV bomber equipped with atomic bombs will enter service next year, Defense Minister Pierre Messmer told a national defense commission of the National Assembly here Tuesday.

He was speaking before the commission on the defense budget for 1964.

President Charles de Gaulle's independent nuclear force will become operational when the first Mirage IV bombers come off production lines toward the end of the year and can be equipped with A-bombs.

They also need American tanker plans to give them strategic range.

Messmer also told the commission that "studies for the nuclear force are continuing in a satisfactory manner."

This was understood to refer to the study and development of French rockets which will carry nuclear warheads.

The mere inhaling of garlic will impart that garlic flavor to cow's milk, according to the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

UNITED NATIONS—This week, October 20-26, is United Nations Week — a time set aside each year for the purpose of dramatizing the accomplishments of this world organization. In the 18 years of its existance this second trial of international collaboration for world peace, successor to the League of Nations, has added many pages to its history which include many facets of its international activities, running the gamut of security, economic, social and cultural matters.

While the U. N. has sailed on some rough seas in these eighteen years, weathering criticisms and calumniations, we must recognize that at this time we have nothing better than this co-operative effort on the part of the nations of the world to pave the road to peace.

For dependent and colonial peoples the U. N. has carried a beacon of hope and a plea for equality unknown to the past degrations of slavery and exploitation.

For the improvement of mankind through international economic and social cooperation it has afforded new insights and bold projects captivating the imagination on the limitless possibilities of improving health, nutrition, employment, education, science, and morals through international organization. All these things enrich the soil and the climate of international peace and security.

For the deadly quarrels of nation-states the United Nations has provided a means of accomodation, a permanent forum, and a permanent tribunal; it has offered to all disputants its good offices and has successfully driven every state, large or small, to the bar of world opinion.

The U. N. is an international organization — not a world government: as such, it bumps along the twisting, rocky, perilous trail first opened in the nineteenth century. Given a pliable, multilateral treaty for a constitution, an expert international Secretariat, and the honest will of nation-states to work together for peace, the United Nations can make the 20th Century a golden era of civilization.

MAKERS FOR MONOCACY — Everyone remembers the Alamo — but few people remember the Battle of Monoacy. It was not of the major engagements of the Civil War, but it was a striking military operation which probably saved the city of Washington from capture by Confederate troops.

The Monocacy Battlefield, at a point on the Monocacy River between routes 240 and 355 just outside of Frederick, Md., lies unnoticed by thousands of motorists who pass the site daily. Only a few markers call attention to the important historic event which took place there on July 9, 1864.

The battle began about two in the afternoon. It lasted only three hours, but it was a hard fought engagement involving some 20,000 troops and costing the lives of about 2000 men. General Jubal Early and his Confederate troops won a notable victory, beating the Union troops back toward Baltimore and leaving the road to Washington open.

However, the 24-hour delay caused by this battle, gave General Grant time to re-inforce his defenses around the Nation's Capitol City. Had the Battle of Monocacy not taken place, General Early with his seasoned troops and the 50 pieces of artillery would, in all probability, have taken the city of Washington.

I shall introduce a bill in the House of Representatives which would authorize the President to issue a proclamation designating July 9, 1964, as Monocacy Battle Centennial in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of this important battle.

I have also suggested to the Maryland State Roads Commission that historical markers be erected along this route prior to the Centennial date next summer. I hope the citizens of Maryland will cooperate with the Maryland Civil War Centennial Commission and the Frederick County Civil War Centennial, Inc., in making this 100th anniversary a memorable day.

Seven Youths Enlist In Navy

Seven youths have enlisted in the Navy this month, according to Chief Elmo Bollman, local recruiter.

They are Homer Richard and Harold Hardinger, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hardinger, RD 3, Bedford Road; Ralph Andrew Knieriem Jr., son of Mrs. Mary E. Knieriem, 712 Sylvan Avenue; Ronald Harrison Daniels, son of Mrs. Ruth E. Daniels, 619 Baker Street; Barton William Barnstricker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Barnstricker, 1105 Virginia Avenue; Eugene Clifford Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford W. Ross, 210 Milton Place and Millard Clarkson Dunn, son of George E. Dunn, Lonaconing.

All recruits were sent to Great Lakes, Ill. Training Center except Dunn who will train at San Diego, Calif.

Farm Week Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., proposed legislation Wednesday to designate an annual "National Farmers Week," to begin on the first Sunday of April each year "to call to the attention of the American people the farmer's contribution to the strength and resources of our country."

To Publish Book

NEW YORK (UPI)—The book Ernest Hemingway was working on at the time of his death will be published by Charles Scribner's Sons next spring.

"A Moveable Feast" is described as a series of sketches of friends during Hemingway's years in Paris in the 1920's. It is the first new Hemingway work to be published since his death July 2, 1961.

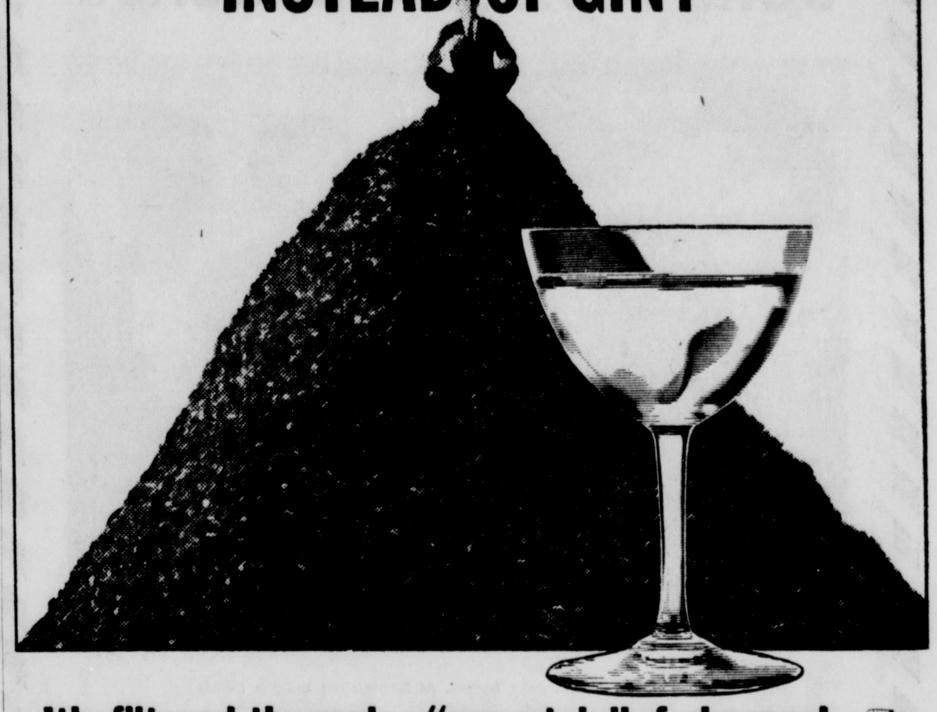
WHY SMIRNOFF INSTEAD OF GIN?



It's filtered through a "mountain" of charcoal

Smirnoff makes the driest of Martinis because it's the dryest of liquors. Every drop is filtered through 7 tons of activated charcoal. This "black magic" removes most of the congeners. No wonder Smirnoff is the world's finest liquor; crystal clear and smooth with no noticeable liquor taste or odor. Today Smirnoff already outsells every brand of gin in America. Isn't it time you tried it?

Farm Week Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., proposed legislation Wednesday to designate an annual "National Farmers Week," to begin on the first Sunday of April each year "to call to the attention of the American people the farmer's contribution to the strength and resources of our country."

To Publish Book

NEW YORK (UPI)—The book Ernest Hemingway was working on at the time of his death will be published by Charles Scribner's Sons next spring.

"A Moveable Feast" is described as a series of sketches of friends during Hemingway's years in Paris in the 1920's. It is the first new Hemingway work to be published since his death July 2, 1961.

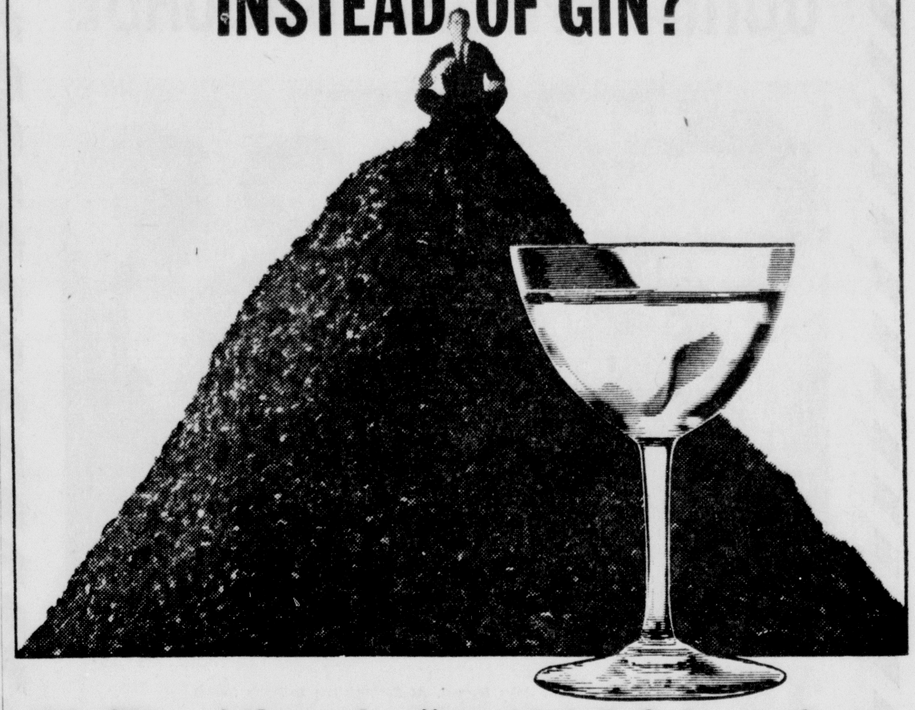
WHY SMIRNOFF INSTEAD OF GIN?



It's filtered through a "mountain" of charcoal

Smirnoff makes the dryest of Martinis because it's the dryest of liquors. Every drop is filtered through 7 tons of activated charcoal. This "black magic" removes most of the congeners. No wonder Smirnoff is the world's finest liquor; crystal clear and smooth with no noticeable liquor taste or odor. Today Smirnoff already outsells every brand of gin in America. Isn't it time you tried it?

Church Records Give Up Secrets Of Inquisition

By JAIME PLENN

MEXICO CITY (UPI) —Secrets of the Spanish Inquisition, including the Jewish origin of many Latin American families, are being revealed here to scholars as a result of greater accessibility of the Roman Catholic church tribunal's records of several hundred years ago.

The newly available material, provided with cooperation of Mexican authorities, was described here by a North American scholar, Dr. Seymour Liebman, formerly of Miami, Fla., who has been engaged in research for several years on a projected "History of the Jews in Mexico."

Liebman paid tribute to earlier scholars who have dug into Inquisition records in various places, including Spain and other European countries, in South America and Mexico. He also praised the scribes of the Inquisition, whose records, he said, "are almost fantastic in the wealth of detail and the completeness of some of the trials."

Thousands of human dramas, "more exciting than any work of fiction," are to be found in the Inquisition records, Liebman said.

He cited one unusually interesting story, that of Francisco Maldonado de Silva, who was baptized as a Catholic but became a Jew and then discovered that his father, who practiced the Catholic faith, had been born a Jew, had been brought before the Inquisition as a heretic and released as a penitent, with a monetary fine.

Young de Silva was born about 1593 and lived in Chile and Peru, Liebman said. He then told of the influence exerted on de Silva by a book written in Spain in the 15th century by a Jew who had become a Catholic.

"That man in Spain," Liebman said, "was Rabbi Solomon ha-Levi, who had voluntarily embraced Christianity to further his personal ambitions, according to researchers. He adopted the name of Pablo de Sant a Maria, became a member of the Council of State in Spain, and co-regent for the Infante, Juan II."

Seeking to convince other Jews to follow his example, Pablo de Santa Maria wrote a book, "Scrutinium Scripturorum," which bore his title of Bishop of Burges. In addition, he also was papal delegate to the Spanish court.

When Francisco Meldonado de Silva — who became a leading surgeon in Peru eventually —read the "Scrutinium Scripturum," at the age of 18, he was deeply disturbed and, instead of finding confirmation for his Catholic faith, he felt stronger about Judaism, Liebman said.

"He was arrested in 1627 and incarcerated until 1639, when he was burned at the stake."

WHEAT SALE TO RUSSIA: OBJECTIONS—The proposed sale of wheat to Russia is, in my opinion, against the best interest of this nation. Would it not be advantageous to deny Russia access to wheat and thereby force the Kremlin to divert more labor into farm production? Obviously, the Kremlin prefers to pay cash for wheat overseas rather than make such a diversion of labor; the Reds don't want to take manpower out of their armaments plants and heavy industry, the areas where they are fiercely trying to catch up with the United States. It is the grand design of the Kremlin to overtake us in these areas. By allowing the Russians to buy wheat over here, are we not helping them? I believe that if we aid Russia in its economical warfare, we are asking for trouble.

Even if the Russians paid more for American wheat than Americans have had to pay, I'd be inclined to be against the sale, as a matter of honor and principle. But the Russians would pay the "world price," which is 60 cents a bushel less than our domestic price, supported by U. S. subsidies. This means that every bushel of wheat that the Soviets buy here will cost our taxpayers at least 60 cents.

The subsidy thing will have run the full circle when we start subsidizing Communism- To save Communism from Communism? By some twisted logic, the Administration is saying that we will sell wheat (and possibly other strategic materials) to Russia, but never, no never, to Cuba! Isn't a Communist a Communist? Secretary of Commerce Hodges told a news conference that there was really no way of guaranteeing that Communist Cuba wouldn't benefit from the wheat deal. He admitted that it is quite possible for Moscow to use American wheat for its domestic purposes and export some of its own wheat crop to Cuba.

If we open the door to the sale of wheat to the Communists, is it not reasonable to expect the Administration to start providing Khrushchev with other strategic materials and tools—the better to bury us?

A question arises: Will the Administration insist upon cash-on-the-barrelhead or will it permit the sale of wheat on credit! The latter would pose a problem, for the law prohibits any credit sale to countries delinquent in debt payments to the United States and Russia owes the United States more than $2,600,000,000, which she refuses to pay.

We are presuming that the President intends to ignore the Agriculture Act of 1961 which forbids the selling of any subsidized commodity to Communist countries, and that the Attorney General will permit this disregard for the intent of Congress, the law-making branch of the Government.

I have cosponsored a resolution calling for an investigation of the wheat deal, and I am sure there will be an investigation, and a thorough one.

NUCLEAR REACTOR TO BE AT ABERDEEN—This past week I asked the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which I am a member, to reinstate Aberdeen, Maryland, as the location for the installation of the vitally important Nuclear Pulse Reactor, and the committee agreed to do so. The Aberdeen location, recommended by the Army, had been dropped by the House of Representafives through a maneuver by New York representatives who wanted the reactor for their own State. I pointed out to my committee the advantages of the Aberdeen location. These had been brought out by my questioning of General William T. Ryder, Army Director of Special Weapons, at a prior hearing. Locating the reactor at the Aberdeen Proving Ground would give the project the advantage of already established associated facilities. We were able to show that considerable money would be saved by locating the reactor at Aberdeen. The reactor would be used for testing weapons systems which must be able to operate in a nuclear environment. The time element was a persuasive point in favor of Aberdeen. Construction of the reactor at Aberdeen rather than at other suggested locations would save many months' time—and the signing of the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty makes it vitally important that our laboratory testing program be accelerated. Nearly everyone is convinced that it is in our best national interest to pursue with all possible speed the weapons testing permitted under the treaty.

AUTUMN GLORY—This is the time of year when our oldtimers speak of "the peak." They are referring to the precise time when the autumn colors in the foliage are at their best. I'm not an expert, but surely this is "the peak!" Have you ever seen more beautiful coloring than is now flamboyantly displayed on our Maryland hillsides. Whether driving, hiking, or just looking out the window, we are awed by the sheer splendor. Surely, Maryland is the most beautiful spot in all the world, particularly now in its autumn glory.

"IF WE DESIRE TO SECURE PEACE—"—"There is a rank due to the United States among nations which will be withheld, if not absolutely lost, by the reputation of weakness. If we desire to avoid insult, we must be able to repel it; if we desire to secure peace, one of the most powerful instruments of our rising prosperity, it must be known that we are at all times ready for war." —George Washington, addressing the U. S. Congress, Dec. 3, 1793.

STEEL MILL FOR INDIA DESPITE CONGRESS — President Kennedy's Ambassador to India, Chester Bowles, has told the people of India how they can defeat the will of the U. S. Congress without losing out on foreign-aid hand-outs. In the Foreign Aid Bill, a stipulation was inserted to prevent our aid dollars from being used by Nehru to build a proposed government-owned steel plant in Bokaro, India. As the American people are against the socialistic principle of nationalized industry, their representatives in Washington voted to forbid our foreign aid from being used to advance socialism elsewhere. However, Ambassador Chester Bowles, speaking in Calcutta the other day, told the Indian people that they could get the government-owned steel plant and still get the American foreign aid dollars. Bowles said that the Congressional directive could be skirted by releasing U. S. aid funds for smaller Indian projects that could be financed by India's foreign exchange, which process would, in turn, release funds for construction of the Bokaro plant.

"MEDICARE" KILLED FOR THIS YEAR — Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee has announced that no bill providing compulsory medical care under the Social Security system would be acted upon by his committee this year. Thus, one of the President's pet programs is put in moth balls by a leader in his own party. But the "Medicare" plan has not been abandoned by its sponsors.

No one denies that medical care is a problem for many older Americans. But long strides have been made toward solutions without Government help. More than 125,000,000 Americans have insurance for both hospital and surgical expenses. This coverage is broader and more flexible than the proposed "Medicare". Though private insurance protection is still incomplete, the gap will not be closed by "Medicare", with its limited hospital benefits for Social Security workers and nothing at all for the millions outside the Social Security system. The "Medicare" plan would add appreciably to the already high Social Security tax, an increase without justification in view of the fact that "Medicare" would not include medicines, surgery, doctor bills, or any of numerous other necessities.

The Kerr-Mills program is more generous. Kerr-Mills is a Federal-State fund-matching program designed for medically needy persons over 65. A survey shows that already two-thirds of the States have adopted Kerr-Mills programs.

In considering the need of medical aid for older persons, we cannot overlook the fact that an increasing number of Americans are showing themselves both willing and able to handle their own individual problems without Washington aid.

Counseling Session Today

The fourth and final retirement counseling session being sponsored here by the Cumberland Post Office for area federal employes will be held today at 7:45 p. m. at City Hall auditorium.

Subjects to be discussed tonight are general health problems and compensation for on-the-job injuries.

Paul L. Prewitt, chief of Branch of Claims and Branch of Investigations, Bureau of Employes Compensation, will speak on compensation. He has worked with the Bureau since 1940 with the exception of three years during which time he served with the Army during World War II.

Under his supervision the examining staff of the bureau adjudicates claims of employes who work in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, the District of Columbia and outside the United States.

General health problems will be discussed by a local physician.

A question and answer period will follow both talks according to William B. Orndorff, acting postmaster.

Liquor Licensees, Minor Are Fined In Illegal Sale

Licensees for a LaVale liquor store were fined $300 yesterday for a sale to a minor and the 19-year-old LaVale boy was fined $50 for possession of alcoholic beverages by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The $300 fine was levied against William A. Walker, Jonathan R. Jenkins and Maurice L. Goodman, licensees of Potomac Liquors Inc., 925 National Highway. They pleaded guilty to the illegal sale to a minor on October 5.

Samuel Dale Smith, 19, of LaVale, was fined $50 under a relatively new state law which makes possession of alcoholic beverages by a minor an offense.

Lodge 90, FOP Meeting Sunday

Lodge 90, Fraternal Order of Police, will meet on Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in the Public Safety Building in Frostburg.

Karl Hetz, who will be in charge of the meeting, said special business will be transacted.

Portmess

pleted a 10-year sentence, Leslie admitted.

Other state witnesses were City Police Officers Joseph Nelson and Royce Clayton and Tfc. Bernard J. Chabot, criminal investigator for the State Police. The city policemen related how they had found the four men in a car on Davidson Street just off Henderson Avenue about 6 a.m. May 12 and discovered the loot from the school when Schultz opened the trunk.

Tfc. Chabot testified that he found the same morning that a window on the west side of the Cresaptown School was open about 18 inches and the lock had been broken. At the principal's office on the second floor, he found that the locked wooden door had been forced open and a closet ransacked. He acknowledged on cross-examination that no usable fingerprints were found in the school.

Judge Cobey overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal after the state rested its case.

Space Play Scheduled For Pupils In County

"The Mystery Rocket," an exciting space play for children, will be presented at six Allegany County public schools under the sponsorship of the County Council of Parent and Teachers Associations.

The play, the first of two live, theatrical productions, will be presented to the youngsters during the school year by a professional cast of actors and actresses.

The fantasy of the future will be presented by the Merry Magic Players of Faye Parker's Pittsburgh Children's Theatre. Six children, chosen from local schools, will take part in the production.

Included in the cast will be Don Porter Beck, Thomas Karl, Joni Kaye, Charles Stumpf and David Russell who just completed a summer session at the Mountain Playhouse in Jennerstown.

George Ewing, production chairman for the council, lists the following school dates for the play:

October 29, Beall High School, 9:30 a.m., Mt. Savage School, 1:15 p.m.; October 30, Bruce High School, 9:30 a.m., Central Elementary, 1:15 p.m.; October 31, Fort Hill High School, 9:45 a.m. and 1:15 p.m.

Mr. Ewing explained that these productions provide children of the county public schools with the educational experience of seeing a live theatrical production which has been professionally produced and directed and is especially tailored for youngsters.

'Y' Has Openings In Dance Class

Central YMCA still has openings in its modern ballroom dancing class which is being taught by Mrs. Peggy Mackert.

The 10-week course is now in its fifth week with 20 persons taking part in the instruction. Classes are held each Friday at 7 p.m. and a small fee is paid at each session.

Steel Inquiry Reflected In Mixed Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street apparently had some second thoughts about the government's action against the steel industry Wednesday and stocks closed narrowly mixed on moderately active trading.

Stocks broke sharply Tuesday on the news that a federal grand jury had subpoenaed several major steel companies concerning their recent round of price increases.

However, prices bounded up at the opening today, led by steels. It then became apparent that the financial community was turning a little more cautious in its judgment as the market turned into a narrow and mixed affair. Most prices backed and filled through the remainder of the session.

Dow - Jones industrial average finished off 0.73, rails 0.22 and utilities 0.09. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index managed to close up 0.04.

Trading totaled 5,830,000 shares compared with 6,420,000 in the previous session. Of the 1,315 issues traded, 527 declined and 490 advanced — 28 to new 1963 highs and 21 to new lows.

Counseling Session Today

The fourth and final retirement counseling session being sponsored here by the Cumberland Post Office for area federal employes will be held today at 7:45 p. m. at City Hall auditorium.

Subjects to be discussed tonight are general health problems and compensation for on-the-job injuries.

Paul L. Prewitt, chief of Branch of Claims and Branch of Investigations, Bureau of Employes Compensation, will speak on compensation. He has worked with the Bureau since 1940 with the exception of three years during which time he served with the Army during World War II.

Under his supervision the examining staff of the bureau adjudicates claims of employes who work in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, the District of Columbia and outside the United States.

General health problems will be discussed by a local physician.

A question and answer period will follow both talks according to William B. Orndorff, acting postmaster.

Liquor Licensees, Minor Are Fined In Illegal Sale

Licensees for a LaVale liquor store were fined $300 yesterday for a sale to a minor and the 19-year-old LaVale boy was fined $50 for possession of alcoholic beverages by Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The $300 fine was levied against William A. Walker, Jonathan R. Jenkins and Maurice L. Goodman, licensees of Potomac Liquors Inc., 925 National Highway. They pleaded guilty to the illegal sale to a minor on October 5.

Samuel Dale Smith, 19, of LaVale, was fined $50 under a relatively new state law which makes possession of alcoholic beverages by a minor an offense.

Lodge 90, FOP Meeting Sunday

pleted a 10-year sentence, Leslie admitted.

Other state witnesses were City Police Officers Joseph Nelson and Royce Clayton and Tfc. Bernard J. Chabot, criminal investigator for the State Police. The city policemen related how they had found the four men in a car on Davidson Street just off Henderson Avenue about 6 a.m. May 12 and discovered the loot from the school when Schultz opened the trunk.

Tfc. Chabot testified that he found the same morning that a window on the west side of the Cresaptown School was open about 18 inches and the lock had been broken. At the principal's office on the second floor, he found that the locked wooden door had been forced open and a closet ransacked. He acknowledged on cross-examination that no usable fingerprints were found in the school.

Judge Cobey overruled a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal after the state rested its case.

Space Play Scheduled For Pupils In County

"The Mystery Rocket," an exciting space play for children, will be presented at six Allegany County public schools under the sponsorship of the County Council of Parent and Teachers Associations.

The play, the first of two live, theatrical productions, will be presented to the youngsters during the school year by a professional cast of actors and actresses.

The fantasy of the future will be presented by the Merry Magic Players of Faye Parker's Pittsburgh Children's Theatre. Six children, chosen from local schools, will take part in the production.

Included in the cast will be Don Porter Beck, Thomas Karl, Joni Kaye, Charles Stumpf and David Russell who just completed a summer session at the Mountain Playhouse in Jennerstown.

George Ewing, production chairman for the council, lists the following school dates for the play:

October 29, Beall High School, 9:30 a.m., Mt. Savage School, 1:15 p.m.; October 30, Bruce High School, 9:30 a.m., Central Elementary, 1:15 p.m.; October 31, Fort Hill High School, 9:45 a.m. and 1:15 p.m.

Mr. Ewing explained that these productions provide children of the county public schools with the educational experience of seeing a live theatrical production which has been professionally produced and directed and is especially tailored for youngsters.

Bob Hope stars Friday nights on NBC-TV

Bob Hope (speaking for Uncle Sam) gives our newspaperboys an "Oscar"

If it were up to me to decide the Oscars (am I kidding?), I'd give one to America's newspaperboys for their performance.

I mean their day-after-day performance, fair weather or foul, delivering papers and good cheer to their customers. Learning how to be good neighbors and good businessmen, too.

But what I'm really here for is to tell you what a job newspaperboys have done for the Treasury Department—helping to promote U.S. Savings Bonds and Stamps, and buying plenty themselves out of their earnings.

They've found Bonds a great way to save for a college education—and as you and I know, they're a great way to keep our country strong, too.

So this is Bob (Uncle Sam) Hope saying thanks for all of us to all you newspaperboys—our Hope (if you'll pardon the expression) of the future.

Quick facts about U.S. Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $3 at maturity
- You can get your money anytime
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed, or stolen
- You can save automatically on Payroll Savings where you work

Authorities said Christy, a Turnpike Commission employe, was filling cracks in the highway's pavement near Beckley at the time.

The death was the 329th reported in West Virginia this year compared with 347 at this time in 1962.

Changing Pattern In Government

So cautiously do some communities approach the idea of revising local government, one might think such things are almost unheard of. Actually, of course, local government has changed a great deal since the early days of the nation.

This is brought to mind by a news item reporting that one of the last two cities in the United States with a bicameral municipal system will vote next month on a proposition to abandon it. The city is Waterville, Maine.

Bicameral means two legislative branches, and that's what Waterville has—a board of aldermen and a common council. The only other city with a two-branch city legislature is Everett, Mass.

A bicameral municipal system seems strange today. Yet once it was common in the United States. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, it was the prevailing system in American cities in the 19th Century.

Perhaps in the 21st Century separate city and county governments will be almost unheard of in the U. S.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Battered American 'Image'

The overseas critics of American "canned culture" are always vocal. Just recently my old English friend Malcolm Muggeridge, who once lived in the United States long enough to know better, made the remark that nothing of cultural note would be lost to the world if the North American continent were to disappear beneath the waves. Mr. Muggeridge, who served as a newspaper correspondent in Washington, D.C., at the end of World War II before returning to London to become editor of "Punch," has visited in gracious Virginia houses and in New England Cape Cod structures dating back to the Eighteenth Century. He has read American novels such as Melville's "Moby Dick" and Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter;" he knows the part played by that former Missourian, T. S. Eliot, in the modern poetic revival; he is aware that French literature of the Nineteenth Century owes a lot to such Americans as Edgar Allan Poe. Why, then, should he be guilty of selling a hoary cliche about the imitativeness of American culture to an American publication (the New York Herald Tribune) for good American dollars?

The answer, surely, is not that Mr. Muggeridge is a faker, for I happen to know that he prizes his reputation for integrity. He has merely spent so much time recently reading other Englishmen on the subject of America that he has forgotten what he once knew.

To be honest about it, the foreign critics of American "canned culture" are periodically misled by certain well-meaning citizens of the United States who make spectacles of themselves when they try to understand the arts. Recently two members of the House of Representatives, Edna F. Kelly of Brooklyn, New York and Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, objected to the export of "erotic" works of art as representative of American culture. Specifically they criticized the State Department support of the dance dramas of Martha Graham, whose depiction of "lust" in her German performance of the title role in her "Phaedra displeased them.

If "Phaedra" had been choreographed by Mickey Spillane, let us say, or even a "higher" manipulator of super-sex such as Norman Mailer or Henry Miller, Representatives Kelly and Frelinghuysen would be on sound ground. There is good reason why American tax money should be spent to export sexual titillation abroad in the effort to build good will for the United States in the Cold War epoch. But it so happens that Martha Graham is rather Puritanical in her treatment of sexual themes. I watched her New York production of "Phaedra" the other night at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre, and felt that I was in the presence of a spiritual descendant of the Nathaniel Hawthorne who punished adultresses in his fiction by making them wear that emblem of pariahhood, the scarlet letter "A."

Martha Graham, in recent years, has been extremely active in translating the ancient Greek dramas and legends into dance terms. Her "Phaedra" is one of a whole body of work that gives new versatility to the enduring masterpieces of one of the great periods of western civilization. She has sought to depict classical themes of blood, of revenge, of despair. Her long dance drama, "Clytemnestra," is actually more gripping than the spoken Greek drama upon which it is based. And the original is gripping enough.

As for "Phaedra," it does portray lust—the sort of lust which Shakespeare had in mind when he wrote: "The expense of spirit in a waste of shame, is lust in action . . ." But the overall impression of Miss Graham's "Phaedra" is somber, stark, and forbidding. As she dances the title role, lust is a sickness of the spirit that leads to the supreme punishment of death. Miss Graham, always somewhat Puritanical, has chosen to present her followers with a sermon. She claims she is neither a propagandist nor a preacher, for her artistic mission, as she conceives it, is to "do dramatic things, engaging things, tragedies, comedies." But some works of art carry moral messages willy-nilly.

In bumbling into a world which is alien to them, and misconstruing what they have seen, our two Representatives Kelly and Frelinghuysen have led with their chins. It is incursions such as theirs that help perpetuate the image of a crude American culture. The uninformed criticism, rather than the thing criticized, feeds foreign writers such as Malcolm Muggeridge with visions of an America without artistic merit.

Surely, if Mr. Muggeridge could see Martha Graham dance, he would stop writing nonsense about the U.S. "cultural wasteland."

'This New Climate Is Sure Unpredictable'

Mood Of Nation Will Determine GOP Nominee

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Under one set of circumstances, Richard Nixon could be nominated for the Presidency by the Republican National Convention in 1964—and under another set of circumstances, Barry Goldwater could be named.

A final choice, as it looks now, will depend on the dominance of particular issues eight months hence. Indeed, the delegates themselves will hardly know the prevalent trend of public opinion until convention time is almost at hand.

For the Republican Presidential nomination will not be decided just on the basis of popularity polls or personality charm as appraised inside the Republican Party. The decision will be related directly to the mood of the whole country in the summer of 1964—and not just the Republican mood. The delegates, of course, will have to be the judges of the mood of the country and of the candidate who fits it best.

Which mood then would bring about a Goldwater or a Nixon nomination? Senator Goldwater's strength today arises largely from his hard-hitting campaign against the Kennedy administration. He is trying earnestly to convince the country that there ought to be a change. Almost every speech or statement he makes meets with instant approval among millions of voters who feel deeply that the Kennedy administration has failed them. This is called "the negative vote." It doesn't concern itself too much with alternative policies or causes but firmly insists that a change of administration is the first and most important goal to be achieved.

The strength of former Vice President Nixon, on the other hand, comes into focus when the assets and liabilities of the Kennedy administration are added up and the Republican analysts begin to calculate whether the President can be defeated for reelection.

There is one factor, for instance, which probably will have considerable weight. It is that Richard Nixon came close to winning in 1960. Several times in history a defeated candidate has been given another nomination. A shift of a total of 30,000 votes in two states would have won the Presidency for Mr. Nixon. But could he hold next year the voters he got before and acquire in addition a substantial number who voted for his opponent in 1960?

Certainly there has been a good deal of shifting on both sides since the last election. Many letters received by this correspondent from different parts of the country have been from voters who vehemently state that they would never cast another ballot for Mr. Kennedy. But there have been many others who have written that, while they voted in 1960 for Mr. Nixon, Mr. Kennedy would have their vote next time. A careful size-up of these shifts inside both parties will have to be made in order to estimate whether Mr. Nixon has had a net loss or a net gain.

There are, of course, certain major weaknesses in the Kennedy lineup of states even as of today. Thus the "Solid South" is sure to be broken again and to a greater degree than in 1960. There is disaffection in the North, too, on the administration's "civil rights" stand, for instance, and the Arizona Senator is certainly the candidate who would be able to win many of the dissenting voters on this question. Mr. Nixon has taken a middle-of-the-road position.

The chances are, however, that this particular issue will not be the controlling one among the Northern Republican delegates, who will constitute a majority of the convention. They have yet to be convinced that defections from the Democratic side on the "Civil rights" issue are enough to lose the election for Mr. Kennedy.

The question of experience and training for the office of President is bound to become a more and more important factor in forming a judgment on the candidates. A man who has sat in the inner councils of government for eight years as the Vice President of the United States and who has become intimately acquainted with many of the complicated matters of international and domestic policies at first hand will have a big asset to start with. If Governor Rockefeller had not alienated so many voters by his divorce and remarriage, he would have been pointed to with favor by reason of his two-term experience as head of the government of the most populous state in the Union.

The question that may be expected to enter the minds of many a voter after the conventions have been held is whether a President with four years of experience isn't a better bet, even with his mistakes, than a man without any experience at all in handling top policy matters. This dilemma would incline many delegates at the Republican National Convention toward former Vice President Nixon.

If the country, however, is in the mood to demand a change—either because of an economic recession that may emerge by next year, or dissatisfaction with foreign policy in general and the state of America's relations with Nikita Khrushchev in particular—the stock of the Arizona Senator will rise perceptibly, and he could be nominated irrespective of the argument that might be made on the significance of the Nixon vote in 1960 or the "experience" factor.

So if the political prophets of today can correctly analyze what the mood of the electorate will be in the spring and the early summer months of next year, they will have the key to the outcome of the Republican National Convention.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MISSING THE MARK—Sometimes legislators get letters from voters who really mean to be complimentary but somehow miss the mark.

Sen. Gale W. McGee of Wyoming is a former professor of history. He plans to seek election for a second term next year. He recently got the following note from a would-be kind lady: "I still am convinced you are the best history prof that I've ever had and hope to see you back on the faculty at Laramie after next year."

Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee already is running for another Senate term. He was somewhat taken aback the other day to receive an application for membership from the Washington headquarters of the American Association of Retired Persons. Said Gore: "If they send me another, I'll have them investigated."

SPEAK FOR YOURSELF—The Institute of Current World Affairs, a private educational organization, grants fellowships to outstanding government personnel to travel and thereby become more valuable in the work of the government.

Two years ago, officials of the institute asked Carl Marcy, staff chief for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to recommend a worthy person. Marcy recommended his No. 2 man, who got the travel grant. Last year Marcy was asked to make another recommendation, and he named another of his staffers, who also was selected to make a foreign tour.

This year, Marcy was asked again and he made still another recommendation. But the institute officials replied, "Why don't you speak for yourself?"

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Marcy are on a year's global tour, traveling on fellowships granted by the institute.

Attorney General Gets Republican Support On Civil Rights Legislation

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of speculation as to what happened to Attorney General Bob Kennedy during his two days of testimony on the No. 1 piece of Kennedy legislation — the civil rights bill. Bobby testified for nine hours behind the closed doors of the House Judiciary Committee, but almost nothing has leaked out except that he wanted to soften the bill.

Actually it can be reported that there were no fireworks inside the secret hearing. Southerners were surprisingly calm. But Kennedy's most important help came from Republicans.

His chief supporters were such Northern liberals as John Lindsay of New York City, Charles Mathias of suburban Maryland, and William Cahill of suburban New Jersey across from Philadelphia, all Republicans. They not only backed the Attorney General but demanded speedy action on the civil rights bill.

Even conservative Republicans indicated some support, however.

"Our side is not delaying action," said Rep. William McCulloch of Piqua, Ohio, top Republican. "We want a good bill, though there are some Republicans, as well as Democrats, who differ as to what this entails. As far as I am concerned the committee can vote now, section by section, and let the chips fall where they may."

Here are some of the highlights of the important closed-door testimony.

Federal funds for segregated schools — Here the question was whether an entire state should lose its federal funds if it refused to integrate part of its schools. The Attorney General argued that the entire state should not be penalized if certain schools failed to integrate.

"Let's take the school lunch program, for example," he said. "If a school refuses to integrate students under the law, only that particular school should be denied federal lunch funds. The state, the county or other, integrated schools in the same area should not be penalized."

Maryland's Mathias suggested that the problem could be handled by a "simple amendment" to the bill. He argued against the amendment of Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem providing for an across-the-board withholding of federal funds from states.

The Powell amendment is a negative, political approach," declared Mathias. "We don't want it to prevent House approval of a strong civil rights measure."

Effect On Social Security?

However, Rep. Erwin E. Willis, Louisiana Democrat, opposed any cutoff of federal funds, even on a limited scale. He argued that federal authorities might interpret the law too broadly and cut off all kinds of federal financing, including the Social Security program.

"You need not worry about that, Congressman," countered Kennedy. "There are no such dangers. If the funds are withheld, say from the school I mentioned, there would be two steps. First, an effort would be made to solve the cause of the cutoff. If this fails, the deprived recipients could still go to the courts."

"Suppose white parents refused to send their children to an integrated school," suggested Democrat William M. Tuck, Virginia segregationist. "Would that be cause to withhold funds from the school?"

"Certainly not," replied Kennedy.

Protection of Negro voting rights — Rep. E. L. Forrester of Georgia, a staunch Dixiecrat, demanded an explanation of Title 1 of the bill which protects voting privileges.

"This requires that all applicants for voting be treated alike, as to qualifications," explained Bob Kennedy. "Under the 14th Amendment, Congress can pass legislation to insure equal treatment. I need not remind you, Mr. Forrester, that 70 per cent of the Negroes in Mississippi have reached the sixth grade. But only a small fraction vote, partly because they have to answer a lot of questions not asked of white voters."

State courts vs. federal courts — The one Republican who seemed opposed to the Attorney General was Richard H. Poff of Virginia, who inquired if the civil rights bill would deny jurisdiction to state courts in case civil rights laws were violated. Kennedy replied that it would not, but added that, as now, the Justice Department could still seek redress in federal courts for violations of any federal statute, including civil rights.

"I'm still not reassured that this bill isn't a dangerous intrusion on the sovereignty of the states," objected Poff. "State courts would have very little jurisdiction."

Detputy Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, who accompanied Kennedy, caused some laughter on this point.

"Oh, we have no intention of bypassing the state courts," he said.

"We are keenly aware of their jurisdiction. In fact, I am rather an expert on the subject. I was sued twice when I went to Mississippi to intervene for the federal government in the Meredith case."

Is Planning Communistic?

Constantine Doxiadis of Athens, Greece, who has planned cities all the way from Pakistan to Louisville, Ky., was in Philadelphia the other day to look over the Eastwick Housing Development which he planned in South Philadelphia.

As we walked through some of the quiet courtyards away from the usual rush of city traffic, two people accosted him. They had recognized him and Doxiadis suspected they were going to make a complaint.

"We wanted to thank you," they said, "for designing this place so carefully. We have lived in a lot of cities but never before have we lived anywhere that our children were safe from traffic."

NOTE: Doxiadis has just been summoned to Chile to revamp that country's major cities. Meanwhile the House Appropriations Committee refuses to permit any real long range planning for the nation's capital. The General Services Administration has tried to buy property at reasonable prices now to plan ahead for the future when property is sure to be more expensive. But the House Appropriations Committee thinks planning is communistic.

No Parking

By John Crosby

LONDON

I told my friend Tupper, who works for Pan American Airways, that I was going to the automobile show here and asked directions.

"You're not driving there," he said, aghast. "Madness. Take the tube. Take a taxi."

"The whole idea of owning a car," I said, "is that it's a means of transportation. It gets you from here to there. You're in the transportation business. You should understand that."

"Nobody drives to the automobile show in their own cars. You're mad."

"I think I'm sane and the rest of you are mad. If a man can't drive to the automobile show in his own car, I just don't see any point in going on."

Off I went. In a dudgeon. (A small three-seater car with five wheels and internal self-revolving combustion. You don't see many of them.) Down Piccadilly. Negotiate Hyde Park Corner and shoot off into Cromwell Road, driving carefully on the left hand side of the street. (No wonder they lost India. Don't know the right side of the street.)

Roughly three miles from Earl's Court Exhibition Hall signs started to appear—"No Parking." The Earl's Court Exhibition Hall, where the automobile show is held, is off-limit to automobiles for miles around. Plenty of parking lots around. All full, of course.

I drove right past the front door, bobbies waving me on, and considered it quite a triumph that I found the place. The bobbies kept waving me on. And on. And on. And on.

Presently I found a parking lot that mercifully had room. I paid the man three shillings and said: "Where's the Exhibition Hall?" He pointed. There it was on the horizon. Not more than a mile-and-a-half, I'd guess. "Keep turnin' left, sir," said the attendant. "You can't miss it."

I set off, trudging. (One of those new lightweight, two-legged vehicles, with automatic fuel injection.)

What I like about the automobile show is it's so good for the legs. People don't get enough exercise in this automobile age. Attending an auto show is roughly the equivalent of 36 holes of golf.

In I went, past a sign that said: "Warning. Do Not Part With Money To Photographer Or Almanac Sellers." Past another sign: "Private. No Unauthorized Persons Admitted." (I love the way they write signs here.)

First car I saw was an Austin that had a bed and a little stove in it, for heaven's sake. The next one had a cot strung over the steering wheel, a dining room table, and refrigerator (or "fridge," as they say here). The Blue Bird Highwayman it was called, with curtains on the windows. Looked like a little cottage. Parking is at such a premium here that, once you find a spot, you can settle down and live there.

There were about a dozen of these little trucks all fitted out to live in, both car and trailer combined. "A car is a means of transportation," I kept repeating to myself, trying to keep my sanity, in spite of this flagrant contradiction of function.

A little further along I came upon the Humber Sceptre. "Self-cancelling overdrive top and third gears fitted on standard," it said. I don't know what it is, but I'll take three. Nearby is the Facel 111, a lovely French car, for gnomes. A beautiful English girl was on her knees staring hungrily at the back seat. The top of the car came roughly to my belt buckle. Most of my gnome friends tell me the Facel 111 is what they've waited years for. Now if they could only afford it.

A little farther on was the Rolls Royce Silver Cloud with coachwork by Mulliner. Price 7,993 pounds, 13 shillings, and 9 pence. (About $22,000.) I told the man I'd buy it if he'd knock off that nine pence. He wouldn't. So I didn't.

A bit farther—my knees are beginning to buckle and I have to walk all the way back to the parking lot—I find a Fiat Abarth, 132 miles an hour. Disk brakes. Very practical car for maniacs. (Many of my best friends are maniacs. In fact, most of them.)

Then a sign for the British School of Motoring. "There's so much more in life when you can drive." That's a good comforting thought. Now if there were only some place to drive to. That's the only accessory they don't sell here — destinations. Somebody could make a fortune selling self-cancelling destinations fitted on the third drive, standard. Clutching that thought, to my breast, I started the long, long, long walk back to the parking lot.

Pyelonephritis Most Common In Children

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

The kidney infection pyelonephritis, is common in children. As a rule, the causative microorganisms enter from below and may infect the bladder on their way up to the kidneys. Little girls, for anatomical reasons, are most susceptible.

A severe infection brings chills, fever, nausea, and vomiting. Burning and frequency of urination occur and distress may be so acute, the child holds back until the bladder is distended beyond control.

The urine teems with pus cells and bacteria. Several sulfonamides and antibiotics are available to control the infection but this is not enough; treatment often has to be continued for several weeks and periodic urinalyses must be done for 18 months thereafter. This is logical because the disorder tends to recur in a mild but persistent form.

In addition, many victims of pyelonephritis never have the acute or severe form of the disease because it escapes detection unless the youngster complains of bladder symptoms. This organ is vulnerable because it stores the infected urine from the kidneys. Consequently, varying degrees of cystitis (inflamed bladder) co-exist and this frequently provides the clue that the kidneys are involved.

The bladder becomes irritable and the child urinates small amounts at frequent intervals. Others cry whenever urine is passed because it burns or hurts. These complaints should not be ignored just because the child is healthy and happy otherwise.

Chronic kidney infections become more serious as the years pass. Some types of high blood pressure are traced to this condition. Uremia may occur when the kidneys refuse to function properly.

Any chronic or recurring infection of the urinary tract deserves a thorough study, including X-rays of the kidneys and, if necessary, a cystoscopic examination in which the physician looks inside the bladder with a special tube. Conditions such as stones, tumors, or defects along the passageway encourage urinary tract infections. A complete checkup is the best way to detect them.

HEAT HELPS

Mrs. C. R. writes: Is it better for a woman with arthritis of the fingers to keep the hands out of water?

REPLY

No, provided heat does not increase the swelling. In general, warm water is helpful and many arthritics find washing dishes good therapy for this condition.

NO FLASHES

Mrs. A. writes: I am a woman of 76 and still have not had hot flashes. Do you think I will ever get them?

REPLY

Only time will tell because there are other causes of hot flashes. Some women never get them when going through the menopause.

FLUID IN TISSUES

Mrs. P. writes: Why do some people collect fluid in the body?

REPLY

Because of a glandular disorder; a heart, liver, and lung disease; or insufficient proteins in the diet.

TOMORROW: Items from medical journals.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's been a lot of grumbling about the time it takes these days for a game of big-league baseball to be played, what with pitchers posing as statues for minutes at a time, adjusting their caps, pants, belts, socks, and what have you, and managers calling conferences at every turn of a television camera. The president of one of the leagues sent a secret memo to valued officials asking for suggestions as to how play might be speeded up. The likeliest suggestion came from one cynic on the Journal: "Play only eight innings instead of nine."

A jet was about to take off for Seattle from Idlewild when a man rushed up to the gate attendant and demanded, "Will there be time for me to get on that jet and kiss my wife goodbye?" The attendant answered gravely, "That depends, sir, on how long you've been married."

Let us give a thought to the farmer in North Dakota who told cronies around the cracker barrel, "I'm agitated. Two months ago my wife had quadruplets. Today she tells me we have triplets." "You're out of your mind," scoffed Old Man Boles. "Can't have triplets two months after you've had quadruplets."

"Can too," said the worried father. "One of the quadruplets got lost."

Changing Pattern In Government

So cautiously do some communities approach the idea of revising local government, one might think such things are almost unheard of. Actually, of course, local government has changed a great deal since the early days of the nation.

This is brought to mind by a news item reporting that one of the last two cities in the United States with a bicameral municipal system will vote next month on a proposition to abandon it. The city is Waterville, Maine.

Bicameral means two legislative branches, and that's what Waterville has—a board of aldermen and a common council. The only other city with a two-branch city legislature is Everett, Mass.

A bicameral municipal system seems strange today. Yet once it was common in the United States. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, it was the prevailing system in American cities in the 19th Century.

Perhaps in the 21st Century separate city and county governments will be almost unheard of in the U. S.

These Days

Battered American 'Image'

The overseas critics of American "canned culture" are always vocal. Just recently my old English friend Malcolm Muggeridge, who once lived in the United States long enough to know better, made the remark that nothing of cultural note would be lost to the world if the North American continent were to disappear beneath the waves. Mr. Muggeridge, who served as a newspaper correspondent in Washington, D.C., at the end of World War II before returning to London to become editor of "Punch," has visited in gracious Virginia houses and in New England Cape Cod structures dating back to the Eighteenth Century. He has read American novels such as Melville's "Moby Dick" and Hawthorne's "The Scarlet Letter;" he knows the part played by that former Missourian, T. S. Eliot, in the modern poetic revival; he is aware that French literature of the Nineteenth Century owes a lot to such Americans as Edgar Allan Poe. Why, then, should he be guilty of selling a hoary cliche about the imitativeness of American culture to an American publication (the New York Herald Tribune) for good American dollars?

The answer, surely, is not that Mr. Muggeridge is a faker, for I happen to know that he prizes his reputation for integrity. He has merely spent so much time recently reading other Englishmen on the subject of America that he has forgotten what he once knew.

To be honest about it, the foreign critics of American "canned culture" are periodically misled by certain well-meaning citizens of the United States who make spectacles of themselves when they try to understand the arts. Recently two members of the House of Representatives, Edna F. Kelly of Brooklyn, New York and Peter Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, objected to the export of "erotic" works of art as representative of American culture. Specifically they criticized the State Department support of the dance dramas of Martha Graham, whose depiction of "lust" in her German performance of the title role in her "Phaedra displeased them.

If "Phaedra" had been choreographed by Mickey Spillane, let us say, or even a "higher" manipulator of super-sex such as Norman Mailer or Henry Miller, Representatives Kelly and Frelinghuysen would be on sound ground. There is good reason why American tax money should be spent to export sexual titillation abroad in the effort to build good will for the United States in the Cold War epoch. But it so happens that Martha Graham is rather Puritanical in her treatment of sexual themes. I watched her New York production of "Phaedra" the other night at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre, and felt that I was in the presence of a spiritual descendant of the Nathaniel Hawthorne who punished adultresses in his fiction by making them wear that emblem of pariahhood, the scarlet letter "A."

Martha Graham, in recent years, has been extremely active in translating the ancient Greek dramas and legends into dance terms. Her "Phaedra" is one of a whole body of work that gives new versatility to the enduring masterpieces of one of the great periods of western civilization. She has sought to depict classical themes of blood, of revenge, of despair. Her long dance drama, "Clytemnestra," is actually more gripping than the spoken Greek drama upon which it is based. And the original is gripping enough.

As for "Phaedra," it does portray lust—the sort of lust which Shakespeare had in mind when he wrote: "The expense of spirit in a waste of shame, is lust in action . . ." But the overall impression of Miss Graham's "Phaedra" is somber, stark, and forbidding. As she dances the title role, lust is a sickness of the spirit that leads to the supreme punishment of death. Miss Graham, always somewhat Puritanical, has chosen to present her followers with a sermon. She claims she is neither a propagandist nor a preacher, for her artistic mission, as she conceives it, is to "do dramatic things, engaging things, tragedies, comedies." But some works of art carry moral messages willy-nilly.

In bumbling into a world which is alien to them, and misconstruing what they have seen, our two Representatives Kelly and Frelinghuysen have led with their chins. It is incursions such as theirs that help perpetuate the image of a crude American culture. The uninformed criticism, rather than the thing criticized, feeds foreign writers such as Malcolm Muggeridge with visions of an America without artistic merit.

Surely, if Mr. Muggeridge could see Martha Graham dance, he would stop writing nonsense about the U.S. "cultural wasteland."

'This New Climate Is Sure Unpredictable'

Mood Of Nation Will Determine GOP Nominee

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Under one set of circumstances, Richard Nixon could be nominated for the Presidency by the Republican National Convention in 1964—and under another set of circumstances, Barry Goldwater could be named.

A final choice, as it looks now, will depend on the dominance of particular issues eight months hence. Indeed, the delegates themselves will hardly know the prevalent trend of public opinion until convention time is almost at hand.

For the Republican Presidential nomination will not be decided just on the basis of popularity polls or personality charm as appraised inside the Republican Party. The decision will be related directly to the mood of the whole country in the summer of 1964—and not just the Republican mood. The delegates, of course, will have to be the judges of the mood of the country and of the candidate who fits it best.

Which mood then would bring about a Goldwater or a Nixon nomination? Senator Goldwater's strength today arises largely from his hard-hitting campaign against the Kennedy administration. He is trying earnestly to convince the country that there ought to be a change. Almost every speech or statement he makes meets with instant approval among millions of voters who feel deeply that the Kennedy administration has failed them. This is called "the negative vote." It doesn't concern itself too much with alternative policies or causes but firmly insists that a change of administration is the first and most important goal to be achieved.

The strength of former Vice President Nixon, on the other hand, comes into focus when the assets and liabilities of the Kennedy administration are added up and the Republican analysts begin to calculate whether the President can be defeated for reelection.

There is one factor, for instance, which probably will have considerable weight. It is that Richard Nixon came close to winning in 1960. Several times in history a defeated candidate has been given another nomination. A shift of a total of 30,000 votes in two states would have won the Presidency for Mr. Nixon. But could he hold next year the voters he got before and acquire in addition a substantial number who voted for his opponent in 1960?

Certainly there has been a good deal of shifting on both sides since the last election. Many letters received by this correspondent from different parts of the country have been from voters who vehemently state that they would never cast another ballot for Mr. Kennedy. But there have been many others who have written that, while they voted in 1960 for Mr. Nixon, Mr. Kennedy would have their vote next time. A careful size-up of these shifts inside both parties will have to be made in order to estimate whether Mr. Nixon has had a net loss or a net gain.

There are, of course, certain major weaknesses in the Kennedy lineup of states even as of today. Thus the "Solid South" is sure to be broken again and to a greater degree than in 1960. There is disaffection in the North, too, on the administration's "civil rights" stand, for instance, and the Arizona Senator is certainly the candidate who would be able to win many of the dissenting voters on this question. Mr. Nixon has taken a middle-of-the-road position.

The chances are, however, that this particular issue will not be the controlling one among the Northern Republican delegates, who will constitute a majority of the convention. They have yet to be convinced that defections from the Democratic side on the "Civil rights" issue are enough to lose the election for Mr. Kennedy.

The question of experience and training for the office of President is bound to become a more and more important factor in forming a judgment on the candidates. A man who has sat in the inner councils of government for eight years as the Vice President of the United States and who has become intimately acquainted with many of the complicated matters of international and domestic policies at first hand will have a big asset to start with. If Governor Rockefeller had not alienated so many voters by his divorce and remarriage, he would have been pointed to with favor by reason of his two-term experience as head of the government of the most populous state in the Union.

The question that may be expected to enter the minds of many a voter after the conventions have been held is whether a President with four years of experience isn't a better bet, even with his mistakes, than a man without any experience at all in handling top policy matters. This dilemma would incline many delegates at the Republican National Convention toward former Vice President Nixon.

If the country, however, is in the mood to demand a change — either because of an economic recession that may emerge by next year, or dissatisfaction with foreign policy in general and the state of America's relations with Nikita Khrushchev in particular —the stock of the Arizona Senator will rise perceptibly, and he could be nominated irrespective of the argument that might be made on the significance of the Nixon vote in 1960 or the "experience" factor.

So if the political prophets of today can correctly analyze what the mood of the electorate will be in the spring and the early summer months of next year, they will have the key to the outcome of the Republican National Convention.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MISSING THE MARK—Sometimes legislators get letters from voters who really mean to be complimentary but somehow miss the mark.

Sen. Gale W. McGee of Wyoming is a former professor of history. He plans to seek election for a second term next year. He recently got the following note from a would-be kind lady: "I still am convinced you are the best history prof that I've ever had and hope to see you back on the faculty at Laramie after next year."

Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee already is running for another Senate term. He was somewhat taken aback the other day to receive an application for membership from the Washington headquarters of the American Association of Retired Persons. Said Gore: "If they send me another, I'll have them investigated."

SPEAK FOR YOURSELF—The Institute of Current World Affairs, a private educational organization, grants fellowships to outstanding government personnel to travel and thereby become more valuable in the work of the government.

Two years ago, officials of the institute asked Carl Marcy, staff chief for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to recommend a worthy person. Marcy recommended his No. 2 man, who got the travel grant. Last year Marcy was asked to make another recommendation, and he named another of his staffers, who also was selected to make a foreign tour.

This year, Marcy was asked again and he made still another recommendation. But the institute officials replied, "Why don't you speak for yourself?"

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Marcy are on a year's global tour, traveling on fellowships granted by the institute.

By Theodore R. Van Dellen

The kidney infection pyelonephritis, is common in children. As a rule, the causative microorganisms enter from below and may infect the bladder on their way up to the kidneys. Little girls, for anatomical reasons, are most susceptible.

A severe infection brings chills, fever, nausea, and vomiting. Burning and frequency of urination occur and distress may be so acute, the child holds back until the bladder is distended beyond control.

The urine teems with pus cells and bacteria. Several sulfonamides and antibiotics are available to control the infection but this is not enough; treatment often has to be continued for several weeks and periodic urinalyses must be done for 18 months thereafter. This is logical because the disorder tends to recur in a mild but persistent form.

In addition, many victims of pyelonephritis never have the acute or severe form of the disease because it escapes detection unless the youngster complains of bladder symptoms. This organ is vulnerable because it stores the infected urine from the kidneys. Consequently, varying degrees of cystitis (inflamed bladder) co-exist and this frequently provides the clue that the kidneys are involved.

The bladder becomes irritable and the child urinates small amounts at frequent intervals. Others cry whenever urine is passed because it burns or hurts. These complaints should not be ignored just because the child is healthy and happy otherwise.

Chronic kidney infections become more serious as the years pass. Some types of high blood pressure are traced to this condition. Uremia may occur when the kidneys refuse to function properly.

Any chronic or recurring infection of the urinary tract deserves a thorough study, including X-rays of the kidneys and, if necessary, a cystoscopic examination in which the physician looks inside the bladder with a special tube. Conditions such as stones, tumors, or defects along the passageway encourage urinary tract infections. A complete checkup is the best way to detect them.

HEAT HELPS

Mrs. C. R. writes: Is it better for a woman with arthritis of the fingers to keep the hands out of water?

REPLY

No, provided heat does not increase the swelling. In general, warm water is helpful and many arthritics find washing dishes good therapy for this condition.

NO FLASHES

Mrs. A. writes: I am a woman of 76 and still have not had hot flashes. Do you think I will ever get them?

REPLY

Only time will tell because there are other causes of hot flashes. Some women never get them when going through the menopause.

FLUID IN TISSUES

Mrs. P. writes: Why do some people collect fluid in the body?

REPLY

Because of a glandular disorder; a heart, liver, and lung disease; or insufficient proteins in the diet.

TOMORROW: Items from medical journals.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

There's been a lot of grumbling about the time it takes these days for a game of big-league baseball to be played, what with pitchers posing as statues for minutes at a time, adjusting their caps, pants, belts, socks, and what have you, and managers calling conferences at every turn of a television camera. The president of one of the leagues sent a secret memo to valued officials asking for suggestions as to how play might be speeded up. The likeliest suggestion came from one cynic on the Journal: "Play only eight innings instead of nine."

A jet was about to take off for Seattle from Idlewild when a man rushed up to the gate attendant and demanded, "Will there be time for me to get on that jet and kiss my wife goodbye?" The attendant answered gravely, "That depends, sir, on how long you've been married."

Let us give a thought to the farmer in North Dakota who told cronies around the cracker barrel, "I'm agitated. Two months ago my wife had quadruplets. Today she tells me we have triplets." "You're out of your mind," scoffed Old Man Boles. "Can't have triplets two months after you've had quadruplets."

"Can too," said the worried father. "One of the quadruplets got lost."

Attorney General Gets Republican Support On Civil Rights Legislation

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — There has been a lot of speculation as to what happened to Attorney General Bob Kennedy during his two days of testimony on the No. 1 piece of Kennedy legislation — the civil rights bill. Bobby testified for nine hours behind the closed doors of the House Judiciary Committee, but almost nothing has leaked out except that he wanted to soften the bill.

Actually it can be reported that there were no fireworks inside the secret hearing. Southerners were surprisingly calm. But Kennedy's most important help came from Republicans.

His chief supporters were such Northern liberals as John Lindsay of New York City, Charles Mathias of suburban Maryland, and William Cahill of suburban New Jersey across from Philadelphia, all Republicans. They not only backed the Attorney General but demanded speedy action on the civil rights bill.

Even conservative Republicans indicated some support, however.

"Our side is not delaying action," said Rep. William McCulloch of Piqua, Ohio, top Republican. "We want a good bill, though there are some Republicans, as well as Democrats, who differ as to what this entails. As far as I am concerned the committee can vote now, section by section, and let the chips fall where they may."

Here are some of the highlights of the important closed-door testimony.

Federal funds for segregated schools — Here the question was whether an entire state should lose its federal funds if it refused to integrate part of its schools. The Attorney General argued that the entire state should not be penalized if certain schools failed to integrate.

"Let's take the school lunch program, for example," he said. "If a school refuses to integrate students under the law, only that particular school should be denied federal lunch funds. The state, the county or other, integrated schools in the same area should not be penalized."

Maryland's Mathias suggested that the problem could be handled by a "simple amendment" to the bill. He argued against the amendment of Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem providing for an across-the-board withholding of federal funds from states.

The Powell amendment is a negative, political approach," declared Mathias. "We don't want it to prevent House approval of a strong civil rights measure."

Effect On Social Security?

However, Rep. Erwin E. Willis, Louisiana Democrat, opposed any cutoff of federal funds, even on a limited scale. He argued that federal authorities might interpret the law too broadly and cut off all kinds of federal financing, including the Social Security program.

"You need not worry about that, Congressman," countered Kennedy. "There are no such dangers. If the funds are withheld, say from the school I mentioned, there would be two steps. First, an effort would be made to solve the cause of the cutoff. If this fails, the deprived recipients could still go to the courts."

"Suppose white parents refused to send their children to an integrated school," suggested Democrat William M. Tuck, Virginia segregationist. "Would that be cause to withhold funds from the school?"

"Certainly not," replied Kennedy.

Protection of Negro voting rights — Rep. E. L. Forrester of Georgia, a staunch Dixiecrat, demanded an explanation of Title 1 of the bill which protects voting privileges.

"This requires that all applicants for voting be treated alike, as to qualifications," explained Bob Kennedy. "Under the 14th Amendment, Congress can pass legislation to insure equal treatment. I need not remind you, Mr. Forrester, that 70 per cent of the Negroes in Mississippi have reached the sixth grade. But only a small fraction vote, partly because they have to answer a lot of questions not asked of white voters."

State courts vs. federal courts — The one Republican who seemed opposed to the Attorney General was Richard H. Poff of Virginia, who inquired if the civil rights bill would deny jurisdiction to state courts in case civil rights laws were violated. Kennedy replied that it would not, but added that, as now, the Justice Department could still seek redress in federal courts for violations of any federal statute, including civil rights.

"I'm still not reassured that this bill isn't a dangerous intrusion on the sovereignty of the states," objected Poff. "State courts would have very little jurisdiction."

Detputy Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, who accompanied Kennedy, caused some laughter on this point.

"Oh, we have no intention of bypassing the state courts," he said.

"We are keenly aware of their jurisdiction. In fact, I am rather an expert on the subject. I was sued twice when I went to Mississippi to intervene for the federal government in the Meredith case."

Is Planning Communistic?

Constantine Doxiadis of Athens, Greece, who has planned cities all the way from Pakistan to Louisville, Ky., was in Philadelphia the other day to look over the Eastwick Housing Development which he planned in South Philadelphia.

As we walked through some of the quiet courtyards away from the usual rush of city traffic, two people accosted him. They had recognized him and Doxiadis suspected they were going to make a complaint.

"We wanted to thank you," they said, "for designing this place so carefully. We have lived in a lot of cities but never before have we lived anywhere that our children were safe from traffic."

NOTE: Doxiadis has just been summoned to Chile to revamp that country's major cities. Meanwhile the House Appropriations Committee refuses to permit any real long range planning for the nation's capital. The General Services Administration has tried to buy property at reasonable prices now to plan ahead for the future when property is sure to be more expensive. But the House Appropriations Committee thinks planning is communistic.

No Parking

By John Crosby

LONDON

I told my friend Tupper, who works for Pan American Airways, that I was going to the automobile show here and asked directions.

"You're not driving there," he said, aghast. "Madness. Take the tube. Take a taxi."

"The whole idea of owning a car," I said, "is that it's a means of transportation. It gets you from here to there. You're in the transportation business. You should understand that."

"Nobody drives to the automobile show in their own cars. You're mad."

"I think I'm sane and the rest of you are mad. If a man can't drive to the automobile show in his own car, I just don't see any point in going on."

Off I went. In a dudgeon. (A small three-seater car with five wheels and internal self-revolving combustion. You don't see many of them.) Down Piccadilly. Negotiate Hyde Park Corner and shoot off into Cromwell Road, driving carefully on the left hand side of the street. (No wonder they lost India. Don't know the right side of the street.)

Roughly three miles from Earl's Court Exhibition Hall signs started to appear—"No Parking." The Earl's Court Exhibition Hall, where the automobile show is held, is off-limit to automobiles for miles around. Plenty of parking lots around. All full, of course.

I drove right past the front door, bobbies waving me on, and considered it quite a triumph that I found the place. The bobbies kept waving me on. And on. And on. And on.

Presently I found a parking lot that mercifully had room. I paid the man three shillings and said: "Where's the Exhibition Hall?" He pointed. There it was on the horizon. Not more than a mile-and-a-half, I'd guess. "Keep turnin' left, sir," said the attendant. "You can't miss it."

I set off, trudging. (One of those new lightweight, two-legged vehicles, with automatic fuel injection.)

What I like about the automobile show is it's so good for the legs. People don't get enough exercise in this automobile age. Attending an auto show is roughly the equivalent of 36 holes of golf.

In I went, past a sign that said: "Warning. Do Not Part With Money To Photographer Or Almanac Sellers." Past another sign: "Private. No Unauthorized Persons Admitted." (I love the way they write signs here.)

First car I saw was an Austin that had a bed and a little stove in it, for heaven's sake. The next one had a cot strung over the steering wheel, a dining room table, and refrigerator (or "fridge," as they say here). The Blue Bird Highwayman it was called, with curtains on the windows. Looked like a little cottage. Parking is at such a premium here that, once you find a spot, you can settle down and live there.

There were about a dozen of these little trucks all fitted out to live in, both car and trailer combined. "A car is a means of transportation," I kept repeating to myself, trying to keep my sanity, in spite of this flagrant contradiction of function.

A little further along I came upon the Humber Sceptre. "Self-cancelling overdrive top and third gears fitted on standard," it said. I don't know what it is, but I'll take three. Nearby is the Facel 111, a lovely French car, for gnomes. A beautiful English girl was on her knees staring hungrily at the back seat. The top of the car came roughly to my belt buckle. Most of my gnome friends tell me the Facel 111 is what they've waited years for. Now if they could only afford it.

A little farther on was the Rolls Royce Silver Cloud with coachwork by Mulliner. Price 7,993 pounds, 13 shillings, and 9 pence. (About $22,000.) I told the man I'd buy it if he'd knock off that nine pence. He wouldn't. So I didn't.

A bit farther—my knees are beginning to buckle and I have to walk all the way back to the parking lot—I find a Fiat Abarth, 132 miles an hour. Disk brakes. Very practical car for maniacs. (Many of my best friends are maniacs. In fact, most of them.)

Then a sign for the British School of Motoring. "There's so much more in life when you can drive." That's a good comforting thought. Now if there were only some place to drive to. That's the only accessory they don't sell here — destinations. Somebody could make a fortune selling self-cancelling destinations fitted on the third drive, standard. Clutching that thought, to my breast, I started the long, long, long walk back to the parking lot.

KEYSER—The annual CAUSE campaign will be conducted this year in the following areas: Wheeling-Moundsville, November 4-5; Clarksburg, November 6-7; Charleston, November 12-14; Beckley, November 13-14; and in Huntington, November 19-20. Potomac State representatives will be announced soon, according to Mrs. Robert Coffman, director of alumni affairs.

The CAUSE program works on a phone-call basis, with a representative in each area calling the alumni in that area. A dinner-meeting will be held at the start of the campaign in each area. During this meeting John M. Sayre, vice-president of the West Virginia Association of College and University Alumni Representatives, will give an orientation speech.

Sponsored by the West Virginia Association of College and University Presidents, the program will have all 20 state institutions of higher learning as participants.

This is the third year for the CAUSE campaign. The first conducted in 1961, won first place in the specialty programs category and was awarded a national special recognition citation for significant achievement that summer by the American Alumni Council in its annual meeting at Banff Springs, Alberta, Canada.

Trappers Take 350 Foxes In Hardy County

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Five professional fox trappers sent to Hardy County by the Conservation Commission at the request of the Hardy County court have broken all records for a county in West Virginia in bagging 350 foxes by Monday night. The trappers are employed by the Department of Natural Resources but the gas and oil expenses are paid for by the county.

The five trappers Edgar Cales, Paul Cullers, Jake Hillary, Ray Hefner and Clyde Campbell have been in Hardy County since October 1, and are leaving Wednesday. They will return November 1. The record bag of 350 foxes in three weeks exceeds a former high of 193 foxes bagged in Preston County which has an area nearly 80 square miles larger than Hardy County.

The trappers will return after a week's rest to work in other sections of the county. The trappers expressed amazement that so much small game, rabbits, quail, grouse and turkeys existed with the unusually high fox population.

Small game population should jump markedly next year with the elimination of the great numbers of predatory foxes, game officials believe.

Potomac State Decorated For Homecoming

Parade, Football Are Highlights

KEYSER—Potomac State College, all decked out with streamers of gold and blue and anxiously awaiting the return of her many sons and daughters, is prepared to open its doors for the annual observance of Homecoming this Saturday.

Registration and coffee hour will be held in the assembly room of the Science Hall from 9 to 10:30 a.m. At 11 o'clock the homecoming parade, sponsored by the Circle K Club, will move from the campus, through the downtown area, and back to the college. Numerous floats have been construtced by the organizations on the campus and entered in the parade.

Many members of these graduating classes have accepted invitations to be present at a luncheon sponsored by the Alumni Association, according to Mrs. Robert T. Coffman, director of Alumni Affairs. This event will be held in Kelley Armory at noon. The luncheon is open to all alumni, faculty, and friends of PSC by reservation only.

Two new board members appointed by the alumni president will be introduced at the luncheon. One will be named to fill the unexpired term of the late Dean K. S. McKee and the other will be chosen as a successor to a board member whose term expires this year.

At 2 p.m. the Catamounts will meet Wesley College in the homecoming game at Stayman Field. Colorful halftime festivities are planned in honor of "Miss Catamount" and her court.

An additional attraction will be the presentation of eight individual trophies at the conclusion of the game to the best offensive lineman and back and the best defensive lineman and back of both teams. The awards will be presented by Joseph Stanislawczyk, a PSC alumnus, who is chairman of the Mineral County centennial committee.

An after-game reception will be held in the new women's dormitory, Friend Hall, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. under sponsorship of the campus sororities. Miss Barbara Nicholson is chairman of the refreshment committee.

In the receiving line will be Mrs. E. E. Church, Mrs. Todd H. Bullard, Dr. Imogene Dever, and Miss Christine Murray. Serving at the punch bowl will be Mrs. K. S. McKee and Miss Helen C. Criner.

W. Va. CAUSE Campaign Planned In November

KEYSER—The annual CAUSE campaign will be conducted this year in the following areas: Wheeling-Moundsville, November 4-5; Clarksburg, November 6-7; Charleston, November 12-14; Beckley, November 13-14; and in Huntington, November 19-20. Potomac State representatives will be announced soon, according to Mrs. Robert Coffman, director of alumni affairs.

CAUSE stands for College Alumni United in Support of Education. Its purpose, as the title indicates, is to unite alumni in support of higher education in West Virginia, and in support of their Alma Maters. It also provides funds to meet the financial needs of the various colleges and universities.

The CAUSE program works on a phone-call basis, with a representative in each area calling the alumni in that area. A dinner-meeting will be held at the start of the campaign in each area. During this meeting John M. Sayre, vice-president of the West Virginia Association of College and University Alumni Representatives, will give an orientation speech.

Sponsored by the West Virginia Association of College and University Presidents, the program will have all 20 state institutions of higher learning as participants.

This is the third year for the CAUSE campaign. The first conducted in 1961, won first place in the specialty programs category and was awarded a national special recognition citation for significant achievement that summer by the American Alumni Council in its annual meeting at Banff Springs, Alberta, Canada.

Forest Fires Damage 15,000 W. Va. Acres

110 Blazes Being Fought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —The State Department of Natural Resources reported about 110 forest fires burning in West Virginia Wednesday, including 65 considered under control.

Asst. State Forester Asher Kelly said seven new fires were reported Wednesday. There were no fires reported in the Eastern Panhandle.

Crews were still battling a blaze that broke out Tuesday night in a hillside in Charleston's east end. The blaze threatened a number of homes and a former children's hospital closed since 1960.

Observers said Wednesday afternoon that the Charleston blaze appeared to be spreading to woodlands opposite the Kanawha City Bridge on the Kanawha River.

Among old fires still burning in central West Virginia Wednesday was one in Carnifex State Park in Nicholas County.

Kelly said that since the three-month fall fire season started Oct. 1, fires have damaged or destroyed about 15,000 acres of West Virginia timberland.

He said most of the fires still were in the southern part of the state where a number of arson cases have been uncovered. In the past few days, eight persons have been arrested on arson charges.

Birth Control Recommended In W. Virginia

Aimed At Problem Of Unemployment

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. (UPI)—A birth control program to offset high unemployment in six central West Virginia counties has been recommended by the Cooperative Extension Service of West Virginia University.

The report suggested that the Planned Parenthood Federation be invited to establish a family counseling service in Braxton, Gilmer, Lewis, Nicholas, Upshur and Webster Counties.

"Such a program will enable young people to marry at a normal age and continue in college or in employment until they are economically established and can begin to have their families," the report said.

The study was presented for discussion at a conference of area civic and church leaders here. It was made by a panel headed by Morris Harvey College President Leonard Riggleman in cooperation with local leaders.

The report also said the expansion and development of the highway system "might well be the greatest single aid that could be brought to this section of the state" in that it would help the area attract new plants which would manufacture products that could be hauled by truck.

Forest Fires Damage 15,000 W. Va. Acres

110 Blazes Being Fought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —The State Department of Natural Resources reported about 110 forest fires burning in West Virginia Wednesday, including 65 considered under control.

Asst. State Forester Asher Kelly said seven new fires were reported Wednesday. There were no fires reported in the Eastern Panhandle.

Crews were still battling a blaze that broke out Tuesday night in a hillside in Charleston's east end. The blaze threatened a number of homes and a former children's hospital closed since 1960.

Observers said Wednesday afternoon that the Charleston blaze appeared to be spreading to woodlands opposite the Kanawha City Bridge on the Kanawha River.

Among old fires still burning in central West Virginia Wednesday was one in Carnifex State Park in Nicholas County.

Kelly said that since the three-month fall fire season started Oct. 1, fires have damaged or destroyed about 15,000 acres of West Virginia timberland.

He said most of the fires still were in the southern part of the state where a number of arson cases have been uncovered. In the past few days, eight persons have been arrested on arson charges.

Aimed At Problem Of Unemployment

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va. (UPI)—A birth control program to offset high unemployment in six central West Virginia counties has been recommended by the Cooperative Extension Service of West Virginia University.

The report suggested that the Planned Parenthood Federation be invited to establish a family counseling service in Braxton, Gilmer, Lewis, Nicholas, Upshur and Webster Counties.

The study was presented for discussion at a conference of area civic and church leaders here. It was made by a panel headed by Morris Harvey College President Leonard Riggleman in cooperation with local leaders.

The report also said the expansion and development of the highway system "might well be the greatest single aid that could be brought to this section of the state" in that it would help the area attract new plants which would manufacture products that could be hauled by truck.

Lt. Hite said spaces have been lined off, and requested that persons visiting the hospital refrain from parking in the zones.

One-side parking was also put into effect today in front of the hospital on Memorial Avenue.

The changes also affect Ridgewood Avenue, which runs behind the hospital. Parking will be permitted on only one side of Ridgewood from Brookfield Avenue to Warnick Avenue.

Man Is Guilty In Morals Case

Robert J. Shipe, 59, of Homewood Addition, was found guilty yesterday in Circuit Court by Judge W. Earle Cobey on a charge of attempted carnal knowledge of a 12-year-old girl.

He was remanded to the Allegany County jail pending a presentence investigation.

Barkin Girl Pleads Guilty

Dolores Jean Barkin, 21-year-old girl friend of James R. Walter, the elusive county jail prisoner, entered a guilty plea in Circuit Court yesterday to a charge of breaking and entering the Flintstone High School.

She had been arrested as an accomplice of Walter in a number of breaking and enterings but the state dismissed the rest of the counts against her.

The blue-eyed blonde girl, who has been in the county jail for more than a month awaiting trial, was remanded to the lockup by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris pending a pre-sentence investigation of her background by James Lewis, state probation officer.

Sixteen states lost seats in Congress, 9 gained representatives and 25 maintained their status as a result of the last census.

Mrs. Regina Cioni, executive secretary of the county chapter, said the kits will help the schools and students in educational programs.

Mrs. Cioni said recently many students have been writing term papers on cancer and the work that is being done to control it and the educational kits now will be available in the school libraries for the use of the students.

The kits have a number of booklets and pamphlets which include "Cigarette Smoking and Cancer," "Youth Looks at Cancer," and "Teaching About Cancer."

Mrs. Cioni said school librarians who have not received the kits should contact her at 128 Union Street.

New Traffic Rules Placed In Effect Near Hospital

The City Traffic Bureau today made a few changes in traffic movement and parking in the Memorial Hospital area.

Lt. E. Gordon Hite, head of the Traffic Bureau, said the changes were necessary because of construction of a new wing at the local institution.

Under the new plan one section of Memorial Avenue, from the intersection of Douglas and Warnick avenues to the circle in front of the hospital will be made one-way for vehicles.

Lt. Hite said due to the construction in the rear of the hospital the normal parking spaces for physicians have been eliminated. Until the work is completed the doctors will be permitted to park in front of the hospital.

Lt. Hite said spaces have been lined off, and requested that persons visiting the hospital refrain from parking in the zones.

One-side parking was also put into effect today in front of the hospital on Memorial Avenue.

The changes also affect Ridgewood Avenue, which runs behind the hospital. Parking will be permitted on only one side of Ridgewood from Brookfield Avenue to Warnick Avenue.

LaVale Zoning Unit OKs Two Permits, Denies One

Two building permits were approved and another application turned down Tuesday at a meeting of the LaVale Zoning Board in the LaVale fire hall.

The board granted a permit for the erection of a horizontal 45-foot sign at the new Rosenbaum's store in the Searstown Shopping Center. The application was submitted by Artkraft Strauss Sign Corporation, New York.

John L. Conway, board chairman, said the permit will be accompanied by instructions that the lighted sign must be darkened by 10 p. m. daily to conform to regulations currently applying to other lighted signs in the area.

The other permit was granted for a metal shed to be constructed by the Columbia Gas Company of Maryland, Inc., in the vicinity of 145 National Highway.

The board turned down an application for the erection of an addition to a Locust Grove home. A request to add a 1½-story addition to his home was made by Morris Whiteman.

Conway said the home occupied by Whiteman has only 5-foot clearance on the side, but zoning regulations put into effect since require 8-foot side yards and the proposed addition would have a 5-foot clearance in conformance with present construction. Conway added that the board has to abide by regulations.

Two parties interested in opening business along National Highway appeared to ask about the proper steps they should take in filing application with the board and to see if their proposed businesses are allowed under zoning regulations.

The next board meeting has been scheduled for November 12.

Gospel singers Don and Earl from Knoxville, Tenn., will present a program of music Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Mr. Larson said the public is invited to attend these services at the church which is located on U. S. Route 40 on top of Martin Mountain.

New construction will include hardsurfacing of Mann Road and streets in Vale Summit, and Belle Grove Road. Renewal of bridges on Oaklawn Avenue and Pea Vine Run Road are also slated.

Projects planned in addition include cutting channel for culverts on East Wilson Road, ditching Main Street and Ford Road, extending culverts on Gramlich Road, repairing catch basin on old Clarysville Road, widen and replace necessary drain at Oldtown School and ditching Valley Road and Hoffman Road.

Work completed in the two-week period ending October 18 included surface treatment on Lower Consol Road, Legislative Road, Walnut Street, Armstrong Street, Louisiana Avenue, Green Street, Green Ridge Road (north), Glenn Street, Cabin Run Road, old Dan's Rock Road, and Orleans Road (south two miles).

New construction included hardsurfacing over culvert on Henry Drive, starting bridge approaches on 15 Mile Creek (north), base placed on Belle Grove Road, hardsurfacing unpaved section of Wright Street extended, Bottle Run Road bridge renewed and Wood Street in Oldtown widened and ditched.

Other work done included shaling Cresap Mill Road, opened ditch on Hope Road, cross drains placed at Simpson Avenue and Ashbury Street in LaVale, shaled Twigg Road at Oldtown, East Wilson Road shaled, and cross drains on Dutch Hollow Road.

Baseball bats made of ash are preferred over those made from hackberry and hickory because of their resiliency.

Give Simple Italian Look To Chops

Here's a simple way to give a foreign treatment to a supper main dish. Bake pork chops on top of spinach and cheese sauce. The result: Pork Chops Florentine, bringing a feeling of Italy to your meal.

The chops bake during most of the cooking time in a covered baking dish. This holds in the moist heat pork chops need to be their juicy best at serving time.

Complete your easy Italian-style menu with fried eggplant, a tossed salad with garlic-oil dressing, Italian bread and a dessert of spumoni ice cream.

Pork Chops Florentine

- 6 rib or loin pork chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
- 2 tablespoon lard or drippings
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup grated cheddar cheese
- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen spinach, cooked; or 2 cans (16 ounces each) spinach

Brown chops in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season chops with 1½ teaspoons salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Melt butter or margarine and blend in flour. Gradually add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and grated cheese, and continue cooking until cheese is melted. Drain cooked or canned spinach. Add spinach to cheese sauce and pour into a greased baking dish. Arrange browned chops on top of spinach mixture. Cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. Remove cover and continue baking uncovered 15 minutes or until done. 6 servings.

Spanish-Style Cheese Sandwiches

In Spain, if one orders a cheese sandwich (sandweech de queso), it will be grilled in olive oil, served piping hot. The sandwich grilled in olive oil instead of butter or margarine takes on deliciously different flavor. Any cheese may be used, but this is especially good with Gruyere or Swiss cheese.

Shanghai Casserole Elegant Dish

Here is a casserole elegant enough to grace your buffet dinner party. Versatile ground beef is the basis of this tasty combination. Garnishing the top of the casserole are French fried onion rings. A pineapple shell filled with cottage cheese and decorated with orange slices accompanies the beef dish.

Time was when casseroles were considered strictly as a good time-saver for mother on club day when she would be late getting home to prepare dinner.

We still find them important for this purpose. We can prepare the casserole in the morning, refrigerate it, then slip it in the oven minutes before dinner.

But certainly casserole cookery has taken on a greater importance in our menus. Today, casseroles have become glamorous and are the choice for many of the fanciest of buffet dinners.

One of our favorite casserole meats is ground beef. It is so versatile blends with numerous vegetables, with sauces, herbs and seasonings. Here's a new casserole to add to your repertoire. It's called Shanghai Casserole. In the recipe below you'll find the ground beef is combined with frozen mixed vegetables, with celery and with condensed mushroom soup seasoned with soy sauce.

French fried onion rings or chinese noodles may be sprinkled over the casserole near the end of baking time for a crisp flavor contrast.

Baked and served in your most attractive casserole, this dinner main dish takes on an exotic air. An accompaniment might be a pineapple which has been halved, but with the top left intact.

The pineapple is removed and the shell filled with cottage cheese garnished with unpeeled orange slices and parsley sprigs.

With this combination serve a tossed green salad and French crescent rolls. For dessert choose your favorite chiffon pie.

Shanghai Casserole

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 package (10½ ounces) frozen mixed vegetables
- ½ cup water
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 2 cups chopped celery
- 1 can (3 ounces) Chinese noodles

Brown ground beef in lard or drippings. Add chopped onion and cook until tender. Pour off drippings. Cook vegetables in water 5 minutes and drain. Combine vegetables, mushroom soup, salt, pepper, soy sauce and celery and stir into meat mixture. Place in a 2½ quart casserole. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes. Remove cover, sprinkle with Chinese noodles and bake 5 minutes longer, 6 to 8 servings.

Meat Loaf Popular

Meat loaf probably scores next to hamburger as a popular choice for meals. Perhaps in the estimation of the cook it may come first as, made by a large recipe, it can be served hot for one meal and cold for several others.

Once upon a time veal was often used alone, but today we are likely to use a combination of meats. One of the favorite recipes uses ground beef with a small amount of ground salt pork. It is seasoned with minced onion and catsup. Strips of bacon are laid over the top. In addition a tomato sauce will be an accompaniment.

Meat Loaf

- 2 pounds chopped beef
- ¼ pound chopped salt pork
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 3 tablespoons catsup
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 medium-sized onion, minced
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 3 strips bacon

Mix meat with slightly beaten eggs, milk, butter, catsup, seasonings, onion, and bread crumbs. Shape in loaf or pack in greased 8x4-inch loaf pan. Cover with strips of bacon and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 45 minutes, until well browned. Serve with tomato sauce or mushroom sauce Yield—Eight to ten servings. Note — Ground pork and veal may be substituted for half the beef.

Veal Loaf, Baudin

- 1½ pounds lean veal, finely ground
- ½ cup cracker crumbs
- 3 eggs
- ½ stick melted butter or margarine
- 1 cup half and half
- Seasonings to taste

Mix ingredients in order given. Bake in loaf pan for 1½ to 2 hours in moderate oven (350 degrees).

Wide Variety In Chip Dips

Hostesses who serve new dips with potato chips become increasingly popular.

Here, for instance, are 3 dips which have widely different and delicious tastes.

Spicy Jade Chip Dip

- 1 tsp. dill pickle, finely chopped
- 1 tsp. blanched almonds, finely chopped
- 1 tsp. parsley, finely chopped
- 1 tps. chives, chopped fine with
- ¾ c. sour cream
- 3 oz. cream cheese, well creamed

Sea Queen Chip Dip

Blend well 3 oz. cream cheese with 2 tbsp. cream, anchovy paste and chopped watercress.

Cucumber Crunch Dip

Blend:

- 2 C. thick sour cream
- 1 c. cucumber peeled and chopped)
- ¼ c. chopped chives
- ¼ c. parsley, chopped
- ¼ c. thinly slices radishes
- Salt and pepper to taste

Spicy Chip-Coated Chicken

- ½ c. potato chips crushed
- 1 tsp. tsp. salt
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- ¼ 3 lb. fryer (cut in pieces)
- 2 eggs (beaten light)
- ¼ c. milk
- ⅓ c. margarine
- Dash of powdered ginger

Combine potato chips and seasonings. Combine eggs and milk. Dip chicken first in chip mixture, then in egg and milk mixture, and again in chip mixture pressing chicken in chips to be sure it is completely coated. Melt margarine in baking dish. Place chicken pieces side by side in dish (do not overlap or touch one another). Have oven set at 325°. Bake chicken 45 minutes, or until tender.

Week's Food Economies

Vegetables and fruits are the foods that make meals different and interesting to eat. When you shop you will find counters well stocked and colorful in keeping with the season, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore office of the Department of Markets, University of Maryland.

Despite the wide variety available, three familiar vegetables top the list of best buys: green beans and sweet potatoes from Maryland farms and celery from the eastern producing areas of New York and New Jersey.

Celery is what the appetite orders when you want something crisp and crunchy. The type of celery grown has been reversed by consumer demand, from the bleached variety to the green Pascal. This is the season when we get eastern grown celery on the market and prices are attractive. Use the outer stalks for cooking, the leaves for seasoning soups or garnishing, and the hearts for eating raw.

Green snap beans from the Maryland fall crop are a good choice in a green vegetable. Locally produced beans have advantages for consumers. The short shipping distance enables growers to pick beans at optimum maturity for quality and offer them to shoppers without delay. Top quality beans will be bright, clean, and fresh in appearance.

Sweet potatoes are low in cost as the harvest of fresh sweets reaches its peak in the markets. This vegetable is the best buy in yellow vegetables. Select smooth plump, dry and clean potatoes and buy in amounts than can be used in a short period.

Apples are the leading fruit value at this season of the year. Purchase four-pound bags or portions of bushels for the lowest cost per pound. Jonathan and McIntosh are two good general-purpose apples. Cortlands are excellent for salads since they resist turning brown after being cut or sliced. Romes are the best for baking.

Honeydew melons are also on the best buy list for fruits. A melon that is a creamy yellow color with a typical aroma will be ripe and ready to eat.

Suggestions in protein foods are chicken and specials on lamb. These meats will add variety to the main course of your meal.

Tangy Chicken

- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
- 2½ cups water
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 onion, stuck with cloves
- 2 stalks celery
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon each pepper and thyme
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 lemon, sliced
- Parsley

Put chicken in deep kettle with tight-fitting lid. Add water, bay leaves, onion, celery, salt, pepper and thyme; cover. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 40 to 50 minutes. Remove from heat. Strain broth and measure 2½ cups. Combine flour with ½ cup of the cooled stock; heat until smooth. Add lemon slices to remaining stock. Gradually add flour mixture to stock, stirring constantly and cook until thickened. Add chicken; heat. Garnish with parsley.

YIELD: 8 servings, 200 calories per serving.

Eggs Should Be Cooked Slowly

Don't hard-boil eggs! Eggs should be cooked slowly. High, rapid heat applied to eggs toughens the protein and is the cause of the greenish ring on the outside of the yolk. For hard-boiled eggs, just lengthen cooking time, then cool quickly.

No reason why you can't add herbs to that gravy! Try tarragon for chicken, oregano for lamb, basil for beef.

Smoke Signal

CHICAGO (UPI) — Primitive Indians smoked meat in tepees, burning a semi-dried grass that gave meat the "bondire" smell, the American Meat Institute reports.

It's the same "bonfire" smell that fills the air during fall cookouts, the institute said.

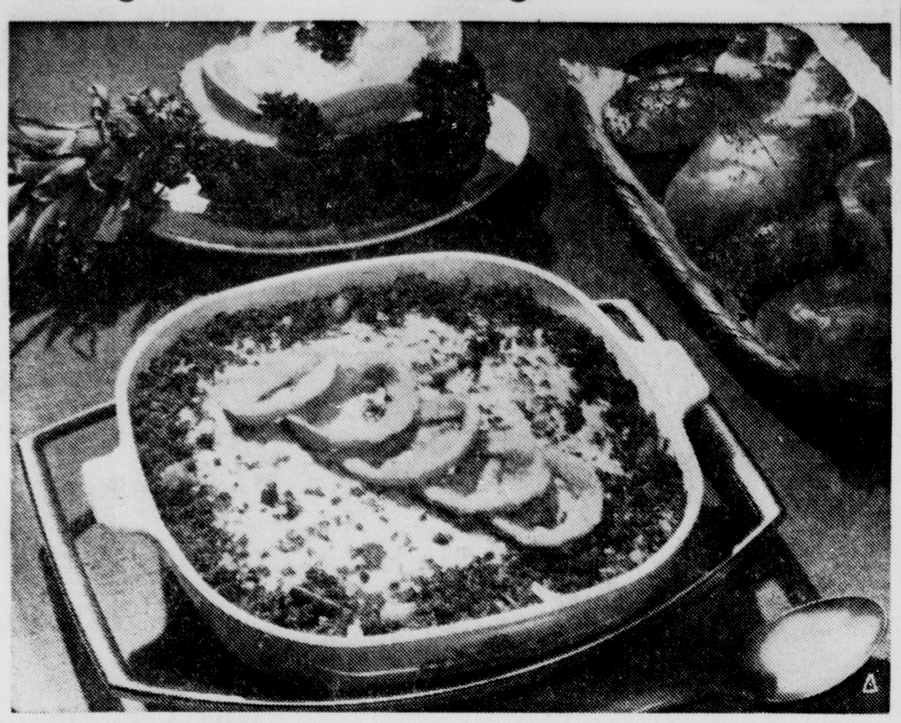
Shanghai Casserole Elegant Dish



Here is a casserole elegant enough to grace your buffet dinner party. Versatile ground beef is the basis of this tasty combination. Garnishing the top of the casserole are French fried onion rings. A pineapple shell filled with cottage cheese and decorated with orange slices accompanies the beef dish.

Time was when casseroles were considered strictly as a good time-saver for mother on club day when she would be late getting home to prepare dinner.

We still find them important for this purpose. We can prepare the casserole in the morning, refrigerate it, then slip it in the oven minutes before dinner.

But certainly casserole cookery has taken on a greater importance in our menus. Today, casseroles have become glamorous and are the choice for many of the fanciest of buffet dinners.

One of our favorite casserole meats is ground beef. It is so versatile blends with numerous vegetables, with sauces, herbs and seasonings. Here's a new casserole to add to your repertoire. It's called Shanghai Casserole. In the recipe below you'll find the ground beef is combined with frozen mixed vegetables, with celery and with condensed mushroom soup seasoned with soy sauce.

French fried onion rings or chinese noodles may be sprinkled over the casserole near the end of baking time for a crisp flavor contrast.

Baked and served in your most attractive casserole, this dinner main dish takes on an exotic air. An accompaniment might be a pineapple which has been halved, but with the top left intact.

The pineapple is removed and the shell filled with cottage cheese garnished with unpeeled orange slices and parsley sprigs.

With this combination serve a tossed green salad and French crescent rolls. For dessert choose your favorite chiffon pie.

Shanghai Casserole

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- 1 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 package (10½ ounces) frozen mixed vegetables
- ½ cup water
- 1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 2 cups chopped celery
- 1 can (3 ounces) Chinese noodles

Brown ground beef in lard or drippings. Add chopped onion and cook until tender. Pour off drippings. Cook vegetables in water 5 minutes and drain. Combine vegetables, mushroom soup, salt, pepper, soy sauce and celery and stir into meat mixture. Place in a 2½ quart casserole. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) 25 minutes. Remove cover, sprinkle with Chinese noodles and bake 5 minutes longer, 6 to 8 servings.

Meat Loaf Popular

Meat loaf probably scores next to hamburger as a popular choice for meals. Perhaps in the estimation of the cook it may come first as, made by a large recipe, it can be served hot for one meal and cold for several others.

Once upon a time veal was often used alone, but today we are likely to use a combination of meats. One of the favorite recipes uses ground beef with a small amount of ground salt pork. It is seasoned with minced onion and catsup. Strips of bacon are laid over the top. In addition a tomato sauce will be an accompaniment.

Meat Loaf

- 2 pounds chopped beef
- ¼ pound chopped salt pork
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 3 tablespoons catsup
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 medium-sized onion, minced
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 3 strips bacon

Mix meat with slightly beaten eggs, milk, butter, catsup, seasonings, onion, and bread crumbs. Shape in loaf or pack in greased 8x4-inch loaf pan. Cover with strips of bacon and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) 45 minutes, until well browned. Serve with tomato sauce or mushroom sauce. Yield—Eight to ten servings. Note — Ground pork and veal may be substituted for half the beef.

Veal Loaf, Baudin

- 1½ pounds lean veal, finely ground
- ½ cup cracker crumbs
- 3 eggs
- ½ stick melted butter or margarine
- 1 cup half and half
- Seasonings to taste

Mix ingredients in order given. Bake in loaf pan for 1½ to 2 hours in moderate oven (350 degrees).

- 3 oz. cream cheese, well creamed

Sea Queen Chip Dip

Blend well 3 oz. cream cheese with 2 tbsp. cream, anchovy paste and chopped watercress.

Cucumber Crunch Dip

Blend:
- 2 C. thick sour cream
- 1 c. cucumber peeled and chopped)

Week's Food Economies

Vegetables and fruits are the foods that make meals different and interesting to eat. When you shop you will find counters well stocked and colorful in keeping with the season, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore office of the Department of Markets, University of Maryland.

Despite the wide variety available, three familiar vegetables top the list of best buys: green beans and sweet potatoes from Maryland farms and celery from the eastern producing areas of New York and New Jersey.

Celery is what the appetite orders when you want something crisp and crunchy. The type of celery grown has been reversed by consumer demand, from the bleached variety to the green Pascal. This is the season when we get eastern grown celery on the market and prices are attractive. Use the outer stalks for cooking, the leaves for seasoning soups or garnishing, and the hearts for eating raw.

Green snap beans from the Maryland fall crop are a good choice in a green vegetable. Locally produced beans have advantages for consumers. The short shipping distance enables growers to pick beans at optimum maturity for quality and offer them to shoppers without delay. Top quality beans will be bright, clean, and fresh in appearance.

Sweet potatoes are low in cost as the harvest of fresh sweets reaches its peak in the markets. This vegetable is the best buy in yellow vegetables. Select smooth plump, dry and clean potatoes and buy in amounts than can be used in a short period.

Apples are the leading fruit value at this season of the year. Purchase four-pound bags or portions of bushels for the lowest cost per pound. Jonathan and McIntosh are two good general-purpose apples. Cortlands are excellent for salads since they resist turning brown after being cut or sliced. Romes are the best for baking.

Honeydew melons are also on the best buy list for fruits. A melon that is a creamy yellow color with a typical aroma will be ripe and ready to eat.

Suggestions in protein foods are chicken and specials on lamb. These meats will add variety to the main course of your meal.

Tangy Chicken

- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in serving pieces
- 2½ cups water
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 onion, stuck with cloves
- 2 stalks celery
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon each pepper and thyme
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 lemon, sliced
- Parsley

Put chicken in deep kettle with tight-fitting lid. Add water, bay leaves, onion, celery, salt, pepper and thyme; cover. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 40 to 50 minutes. Remove from heat. Strain broth and measure 2½ cups. Combine flour with ½ cup of the cooled stock; heat until smooth. Add lemon slices to remaining stock. Gradually add flour mixture to stock, stirring constantly and cook until thickened. Add chicken; heat. Garnish with parsley.

YIELD: 8 servings, 200 calories per serving.

Eggs Should Be Cooked Slowly

Don't hard-boil eggs! Eggs should be cooked slowly. High, rapid heat applied to eggs toughens the protein and is the cause of the greenish ring on the outside of the yolk. For hard-boiled eggs, just lengthen cooking time, then cool quickly.

No reason why you can't add herbs to that gravy! Try tarragon for chicken, oregano for lamb, basil for beef.

Smoke Signal

CHICAGO (UPI) — Primitive Indians smoked meat in tepees, burning a semi-dried grass that gave meat the "bondire" smell, the American Meat Institute reports.

It's the same "bonfire" smell that fills the air during fall cookouts, the institute said.

Cut-Outs For Halloween Cut-Ups

HOBGOBLIN SANDWICHES—All openface, and featuring ghosts, cats and pumpkin faces. Make them from bread, deviled ham and cheddar cheese cut-outs plus garnishings.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

TRICKS MAKE treats for Halloween. Are your youngsters having a party? They'll enjoy making tricky open-sandwiches with goblin-type toppings cut from slices of cheddar cheese. If no party is planned, the sandwiches will still be fun to serve to the family.

All these sandwich cut-outs are made from bread, deviled ham and cheese. First the bread is spread with the ham. Then the sliced cheedar cheese is cut out in Halloween shapes and arranged over the ham.

If you have a set of tiny canape cutters, your youngsters will have fun using them to cut out the features for pumpkin-face sandwiches. A tiny triangle-shaped cutter will make a fine nose, a little half-moon cutter will fashion alluring eyes.

Boys and girls can also cut out center rounds from cheese slices for Halloween cat sandwiches and add the garnishings that make the features on the cat's face.

To our knowledge, cookie cutters do not come in ghost shape, so to make spook sandwiches a ghost pattern will have to be cut out of cardboard.

Here are specific directions for all three open sandwiches.

SANDWICHES

Pumpkin Faces — Cut rounds from slices of bread with a cookie cutter; spread the bread rounds with deviled ham. Cut out matching size rounds from slices of cheddar cheese; cut out pumpkin-face features — eyes, nose and mouth—from the cheese rounds, place the cut-out cheese rounds over the ham-spread bread rounds. Use parsley for the pumpkin face's hair, raisins for the eyes; make a bow tie from tiny wedges of green pepper placed over larger wedges of pimiento.

Ghosts — Cut a ghost shape out of cardboard and use this pattern to cut spooks out of slices of cheddar cheese. Spread slices of bread with deviled ham and place a cheese ghost over each. Bits of ripe olive or raisin may be used for the spook's eyes and nose and a strip of pimiento for his mouth.

Cats — Cut out rounds from sandwich-size slices of cheddar cheese with a cookie cutter to represent cat faces; make two notches in each cheese cut-out to represent the cat's ears. Use garnishings for the cat's features — ripe olives or raisins for the eyes and nose, a dot of pimiento for the mouth, and green pepper or pickle strips for the whiskers.

Whip cranberry juice and orange juice with crushed ice in your blender for a frosty refreshing summertime drink.

Veal Napoli With Spaghetti

1 pkg. tangy Italian style spaghetti dinner
1 (8-oz.) can tomato sauce
1 lb. veal steak
2 eggs, beaten
Dry bread crumbs
Vegetable oil
1 6-oz-pkg. natural Mozzarella cheese sliced

Prepare spaghetti and sauce as directed on package using canned tomato sauce. Cut meat into serving pieces. Dip in beaten eggs; then in combined grated Parmesan cheese and bread crumbs. Brown on both sides in oil. Place spaghetti in 12x8-inch baking dish; cover with meat and sauce. Top with Mozzarella cheese, bake at 350°, 20 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

Quick Meats Are Tangy In Barbecue Sauce

A barbecue sauce adds spark to meat dishes, especially when it's a tangy homemade barbecue sauce you've prepared yourself.

Quick dishes from leftover cooked meats are well suited for a barbecue sauce. Make the sauce ahead of time. Then all you need do is heat the meat with the sauce and your main dish is complete. Almost any kind of cooked meat can be used, and you may serve it sliced, diced or ground.

If you don't have cooked meat on hand, try these barbecued frankfurters. You can slice the franks before heating and serve them on toasted buns, rice, spaghetti or macaroni. It's a dish that will click with the tastes of your family.

Barbecued Franks

1½ pounds frankfurters

Barbecue Sauce

1 medium onion, chopped
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup catchup
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon red pepper

Brown onion in lard or drippings. Add remaining ingredients and blend thoroughly. Arrange frankfurters in a shallow pan and add Barbecue Sauce. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 30 minutes. 6 servings.

Making French toast? Beat three eggs with a third cup of milk and use this blend for dipping about eight slices of bread.

A Banana In Every Pop

Frozen Banana Kabobs with a coating of melted semi-sweet chocolate morsels are a delectable, nutritious treat for tots. Thanks to handy pre-sweetened morsels, the homemaker can achieve a delicious old-fashioned chocolate flavor the modern way in shortcut style. Cut 6 bananas in fourths or fifths, string 2 or 3 banana pieces on wooden skewers or sticks, and freeze. Melt over hot but not boiling water one 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels and 1 tablespoon shortening. Spread bananas with chocolate, wrap each kabob in foil, and store in freezer. Another wonderful treat is bananas with a butterscotch and peanut butter coating. Prepare the bananas in the same fashion. Melt over hot but not boiling water one 6-ounce package (1 cup) butterscotch morsels and ½ cup peanut butter. Stir until smooth and proceed as for chocolate kabobs.

A Tender, Juicy Steak Is Favorite With Men

A sure way to Dad's heart is through a special menu. Most fathers would certainly be pleased with a thick, juicy porterhouse steak for a Sunday dinner. If it's broiled to just the degree of doneness Dad wishes, he'll be even more impressed.

Here are a few simple suggestions. Steak for broiling should be at least 1 inch thick. Set the regulator for broiling. Place the steak on the rack in your broiler pan and insert the pan and rack.

If your steak is 1 inch thick, its surface should be 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Thicker, 2-inch steaks should be 3 to 5 inches from the heat.

When one side is browned, season, turn and finish cooking the steak on the second side. Meats, such as steak, which are broiled should be seasoned after they are browned. Steaks should be turned only once during broiling.

Steaks cut 1 inch thick require 18 to 20 minutes total cooking time for rare steak, 20 to 25 minutes for medium. Steaks cut 2 inches thick require 30 to 35 minutes for rare, 35 to 40 for medium.

If you are broiling on an outdoor grill, the distance from the heat and broiling time are about the same. Build the fire far enough in advance so that the coals are covered with a grey ash when cooking begins.

If you have trouble rolling up thinly sliced sandwich bread — when you are preparing sandwich rolls—try covering the bread slices, after crusts are removed, with a damp towel.

Local College Has Many '63 Graduates

A surprisingly large number of 1963 graduates from area schools, and particularly in Cumberland, have been enrolled as full-time students at Allegany Community College.

Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the college, said this year's freshman class also includes a good many graduates from the 1962 and 1961 classes, adding that he feels this results from the publicity given "drop-outs" and the need for continuing education during the summer months.

There are 117 full-tume students enrolled as freshmen, according to Dr. Zimmer, who says that number has moved ACC up two notches in enrollment among the 12 community colleges in Maryland.

Ranked below the local college are Frederick College, with a total of 76 students, and Charles County College, with 73.

Dr. Zimmer says the college anticipates to be near capacity next September when he expects the enrollment to approximate 200. If that number is reached, he continued, Allegany Community College will move up at least two, and maybe three, places in enrollment.

Allegany High School is represented by 39 freshman students, of whom 28 graduated in June and the others in the two previous years. Fort Hill High has 23 from this year's graduating class enrolled at ACC, and six from previous years, while LaSalle High has a total of 15 enrolled, seven of whom finished school in June.

Other schools in the area, with the number of 1963 graduates enrolled and those from the previous two graduating classes, are:

Beall High, 4 and 1; Valley High, five and 1; Bedford High, 1 and 1; Bruce High, 3 and 3; Everett High, 0 and 1; Frederick High, 0 and 1; Mt. Savage, 2 and 0; Southern High, 1 and 1; Oldtown High, 1 and 0; Rowlesburg High, 0 and 1, and Ursuline Academy, 2 and 1.

Palmer, Nicklaus To Defend U.S. Team Title In Canada Cup Play

Golfers From 33 Nations Present Powerful Field

Arnie Says He And Jack Must "Be At Our Best"

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

PARIS (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, although not selling his team short, warned Wednesday that he and his partner, Jack Nicklaus, will have "to be at our best" to defend successfully the team title in the Canada Cup and International Golf Association matches beginning Thursday.

Playing for the third time in this international tournament which draws the two best golfers from 33 nations, Palmer said this was by far a stronger field than the U.S. team faced in either 1960 and 1962, years in which he paired with the veteran Sam Snead to win the team title.

"There are at least eight teams here besides ours which could win," Palmer said. "After all anything can happen in golf and this talk that we have a lock on the team championship is a lot of bunk.

"Of course, if Jack and I are playing at our best, we have a real good shot at it, but I learned long ago not to count anything in the bag in golf, even if you have a three-stroke lead with one hole to play."

Palmer praised the well-manicured, rolling 6,834 yard St. Nom-la-Breteche course, 12 miles outside of Paris.

"If they had a few more trees on it, you wouldn't know the difference from playing a course back in the states," Palmer added.

Picks Top Teams

Palmer picked as the top teams he and Nicklaus would have to beat as:

The South African team of Gary Player and Retief Waltman; the Australian duo of Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin; the Canadian pair of Stan Leonard and Al Balding; the Argentine team of Robert de Vicenzo and Fidel de Luca; and the four teams from the British Isles. They are the English team of Bernard Hunt and Neil Coles; the Irishmen, Christy O'Connor and Jim Martin; Dave Thomas and Brian Huggett of Wales; and the Scottish pair of John Panton and George Will.

Palmer also forecast a close race for the individual championship, in which he and Nicklaus also are favored. He said he liked the chances of Player, Waltman, Hunt, Coles, De Vicenzo, Flory Van Donck of Belgium and the two Australians, Crampton and Devlin.

"There are others who can give you trouble, too," Palmer said. "Don't believe it if anyone says that between Jack and me we have both championships in the bag. Naturally, I like our chances, but in a strong field like this one, anything can happen."

Disagree With Complaints

Neither Palmer nor Nicklaus agreed with the complaints of many of other golfers about the course. There had been charges that there were too many bad fairway lies, that the rough was too tough and that many of the greens would not hold approach shots.

"I think the fairways and greens are okay," Nicklaus said after playing a practice round Wednesday with Palmer and the two South Africans. No score was kept in the foursome as they played extra balls on many holes.

Nicklaus guessed it would take "about 275"—13 under par for four rounds—to win the individual title.

Palmer said that some fairway lies were bad because the turf was soft, but said he thought the rough and sand traps were fair.

Clay Would Like To Stage Title Fight In Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — Brash Cassius Clay, better known as the Louisville Lip, said Wednesday night he would like to stage a title fight against heavyweight champ Sonny Liston in the Motor City.

Clay, on a local television sports show, said he prefers Detroit "over Chicago or Louisville for a title fight against Liston."

"I consider Detroit a great sports town" Clay told sportscaster Gene Osborn, "and because I have revised boxing I think I would be a great drawing card here."

The "Lip" said he would weigh in against Liston "at a fast 200 pounds."

Clay is in town appearing with a rock 'n' roll show.

He said his left jab is "fast as a machine gun" and predicted when he meets Liston that he (Liston) would "fall in eight."

Clay said the fight would not be held this year. "The fight will probably be held in February," Clay said.

No. Illinois Remains Small College Leader

Delaware Moves Up To Second

NEW YORK (UPI) —Northern Illinois retained its place of eminence as the nation's No. 1 small college football team Wednesday but faced up to the possibility of losing it to onrushing Delaware, which keeps coming closer all the time.

Delaware's high scoring Blue Hens, whose 29-12 victory over Ohio University, a major college team, last Saturday represented their lowest point total of the year, climbed from third to second place in the balloting and now are only seven points behind the leader.

The Blue Hens' victory over Ohio University attracted 12 first place votes for them from the 35-man United Press International board of coaches and gave them a total of 261 points to 268 for Northern Illinois, which also drew 12 first place votes.

Northern Illinois breezed past Illinois State 33-0 last Saturday for its sixth straight victory in as many games while Delaware, the highest scoring team in the country, has won all four of its games.

Despite a convincing 66-0 victory over Morris Brown, Florida A&M still dropped a notch from second to third place, drawing four first place votes for a total of 238 points.

Texas A&I remained in fourth place for the third straight week with its fourth consecutive victory while San Diego State clung to fifth place even though it suffered its first setback of the season, a 43-30 loss to Los Angeles State.

Only newcomer to the top 10 was South Dakota State, which vaulted from a 14th place tie to 10th with a 61-0 romp over rival South Dakota.

Wittenberg moved up one spot to sixth place while Montana State droped a rung to seventh. Massachusetts climbed from ninth to eighth and Western Kentucky from 10th to ninth as Central Oklahoma State fell from the top 20.

Bellamy Scores 45 As Bullets Whip New York

BALTIMORE (AP) — Walt Bellamy, the leading scorer in the National Basketball Association, scored 45 points led the Baltimore Bullets to a 115-106 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Wednesday night.

The 6-foot-11 center scored 16 field goals — including several dunkers on the end of Baltimore fast breaks—and added 13 free throws as the Bullets whipped the winless Knicks for the second time.

After trailing 33-24 at the end of the first period, New York pulled to within 38-36 midway through the second quarter. But the Bullets, who scored only two baskets in the first five minutes of the second period went on a scoring spree to roll up a 61-43 half-time margin.

Baltimore led by at least 11 points until the Knicks closed with a rush after the game was out of reach. Tom Gola paced the Knicks with 19 points, 16 of them in the last half.

The loss was the fourth in a row for New York, while Baltimore evened its record at 2-2.

Buckeyes Worked Overtime By Hayes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Coach Woody Hayes worked the Ohio State University football team overtime behind curtains again Wednesday in an effort to bolster his offense before it tackles Wisconsin in a Big Ten game at Madison Saturday afternoon.

While the defense looked good and the squad worked very hard, Hayes conceded he had problems, including getting the right man at right half. He said Don Harkins might be shifted there.

The Buckeyes will fly to Madison Friday morning.

McHan Gets Good Break, Chosen Player Of Week

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lamar McHan, a waiver pickup by the desperate San Francisco 49ers, is The Associated Press' Player of the Week in the National Football League. The last time he was singled out for a bow was as college back of the week at Arkansas in 1953.

The breaks have all been bad for McHan since he left the old Chicago Cardinals in 1959. At Green Bay, McHan lost his job midway in the 1959 season when Vince Lombardi decided to go all the way with Bart Starr. The next move was to Baltimore as stand-in for Johnny Unitas in 1961.

Baltimore asked waivers on McHan earlier this season and the 49ers, grabbing at straws, picked him up. John Brodie's injured arm put him out of action and Ralph Guglielmi refused to report when the New York Giants traded him to San Francisco. McHan also was reluctant at first and went home to think it over before he decided to report.

Jack Christiansen, who took over as coach of the 49ers after Red Hickey resigned, wasted no time using McHan at quarterback. With the 30-year-old castoff at the controls, the 49ers finally broke into the victory column Sunday with a 20-14 triumph over the previously unbeaten Chicago Bears.

McHan completed 10 of 20 passes for 141 yards and one touchdown while guiding the 49ers to their upset over the Bears, snapping a seven-game losing streak.

Terrapins Score ACC Soccer Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Maryland scored three times in the opening period and went on to crush Virginia 7-2 in an Atlantic Coast Conference soccer game Wednesday.

The Terrapins, who have now gone 11 years and 42 games without a defeat in conference play, were led by junior center-forward Eberhard Klein with three tallies, two in the first period and one in the second.

Twice All-American Oyten Tertemiz had two scores for the victors. Brian Fisher opened the Cavalier scoring late in the first period after Maryland had taken its 3-0 lead. The visitors failed to score again until 6 seconds remained in the game and Maryland's third unit was on the field.

Maryland, which had its unbeaten string cut at 23 by Army last Saturday, is now 4-1 on the season and 2-0 in this year's conference play.

The Cavaliers are now 3-2 overall and 1-1 in the ACC.

Pioneer League Ready To Disband

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Pioneer League, in operation in the high mountain country since 1939, moved a step nearer disbanding Wednesday when President Claude Engberg was advised working agreements will not be available in 1964.

"We have no place to go and it looks like we're through," Engbert, head of the baseball league embracing the states of Idaho and Montana.

"We just can't operate without working agreements," said the president.

Engberg said the league will determine in the near future whether to disband or suspend operation for a period of one year with the possibility of reactivating the league for a 1965 operation.

Brief Rest Ordered For Lou Michaels

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Lou Michaels, kicking star of the Pittsburgh Steelers, has been ordered to take a two-day rest by doctors because of a delayed reaction from a penicillin shot.

Steeler officials said Michaels, who is second in National Football League in scoring with 57 points, was ordered to take a rest after breaking out on the hands and feet. He practiced Wednesday but will miss drills Thursday and Friday.

Doctors gave Michaels medication in an effort to clear up his trouble. He is expected to be ready for Sunday's game at Forbes Field with the Dallas Cowboys.

Dallas reported that defensive halfback Don Bishop, a former Steeler, will miss Sunday's game because of a knee injury.

Auerbach Loses Appeal Of Fine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Coach Arnold (Red) Auerbach of the Boston Celtics Wednesday lost an appeal for the rescinding of a $500 fine levied against him in a pre-season game.

Walter Kennedy, president of the National Basketball Association, said the fine was mandatory and will stand.

Auerbach was fined for refusing to leave the court during an exhibition game with the New York Knickerbockers on Oct. 2 at Oceanside, N.Y., when he was ejected from the contest.

The Boston coach appealed and a hearing was held in Baltimore last week. His argument was that fines, to his belief, were not levied against NBA personnel during the exhibition season.

In a wire to Auerbach, Kennedy said that after a review of information given him at the hearing, the fine still stands.

Palmer, Nicklaus To Defend U.S. Team Title In Canada Cup Play

Golfers From 33 Nations Present Powerful Field

Arnie Says He And Jack Must "Be At Our Best"

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

PARIS (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, although not selling his team short, warned Wednesday that he and his partner, Jack Nicklaus, will have "to be at our best" to defend successfully the team title in the Canada Cup and International Golf Association matches beginning Thursday.

Playing for the third time in this international tournament which draws the two best golfers from 33 nations, Palmer said this was by far a stronger field than the U.S. team faced in either 1960 and 1962, years in which he paired with the veteran Sam Snead to win the team title.

"There are at least eight teams here besides ours which could win," Palmer said. "After all anything can happen in golf and this talk that we have a lock on the team championship is a lot of bunk.

"Of course, if Jack and I are playing at our best, we have a real good shot at it, but I learned long ago not to count anything in the bag in golf, even if you have a three-stroke lead with one hole to play."

Palmer praised the well-manicured, rolling 6,834 yard St. Nom-la-Breteche course, 12 miles outside of Paris.

"If they had a few more trees on it, you wouldn't know the difference from playing a course back in the states," Palmer added.

Picks Top Teams

Palmer picked as the top teams he and Nicklaus would have to beat as:

The South African team of Gary Player and Retief Waltman; the Australian duo of Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin; the Canadian pair of Stan Leonard and Al Balding; the Argentine team of Robert de Vicenzo and Fidel de Luca; and the four teams from the British Isles. They are the English team of Bernard Hunt and Neil Coles; the Irishmen, Christy O'Connor and Jim Martin; Dave Thomas and Brian Huggett of Wales; and the Scottish pair of John Panton and George Will.

Palmer also forecast a close race for the individual championship, in which he and Nicklaus also are favored. He said he liked the chances of Player, Waltman, Hunt, Coles, De Vicenzo, Flory Van Donck of Belgium and the two Australians, Crampton and Devlin.

"There are others who can give you trouble, too," Palmer said. "Don't believe it if anyone says that between Jack and me we have both championships in the bag. Naturally, I like our chances, but in a strong field like this one, anything can happen."

Disagree With Complaints

Neither Palmer nor Nicklaus agreed with the complaints of many of other golfers about the course. There had been charges that there were too many bad fairway lies, that the rough was too tough and that many of the greens would not hold approach shots.

"I think the fairways and greens are okay," Nicklaus said after playing a practice round Wednesday with Palmer and the two South Africans. No score was kept in the foursome as they played extra balls on many holes.

Nicklaus guessed it would take "about 275"—13 under par for four rounds—to win the individual title.

Palmer said that some fairway lies were bad because the turf was soft, but said he thought the rough and sand traps were fair.

Clay Would Like To Stage Title Fight In Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — Brash Cassius Clay, better known as the Louisville Lip, said Wednesday night he would like to stage a title fight against heavyweight champ Sonny Liston in the Motor City.

Clay, on a local television sports show, said he prefers Detroit "over Chicago or Louisville for a title fight against Liston."

"I consider Detroit a great sports town" Clay told sportscaster Gene Osborn, "and because I have revised boxing I think I would be a great drawing card here."

The "Lip" said he would weigh in against Liston "at a fast 200 pounds."

Clay is in town appearing with a rock 'n' roll show.

He said his left jab is "fast as a machine gun" and predicted when he meets Liston that he (Liston) would "fall in eight."

Clay said the fight would not be held this year. "The fight will probably be held in February," Clay said.

County Meet, Battle Of Unbeatens Feature Cross Country Activity

Romney Faces Elk Garden At Ft. Cumberland

Beall To Defend Crown Against Alco, Fort Hill

Fort Cumberland Golf Course will be a beehive of activity today about 4 p. m., but you won't find anybody there driving, chipping or putting.

Cross country heads the bill, with a pair of meets of equal importance on tap.

Beall High School will defend its Allegany County championship against Fort Hill and Allegany. Elk Garden and Romney, both of whom have beaten all three of the county meet participants, have a showdown in a dual test.

"B" Meets Slated

Two Class B meets involving smaller schools are slated for the afternoon. Oldtown and Valley will square off in a duel for county "B" honors, and Paw Paw opposes Capon Bridge.

Beall and Fort Hill, with one victory apiece, have both defeated Valley. Allegany is winless in a pair of dual meets and one triangular affair.

Romney trounced Allegany, and defeated Beall (23-32) and Fort Hill, 21-35.

Hott Top Performer

The Pioneer harriers have the area's top individual performer in Allen Hott, who set the Fort Cumberland course record last season and has broken his own mark repeatedly. Hott's best time to date is 10:56.

Today's meets will serve as good tune-ups for the PVC and CVAL meets scheduled for next Thursday.

Romney, Elk Garden, Beall, Paw Paw and Capon Bridge will enter the PVC competition at Fort Cumberland. Allegany and Fort Hill will journey to Martinsburg to battle it out with the other four CVAL schools.

Track Federation Shifts Policy To Help Build Up Olympic Team

Move By Amateur Body Viewed As Truce With AAU

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States Track and Field Federation, in a policy shift that has been cleared by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, dropped all bars Wednesday for competition in all amateur track meets by its student athletes.

This policy will be in effect from the present until Nov. 1, 1964, and is viewed as an all-out conclusive truce with the Amateur Athletic Union for the building of the best possible U.S. Olympic team in the summer games at Tokyo next year.

Charles (Chick) Werner, USTFF executive director, said that USTFF student athletes need not join the AAU to participate in any meets, including the Olympic trials. Those who make the Olympic team, however, will join the AAU, he said.

In the prolonged battle between the federation and the AAU over certification for international competition, which is held by the latter, college track men seemingly have been caught in the middle of a controversy.

By competing in meets not sanctioned by the AAU, they have risked being blackballed from international competition. And by, competing in meets sponsored by the AAU, they have risked reprimand from the USTFF.

"This policy gives a full clearance for our athletes to compete in open competition and we hope that the AAU does the same," Werner said. "This also provides for an institution to allow the use of its facilities by the AAU if it requests to do so. Undoubtedly this request would be granted by the USTFF."

The boycott of university facilities has been a suggestion by the USTFF in its continuing battle over control of amateur athletics with the AAU and many major institutions — notably those on the West Coast—have followed it down the line.

MacArthur was appointed a year ago by President Kennedy as an arbitrator in the feud between the federation and the AAU in order that this country be assured of fielding its best possible team for the Olympics.

Membership in the USTFF represents 20,000 high schools, 550 universities and colleges and 300 junior colleges.

Northwestern Shifts Emphasis To Defense

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Northwestern shifted its emphasis to defense in Wednesday's football practice, conducted under top secret conditions.

Injured senior guards Jack Cvercko and Rich Lawton were in uniform, but did not take part in contact drills. Coach Ara Parseghian said junior Don Robinson would start in Cvercko's place Saturday against Michigan State.

Kochman's Grid Career Seen Ended

AFL Back Having Surgery On Knee

HOUSTON (UPI) — Roger Kochman, a sturdy football professional with a string of college and pro credits on his record, may never play again.

The 205-pound, 6-foot-2 halfback of the Buffalo Bills was the target Sunday when 275-pound Houston Oiler tackle Dudley Meredith and 245-pound end Gary Cutsinger converged in a hard rush into a Buffalo offensive play.

With Meredith hitting on one side and Cutsinger on the other, Kochman was trapped. He tried to change direction, and his legs crossed at the knee, just as he was hit. The leverage snapped his knee into a bone separation. The injury may sideline him permanently.

Doctors are not sure yet about his condition. He is in the intensive care unit of Methodist Hospital, can only see one visitor at a time, and has undergone surgery to repair the knee. More surgery may be required.

Knee trouble has been a plague on his career.

In 1959, he was a sophomore at Penn State, rushing with the best of them. His 100-yard kickoff return against top-rated Syracuse that year nearly sent the Nittany Lions to an upset—and it set a school record.

In 1960, Kochman was playing sandlot baseball when he injured his knee. The resultant surgery kept him out of sports that year.

He came back in 1961 and 1962 to put his name back on the Penn State record books.

In his last year with the school, he led ground gainers with 5.4 yards per carry and scored more points—48 — than any other squadman. He made the American Football Coaches' All-America first team choice.

Kockman, a native of Wilkinsburg, Pa., was activated with the Bills' after this year's pro season started, and became a reliable and strong running back with the Bills.

Berra Officially Becomes Baseball 'Brain' Today

Yogi To Sign As Yankees' New Manager

NEW YORK (UPI) — Yogi Berra, subject of many hilarious sports jokes, some of them true, will be officially crowned a baseball "brain" Thursday when he signs as manager of the New York Yankees for a $50,000 salary.

Appointment of the squat, 38-year-old catcher as the successor to Ralph Houk, who has stepped up to be Yankee general manager, is expected at a noon news conference called by the Yankees.

And the man with the biggest grin at that conference will be Berra himself, the one - time kid from St. Louis who became the greatest home run hitting catcher in major league history.

The announcement of the appointment of anyone else but Berra at the conference would be the greatest sports upset since the Dodgers beat the Yankees in four straight games in the World Series.

In accepting the Yankee job, Berra is turning his back on an opportunity to manage the Baltimore Orioles and probably on several other jobs that he could have for the asking now that the end of his 18-year major league playing career is in sight.

It was learned that Lee MacPhail, president of the Orioles, asked the Yankees sometime within the last two weeks whether Yogi would be available to succeed Billy Hitchcock as manager of the Orioles. But the Yankees told MacPhail they had managerial plans for Berra himself.

Selection as the new manager of the lordly Yankees would cap a brilliant upward climb for Berra, who reported to the Yankees in 1946 as an awkward catcher - outfielder with a reputation as a good hitter but frankly regarded as a bit "dumb" by some folks.

But as time went on Berra earned the respect of his teammates and rivals not merely for his playing ability but for his brains.

First, as Yogi himself put it, "Bill Dickey learned me all his experience" as a catcher and Berra went on to a fabulous career in which he won the American League Most Valuable Player award three times — in 1951, 1954, and 1955. He appeared in 13 World Series and set more than a dozen series records.

With a .293 batting average and eight homers as a part-time player and pinch-hitter in 1963, he completed a career batting average of .285 with a total of 358 homers, more than any other catcher in history. During the past season, he served under Houk as a player-coach.

In stepping into Houk's managerial shoes, Berra will be following a tough act. Houk, who spent most of his own playing career as a seldom-used substitute for Berra, won three pennants in his three years as manager and won the World Series twice.

Houk's appointment as general manager was announced Tuesday along with the retirement of Roy Hamey, who had held that position for the last three years.

Fresno's First PGA Tourney Begins Today

Low Of 280 Seen Taking Top Prize

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) —The $25,000 Fig Garden Village Open, first PGA tournament ever played in Fresno, starts Thursday with the weatherman predicting fair skies and the players predicting that a low score of 280 will take top money.

A light drizzle fell Wednesday as the 18-hole pro-amateur tourney got underway, but the long range prediction was for fair weather through Sunday when the 72-hole event ends up over the tough 7,200-yard San Joaquin Country Club course.

Some of the top money winners of the 1963 tour are on hand to inaugurate what the sponsors hope will be an annual PGA tournament in heart of the San Joaquin Valley.

Late arrivals Wednesday included Phil Rodgers and Dan Sikes, both tournament winners earlier this year. They joined such golf notables as Gene Littler, Mike Souchak, Jerry Barger, Billy Maxwell, Ken Venturi, Bob Goalby and the Hebert brothers, Jay and Lionel.

Goalby said the San Joaquin course offered "one of the sternest but fairest tests of golf on the tour this year."

The greens are still spongy from recent rains but a breeze blowing across the course Wednesday was expected to dry them out some before play got underway Thursday morning.

The course has two holes on the front nine which will offer a challenge to the accuracy of the players.

Al Geiberger, who finished second to Jack Nicklaus in the Sahara Invitational last weekend, saw his tee shot roll into the rough during a practice round Tuesday and he ended up with a triple bogie six for the hole.

The 540-yard, par five sixth green is on a peninsula with water in front and back. The cautious have played it short during practice rounds and have pitched on to a birdie shot. The overpowering drivers have ended up in the water.

Ten amateurs qualified for the event Monday and will be competing against 146 pros. The field will be cut to 60 and ties after Friday's round.

YMCA Will Sponsor Men's Volley Ball, Church Cage Loops

The local "Y" is now getting ready for the senior men's program of leagues and it would like to make an early appeal to all volley-ball and basketball teams that plan to enter one of the two leagues, or both should take note to the beginning dates and the organization of the basketball league.

The men's volley-ball league which will be held on Monday nights during the season will begin on December 2nd at 7:00 p.m. There will be an opening for at least six teams in round-robin play.

The men's basketball league will take on a new form this year in an effort to make a more balanced league, and to provide the opportunity for more teams to want to enter this league. It has been a problem in the past two years holding the league together because differential in the personnal of the teams; therefore, the solution may be to appeal to a new type of organization.

This year the league will be formed of church teams only, similar to the Church Sunday School League in that team members must be representatives of a church group and the players are respective of that group. This league will begin on November 27th, so any such groups desiring to enter a team should contact Lynn Patchin, Physical Director of the YMCA for further information.

The announcement of the appointment of anyone else but Berra at the conference would be the greatest sports upset since the Dodgers beat the Yankees in four straight games in the World Series.

In accepting the Yankee job, Berra is turning his back on an opportunity to manage the Baltimore Orioles and probably on several other jobs that he could have for the asking now that the end of his 18-year major league playing career is in sight.

It was learned that Lee MacPhail, president of the Orioles, asked the Yankees sometime within the last two weeks whether Yogi would be available to succeed Billy Hitchcock as manager of the Orioles. But the Yankees told MacPhail they had managerial plans for Berra himself.

Selection as the new manager of the lordly Yankees would cap a brilliant upward climb for Berra, who reported to the Yankees in 1946 as an awkward catcher - outfielder with a reputation as a good hitter but frankly regarded as a bit "dumb" by some folks.

But as time went on Berra earned the respect of his teammates and rivals not merely for his playing ability but for his brains.

First, as Yogi himself put it, "Bill Dickey learned me all his experience" as a catcher and Berra went on to a fabulous career in which he won the American League Most Valuable Player award three times — in 1951, 1954, and 1955. He appeared in 13 World Series and set more than a dozen series records.

With a .293 batting average and eight homers as a part-time player and pinch-hitter in 1963, he completed a career batting average of .285 with a total of 358 homers, more than any other catcher in history. During the past season, he served under Houk as a player-coach.

In stepping into Houk's managerial shoes, Berra will be following a tough act. Houk, who spent most of his own playing career as a seldom-used substitute for Berra, won three pennants in his three years as manager and won the World Series twice.

Houk's appointment as general manager was announced Tuesday along with the retirement of Roy Hamey, who had held that position for the last three years.

Fresno's First PGA Tourney Begins Today

Low Of 280 Seen Taking Top Prize

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) —The $25,000 Fig Garden Village Open, first PGA tournament ever played in Fresno, starts Thursday with the weatherman predicting fair skies and the players predicting that a low score of 280 will take top money.

A light drizzle fell Wednesday as the 18-hole pro-amateur tourney got underway, but the long range prediction was for fair weather through Sunday when the 72-hole event ends up over the tough 7,200-yard San Joaquin Country Club course.

Some of the top money winners of the 1963 tour are on hand to inaugurate what the sponsors hope will be an annual PGA tournament in heart of the San Joaquin Valley.

Late arrivals Wednesday included Phil Rodgers and Dan Sikes, both tournament winners earlier this year. They joined such golf notables as Gene Littler, Mike Souchak, Jerry Barger, Billy Maxwell, Ken Venturi, Bob Goalby and the Hebert brothers, Jay and Lionel.

Goalby said the San Joaquin course offered "one of the sternest but fairest tests of golf on the tour this year."

The greens are still spongy from recent rains but a breeze blowing across the course Wednesday was expected to dry them out some before play got underway Thursday morning.

The course has two holes on the front nine which will offer a challenge to the accuracy of the players.

Number four, a par-3, 180-yard drive uphill, drops off sharply to the left to an unplayable lie and has been giving some of the pros a bit of trouble.

Al Geiberger, who finished second to Jack Nicklaus in the Sahara Invitational last weekend, saw his tee shot roll into the rough during a practice round Tuesday and he ended up with a triple bogie six for the hole.

The 540-yard, par five sixth green is on a peninsula with water in front and back. The cautious have played it short during practice rounds and have pitched on to a birdie shot. The overpowering drivers have ended up in the water.

Ten amateurs qualified for the event Monday and will be competing against 146 pros. The field will be cut to 60 and ties after Friday's round.

YMCA Will Sponsor Men's Volley Ball, Church Cage Loops

The local "Y" is now getting ready for the senior men's program of leagues and it would like to make an early appeal to all volley-ball and basketball teams that plan to enter one of the two leagues, or both should take note to the beginning dates and the organization of the basketball league.

The men's volley-ball league which will be held on Monday nights during the season will begin on December 2nd at 7:00 p.m. There will be an opening for at least six teams in round-robin play.

The men's basketball league will take on a new form this year in an effort to make a more balanced league, and to provide the opportunity for more teams to want to enter this league. It has been a problem in the past two years holding the league together because differential in the personnal of the teams; therefore, the solution may be to appeal to a new type of organization.

This year the league will be formed of church teams only, similar to the Church Sunday School League in that team members must be representatives of a church group and the players are respective of that group. This league will begin on November 27th, so any such groups desiring to enter a team should contact Lynn Patchin, Physical Director of the YMCA for further information.

Sport Talk with Troxell by Ted

WHEN THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made last week that Frostburg State College had scheduled a football game with Georgetown University, we felt certain somebody had to be kidding.

Georgetown, once an Eastern football power, dropped the sport in 1950 and hasn't engaged in inter-collegiate competition since.

But the Washington institution has maintained a highly successful intramural grid program (regulation football, not touch) with teams representing each of the four classes.

Come Saturday, November 23, an all-star team from the intramural league will meet Frostburg's Bobcats in an honest-to-goodness college football contest at Kehoe Field on the Georgetown campus.

The select squad of about 35 Georgetown all-stars will practice as a team for two weeks before the unique battle.

STUDENT INTEREST PROMPTED Georgetown officials to schedule the game. The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., president of the university, approved the students' request and athletic director Jack Hagerty completed the arrangements.

Shepherd College was the first opponent sought by Hagerty, but the West Virginia school turned down the offer because of scheduling conflicts and Frostburg State was contacted.

Coach Ron VanRyswyk of Frostburg had certain reservations about such a venture at first, but finally decided to oblige the Hoyas.

VanRyswyk, when first contacted, felt the game might be a mismatch. He was given assurance, however, that Georgetown has a lot of good football players and should give the Bobcats an interesting battle.

One fact cannot be disputed. Players in the Georgetown intramural league are well coached, with several graduate students who lettered in football at major colleges handling the duties.

Rev. Robert L. Hoggson, S. J. faculty moderator of athletics at Georgetown, emphasized that the Frostburg game is an adjunct to the intramural program and not the opening of a full inter-collegiate program.

THERE IS A POSSIBILITY that the Hoyas will resume varsity football on a minor scale, and this was a primary factor in VanRyswyk's decision to accept their invitation for November 23.

The Frostburg coach regards Georgetown as a "prestige" school and he would like to have the Capital City university as a regular opponent.

Another oddity is found on Frostburg's 1963 schedule, also involving a Washington school.

Gallaudet College is being met twice this season by the Bobcats, practically an unheard of practice in college football.

A simple explanation for the "double date" is offered by VanRyswyk. "We both wanted another game and we both had an open date to fill."

This Saturday's FSC-Gallaudet meeting at Washington will be the second of the year. The Bobcats racked up a 27-0 triumph in their first get-together at Frostburg on October 4.

THAT PLAIN FACT SHOULD make Frostburg a heavy favorite to sweep the series. Not so, according to VanRyswyk, who offers about a half dozen reasons why he believes Gallaudet will be in the thick of things Saturday.

"Once you've beaten a team, you tend to let down when you play them again," is Ron's opinion.

Other bases for his theory include the fact that this is Gallaudet's Homecoming game and the team will be "up"; Frostburg has lost three key players since the first game; Gallaudet is improving rapidly and gave Shepherd and Bridgewater good battles, and Frostburg was whipped, 28-0, last Saturday by Waynesburg.

In quarterback Coutten, the Washingtonians have a boy who VanRyswyk considers "the best all-round player we've seen all year."

The idea of playing the same team twice in one football season appeals to the Frostburg coach, who expects it to become an increasingly popular practice.

11 Confiscated Guns Will Be Auctioned

Eleven confiscated guns—three shotguns and eight rifles — will be auctioned Saturday, November 2, at 10 a.m., EST, at the Allegany county sheriff's office, according to Charles H. Milton, Jr., chief game warden, Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission.

The guns were seized from persons who violated the game laws and are being disposed of in accordance with Article 66C of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Triple Play Man

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — There were two tripie plays in college baseball in Colorado this year and Art Schneider, Colorado State first baseman, figured in both.

Against Regis College he snagged a line drive, stepped on first base and then threw to second for the third out.

A week later Schneider went to bat against Denver and lined into a triple play with two men on.

Bunning Leads Major Leagues In Homer Serves

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Bunning, the favorite victim of Boston's Ted Williams, had considerable difficulty with the Thumper's former teammates the past season and emerged as the major league leader in giving up home runs.

Bunning, the Detroit righthander, yielded 38 homers. Three of them were to Gary Geiger, the Red Sox' outfielder who was often used as Williams' defensive replacement before the slugger retired in 1960.

Figures compiled by the Associated Press showed that Boston batters slammed nine homers off Bunning this year. The Minnesota Twins tagged him for eight, New York Yankees six, Los Angeles Angels five, Cleveland three, Chicago White Sox, Baltimore and Washington, two each, and Kansas City one.

Denny Lemaster of Milwaukee permitted the most homers in the National League, 30. Roger Craig, a 22-game loser for the New York Mets, was next with 28, followed by San Francisco's Juan Marichal with 27.

Robin Roberts of Baltimore was runner-up in the American League with 35 home run serves.

Sport Talk with Troxell by Ted

WHEN THE ANNOUNCEMENT was made last week that Frostburg State College had scheduled a football game with Georgetown University, we felt certain somebody had to be kidding.

Georgetown, once an Eastern football power, dropped the sport in 1950 and hasn't engaged in inter-collegiate competition since.

But the Washington institution has maintained a highly successful intramural grid program (regulation football, not touch) with teams representing each of the four classes.

Come Saturday, November 23, an all-star team from the intramural league will meet Frostburg's Bobcats in an honest-to-goodness college football contest at Kehoe Field on the Georgetown campus.

The select squad of about 35 Georgetown all-stars will practice as a team for two weeks before the unique battle.

STUDENT INTEREST PROMPTED Georgetown officials to schedule the game. The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., president of the university, approved the students' request and athletic director Jack Hagerty completed the arrangements.

Shepherd College was the first opponent sought by Hagerty, but the West Virginia school turned down the offer because of scheduling conflicts and Frostburg State was contacted.

Coach Ron VanRyswyk of Frostburg had certain reservations about such a venture at first, but finally decided to oblige the Hoyas.

VanRyswyk, when first contacted, felt the game might be a mismatch. He was given assurance, however, that Georgetown has a lot of good football players and should give the Bobcats an interesting battle.

One fact cannot be disputed. Players in the Georgetown intramural league are well coached, with several graduate students who lettered in football at major colleges handling the duties.

Rev. Robert L. Hoggson, S. J. faculty moderator of athletics at Georgetown, emphasized that the Frostburg game is an adjunct to the intramural program and not the opening of a full inter-collegiate program.

THERE IS A POSSIBILITY that the Hoyas will resume varsity football on a minor scale, and this was a primary factor in VanRyswyk's decision to accept their invitation for November 23.

The Frostburg coach regards Georgetown as a "prestige" school and he would like to have the Capital City university as a regular opponent.

Another oddity is found on Frostburg's 1963 schedule, also involving a Washington school.

Gallaudet College is being met twice this season by the Bobcats, practically an unheard of practice in college football.

A simple explanation for the "double date" is offered by VanRyswyk. "We both wanted another game and we both had an open date to fill."

This Saturday's FSC-Gallaudet meeting at Washington will be the second of the year. The Bobcats racked up a 27-0 triumph in their first get-together at Frostburg on October 4.

THAT PLAIN FACT SHOULD make Frostburg a heavy favorite to sweep the series. Not so, according to VanRyswyk, who offers about a half dozen reasons why he believes Gallaudet will be in the thick of things Saturday.

"Once you've beaten a team, you tend to let down when you play them again," is Ron's opinion.

Other bases for his theory include the fact that this is Gallaudet's Homecoming game and the team will be "up"; Frostburg has lost three key players since the first game; Gallaudet is improving rapidly and gave Shepherd and Bridgewater good battles, and Frostburg was whipped, 28-0, last Saturday by Waynesburg.

In quarterback Coutten, the Washingtonians have a boy who VanRyswyk considers "the best all-round player we've seen all year."

The idea of playing the same team twice in one football season appeals to the Frostburg coach, who expects it to become an increasingly popular practice.

11 Confiscated Guns Will Be Auctioned

Eleven confiscated guns—three shotguns and eight rifles — will be auctioned Saturday, November 2, at 10 a.m., EST, at the Allegany county sheriff's office, according to Charles H. Milton, Jr., chief game warden, Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission.

The guns were seized from persons who violated the game laws and are being disposed of in accordance with Article 66C of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Triple Play Man

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — There were two tripie plays in college baseball in Colorado this year and Art Schneider, Colorado State first baseman, figured in both.

Against Regis College he snagged a line drive, stepped on first base and then threw to second for the third out.

A week later Schneider went to bat against Denver and lined into a triple play with two men on.

Bunning Leads Major Leagues In Homer Serves

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Bunning, the favorite victim of Boston's Ted Williams, had considerable difficulty with the Thumper's former teammates the past season and emerged as the major league leader in giving up home runs.

Bunning, the Detroit righthander, yielded 38 homers. Three of them were to Gary Geiger, the Red Sox' outfielder who was often used as Williams' defensive replacement before the slugger retired in 1960.

Figures compiled by the Associated Press showed that Boston batters slammed nine homers off Bunning this year. The Minnesota Twins tagged him for eight, New York Yankees six, Los Angeles Angels five, Cleveland three, Chicago White Sox, Baltimore and Washington, two each, and Kansas City one.

Denny Lemaster of Milwaukee permitted the most homers in the National League, 30. Roger Craig, a 22-game loser for the New York Mets, was next with 28, followed by San Francisco's Juan Marichal with 27.

Robin Roberts of Baltimore was runner-up in the American League with 35 home run serves.

Unbeaten At Home

Navy has never lost a game in its new stadium. Since beating William and Mary in the Stadium Dedication Game five years ago, Navy has won nine in a row at its hometown headquarters. The victims include: William & Mary (4 times), Virginia (twice), George Washington, Villanova, and Cornell.

Edwards Leads ACC Punt Race

Tar Heels' Soph Replaces Houtz

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina sophomore Bill Edwards last inched his way last Saturday into first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference's punting race, which looks more like the game of musical chairs.

Five specialists continue to run within less than two yards a kick of each other, with Edwards leading the way with an average of 39.9 yards a boot.

Unusual Family Adds Church Organ

BALTIMORE (AP) — What more could a household want which has an amateur radio transmitter, three ducks, 24 turtles, parakeets, tropical fish, sand crabs and a dog.

Why a church organ, of course.

Donald H. Smith Jr., 19-year-old college sophomore, has been reassembling the 46-year-old organ in the basement.

"You never saw such a mess spread all over the house," said his mother. She was referring to 300 pipes ranging in length from an inch to 10 feet, a motor and compressor which required four men to move.

Then Mrs. Smith added:

"We're crazy family, but we have fun."

Unusual Family Adds Church Organ

BALTIMORE (AP) — What more could a household want which has an amateur radio transmitter, three ducks, 24 turtles, parakeets, tropical fish, sand crabs and a dog.

Why a church organ, of course.

Donald H. Smith Jr., 19-year-old college sophomore, has been reassembling the 46-year-old organ in the basement.

"You never saw such a mess spread all over the house," said his mother. She was referring to 300 pipes ranging in length from an inch to 10 feet, a motor and compressor which required four men to move.

Then Mrs. Smith added:

"We're crazy family, but we have fun."

Boys Rescued After 2 Hours On Rock Ledge

Mountain Climbers 'Stuck' On Haystack

A holiday from the classroom resulted in a harrowing experience yesterday afternoon for two local boys who were trapped about two hours on a rocky section of Haystack Mountain approximately 350 feet above U. S. Route 40 in the Narrows.

Pulled to safety up over the face of the mountain for a distance of about 50 feet were Patrick M. Douglas, 14, of 707 Hill Top Drive and Ronald L. Bierman, 13, of 430 Grand Avenue, who were noticeably shaken by their experience.

Two of their companions, Daniel W. Young, 13, of 451 Henderson Avenue and Edward B. Baker, 14, of 717 Hill Top Drive, reached the top of the mountain in the climbing expedition.

However the Douglas and Bierman boys got as far as the rocky ledge and apparently "froze" with fright, according to volunteer firemen from LaVale and State Police who figured in the rescue.

A few minutes after noon yesterday Edward McGee, who is an employe of Frost's Atlantic Service Station located in the Narrows, heard one of the boys shouting. At first, Mr. McGee thought the boy was joking until he noticed the two boys in the predicament on the rocky ledge high above the road.

Police, Firemen To Rescue

State Police were notified and they in turn called for assistance from the volunteer firemen of LaVale, who responded with rescue equipment.

Tfc. Joseph Helmstetter and Trooper Ellsworth Mills made their way to the top of the mountain where they found Young and Baker. As Trooper Mills edged his way down the mountain toward the two stranded lads, he kept talking to them to keep them from getting panicky.

Fire Chief James Loar and six other volunteers drove a pumper to Wills Creek Avenue and walked up through the woods about half a mile to the top of the mountain.

They also crept down the mountain toward the two boys. The firemen made a sling of rope, lowered it to the boys, and hauled them up the mountain one at a time.

Both Boys Shaken

Chief Loar said Douglas was trembling when he arrived safely at the top of the mountain and his companion was also shaken by the unexpected ordeal.

The fire chief commended the State Police for their quick action.

The four boys were placed in the police cruiser and taken home.

Other firemen who figured in the rescue operation were Cromwell Zembower, Jerry Proud, assistant chief; Vincent Self, captain; Linn Moore, Lorimer Twigg and Waverly Rice.

The boys were pulled to safety about 2 p.m., said Chief Loar. The four boys had started their climb from the base of the mountain before noon.

Schools were closed yesterday for the annual Chamber of Commerce Business-Education Day program.

Catholic Census Begins In Area On November 3

Plans for a census canvass of Allegany and Garrett counties by the Catholic Archdiocese of Baltimore, were outlined to clergymen and laymen at a meeting last night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, pastor of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, who is serving as chairman of the census in the two counties, told the audience of 40 persons the census will begin on Sunday, November 3.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Chester Griffith, archdiocese chairman, and Frederick A. Saffran, archdiocese layman chairman, both of Baltimore, also spoke to the group and explained the materials in the kit each volunteer census worker will use.

Msgr. Griffith said this is the first census ever taken in the Baltimore archdiocese and is being conducted to determine the needs of all parishes, both old and new.

It is estimated there are 442,000 Catholics in the archdiocese and the census will give an accurate count and help determine the future needs in the fields of parishes, homes for the aged, schools and aid for the handicapped.

Mr. Saffran said at least 50,000 archdiocese workers will be needed for the canvass to check every dwelling in the Baltimore archdiocese. He said, "The census is just looking for the pertinent facts for future needs in the ecclesiastical responsibilities to find the strengths and weaknesses of the archdiocese."

Pastors of all the Catholic churches were told that, once the information has been compiled in Baltimore, each parish will receive the data collected in the respective parishes. At the present time there are no designated boundary lines for parishes and the information compiled in the census may be used to establish boundaries in the future.

Patrick J. Quinn of Frostburg is serving as lay chairman for the canvass in the two counties.

Father Montgomery said the following territory assignments have been made:

Cumberland St. Patrick's — all of North End and to Williams and Park streets within the city to Green Ridge Mountain east on

Water Pollution Group To Draft Stronger Power

Mechanism Called Too Conservative

By TOM STUCKEY

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Water Pollution Control Commission voted Wednesday to have its staff draft a set of stronger regulatory powers for the commission.

"The commission is gravely hampered by a conservative mechanism for enforcing its regulations," said Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, commission member.

Director Paul McKee said the commission needs more power if it is to carry out duties set up by the legislature.

After the recommendations have been drawn up, the commission will consider them and discuss the possibility of asking the legislature for additional powers of enforcement.

The question of enforcement came up at the commission meeting during a discussion of dealings with A. H. Smith, a Prince Georges County sand and gravel operator.

Smith has been ordered by circuit court to abide by the commission regulations for discharge of wastes into Indian Creek, a stream which eventually feeds into the Potomac.

McKee said Smith has repeatedly refused to comply with the regulations.

The commission voted to send Smith a letter demanding that he bring his operations under the regulations within 30 days.

The commission also voted to ask the Potomac Electric Power Company for all the data it has on a study made of plans to build an earth deflector into the Patuxent River at its Chalk Point plant.

The company had a model study made at the Alden Hydraulic Laboratory in Worcester, Mass. That study showed that the proposed deflector would provide a satisfactory method of dispelling the hot water produced by the Chalk Point plant into the Patuxent.

Injured Boys 'Satisfactory'

Two local boys who were injured in a one-car accident Tuesday night on Holland Street were reported in "satisfactory" condition last night at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Estel W. Reed, 18, of 8 Harrison Street, was hospitalized with abrasions and lacerations and possible fractures, and Dennis McGann, 17, of 118 North Lee Street, sustained abrasions and lacerations and possible head and leg injuries.

Two other youths, Stephen Sheetz, 16, of 14 North Lee Street, and Michael D. Reinhart, 17, of 11 South Lee Street, were treated and released from the same hospital. The Sheetz boy received multiple abrasions and the Reinhart boy was treated for a scalp laceration and possible fracture of his collarbone.

City Police Officer Paul Malcolm said the car driven by the Reinhart youth apparently went out of control and turned completely over.

Fired FSC Teachers End Suit

FROSTBURG, Md. (AP)—A suit charging improper dismissal has been dropped by four former Frostburg State College instructors after R. Bowen Hardesty, college president, issued a statement which the teachers took as an apology.

All four of the teachers presently are employed at other institutions. They had charged that their academic freedom had been violated when they were told last June they would not be rehired and demanded a hearing before the State Board of College Trustees. They said they were not rehired because of their liberal views.

In his statement Wednesday, Hardesty said the academic credentials were not involved in the decision not to renew the teachers' contracts.

"The decision not to renew their contracts was largely administrative and concerned the future policy of the college," Hardesty said.

Fred E. Weisgal, attorney for the teachers, said that since the four all were employed elsewhere and in view of Hardesty's statement, the suit would be dropped even though the four men had won all the preliminary court maneuvering.

Portmess Denies A Part In Burglary

Trial Resumes This Morning

Robert Bruce Portmess, 30, of North Waverly Terrace, took the witness stand in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon to deny that he participated in the breaking and entering of Cresaptown School early on May 12 from which equipment valued at $647 was stolen.

Portmess was arrested by city police shortly after 6 a. m. May 12 along with three other occupants of a car in the trunk of which was found the loot stolen from the school.

Michael D. Leslie, 39-year-old former Cumberlander, pleaded guilty to breaking into the school when arraigned last week. Two young men from Baltimore, Joseph F. Schultz Jr., 22, and Thomas F. Wyborski, 24, were found guilty of breaking and entering by a jury which deliberated slightly more than an hour Tuesday afternoon.

Trial Recessed

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, who is hearing the Portmess case without a jury, recessed the trial shortly after 4 p. m. yesterday until 9:15 a. m. today.

Last witness to be heard before the overnight recess was Portmess' sister, Mrs. Sandra Jean Smith, who now lives near Walnut Street. She corroborated one portion of her brother's testimony. She acknowledged that while she was living in LaVale last May 12 her brother came to her residence and asked for iodine, bandage and water for an injured man with whom he had hitch-hiked a ride to LaVale. She said this was about 2 a. m. and he stayed about 10 minutes.

Portmess contended that he left Leslie, Schultz and Wyborski in a service station at Henderson Avenue and Bedford Street about midnight May 11 and did not see them again until he rejoined them in the vicinity of 93 Henderson Avenue where police found the four in the automobile which Schultz had rented in Baltimore. On cross-examination he admitted two prior convictions for robbery and one for breaking and entering.

Four Witnesses

State's Attorney James S. Getty called four witnesses to the stand in presenting the prosecution's case. He first called Leslie who admitted that the four had driven to Cumberland from Baltimore in a car which Schultz had rented there. After an evening in which large quantities of beer and whisky were consumed, Leslie said, the four went to the Cresaptown School which three of them burglarized while Schultz served as lookout.

On cross-examination by Portmess' attorney, Thomas N. Berry, Leslie admitted that he was released from the Maryland Penitentiary in Baltimore on May 8, just four days before the school job in Cresaptown. He had com-

Cars Collide, Hit Buildings; Woman Hurt

Two women were shaken up and extensive property damage was caused yesterday afternoon in a two-car collision which was investigated in South End by city police.

Mrs. Frances Powers of Paw Paw, driver of one of the cars, was taken in the McDonald ambulance to Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

Driver of the other car was Mrs. Mabel I. Zimmerman, Braddock Road, LaVale, who was charged with failure to yield the right of way. She apparently was unhurt, police said.

Officer Kenneth Henry who investigated the accident at 1:20 p. m. said Mrs. Zimmerman was traveling on Third Street toward Virginia Avenue when the brakes of the car apparently failed and her foot hit the accelerator.

The car proceeded onto Virginia Avenue and hit the left rear fender of the Powers car which was traveling south. As a result of the impact the Powers car rammed into the front of Wheeler's Shoe Service, 302 Virginia Avenue, broke the front window and damaged the building.

The Zimmerman car rammed the corner of Allen's Pharmacy, 243 Virginia Avenue, and caused damage to that building. Cpl. Roy Hawse arrived on the scene and helped direct the traffic.

Cumberland Flying Unit Dinner Planned Nov. 2

Frank Kingston Smith, former Philadelphia lawyer, an amateur pilot and aviation writer for the past 10 years, will be the guest speaker during the annual dinner of the Cumberland Flying Associaion November 2 at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

George Griffith, president of the association, who will preside at the dinner beginning at 6:30 p. m., said the speaker will discuss the pleasure and advantage of flying for the average person.

He is the author of three books including "Weekend Pilot," experiences he had while learning to fly a Cessna 1-40; "Flights of Fancy," an account of cross-country flying with his wife, three sons and a poodle; and "I'd Rather Be Flying," which dwells on instrument and multi-engine flying.

He is a graduate of Temple Law School and practiced law in Philadelphia from 1950 to 1961, when he decided to devote his full time to aviation law and free-lance writing, including a column "Weekend Pilot" which appears in Flying magazine. Mr. Smith is a member of various flying groups including Aero Club of Pennsylvania, National Aviation Club and International Society of Aviation Writers.

Tickets for the dinner will be available at the Cumberland Aviation Service in the administration building at the Municipal Airport; Nash Flying Service, Mexico Farms; Kelly-Springfield Tire Company hangar at the airport; Potomac Motors, city; and from Dr. Robert K. Poling, program chairman in charge of ticket sales.

Jury Returns Health Nuisance Conviction

Two Mt. Savage men yesterday were found guilty by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury of failure to abate a health nuisance by allowing drainage from kitchen sinks and basements to flow directly into a culvert along a state road.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, who had presided at the trial of Thomas Frankenberry and Elmer L. Furlow Jr., then imposed the maximum fine of $10 for violating Section 50, Article 43, of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Judge Cobey instructed Matthew J. Mullaney, attorney for the two men, to remind them that each day's continuation of a nuisance constitutes a separate offense and to express a hope that the necessary corrective measures will be taken so that the two men would not appear in court again.

Two sanitarians of the County Health Department, Gaylord Brooks and Conrad Zimmerman, testified that they had answered numerous complaints about the drainage nuisance along State Route 36 at Mt. Savage over a 15-month period.

Other prosecution witnesses called by Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason were George Hale, State Roads Commission engineer, and Mrs. Hazel Wilhelm, a neighbor of the two defendants. Mrs. Wilhelm testified that the drainage from the Frankenberry and Furlow homes drained into the road culvert in front of her property.

Luther Hutter Sr. was foreman of the jury of 10 men and two women which deliberated about 45 minutes before finding the two men guilty.

Search For Jail Escapee Unsuccessful

State and city police and deputies of Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein last night continued unsuccessfully their search for James R. Walter, 24-year-old Flintstone man who Tuesday night made good his second escape from the County Jail in less than a month.

A 13-state alarm was sent out Tuesday night by State Police after Walter fled just a week after his recapture. He had been free 20 days after his first escape on September 25.

Walter escaped Tuesday night when he dived through the outer screen of a window near the jail's front door. The window itself was raised about two feet and he crashed through the screen to his freedom about six feet below.

Tfc. J. W. McFarland of the State Police had just ended more than an hour of interrogation of Walter. Both men were standing at a doorway to a hall leading to the cell blocks when Walter took one long stride and dived through the window.

1,000 View Cooking School Demonstrations

Third Session Set Today At 9:15 A.M.

Some 1,000 persons attended the second session of the Times-News Cooking School yesterday at the Strand Theatre. And for the first time, a man was a winner of one of the prizes which are awarded at each session.

Those attending were greeted by Reddy Kilowatt (Miss Joyce Meeks) as they arrived for the "Spotlight on Foods" presentation.

Miss Ann Norman and Miss Sandy Sime, the two talented and charming home economists from the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Chicago, prepared and displayed a variety of meat dishes which included beef, pork, lamb and variety meats, as well as several desserts.

Miss Norman's demonstrations were supplemented by reliable information in the field of nutrition, time-saving kitchen practices, techniques of garnishing and tips on food budgeting, all given in an entertaining and relaxed way by the lecturer.

American women are becoming as fashion-conscious about food as they are about their dress, Miss Norman observes. New styles in food are constantly being introduced and the fashion-conscious homemaker knows she must keep abreast of new fashions in food in order to give her family mealtime variety.

Meat Charts Included

Miss Norman also pointed out that the cook books distributed to the audience at each session this year contain meat charts showing the wholesale as well as retail cuts of beef, lamb and pork.

Her audience follows the preparation of each recipe using the cook book and Miss Norman often stops the proceedings to award prizes to some alert person who catches her in a "goof" or to someone who answers a question on some phase of the demonstration.

At the first session there were approximately 25 women who said they had attended each session of the school since it began. Yesterday, 18 indicated that they also attended all sessions of the school in the 30-odd years it has been held here.

William (Bill) Domer, 3 Avenue M, Potomac Park, who has attended three cooking schools, yesterday won his first prize, a food basket, and in so doing became the first male winner at the school.

Other Winners

Others winning food baskets were Isabelle Batie, 643 Hill Top Drive; Mrs. Donald Buser, RD 1, Oldtown; Laverne Ruppert, RD 2, city; Mrs. Laura Dasher, 923 Maryland Avenue; Mrs. Laura Pyle, 306 Harrison Street; Mrs. Dorothy Sneathen, 543 Arnett Terrace; Mrs. Matildia B. Norris, RD 1, Mt. Savage; Mrs. Patricia Mock, RD 3, Bedford, Pa.; Mrs. A. A. Sowers, 721 Greene Street; Margaret Bussard, 223 Offutt Street, Mrs. Geneva Wilson, 549 Arnett Terrace; Mrs. Ann M. Vonderau, 330 Sunset Drive; Mrs. Effie Weber, 31 Ridgeway Terrace and Mrs. Henry Lowery, Ellerslie.

Miss Mildred Myers, LaVale, won a Taylor meat thermometer, and Mrs. W. E. Pullen, 220 Bond Street, received a case of Seven Up.

Food dishes were awarded to Jean Green, standing rib of beef; Joan Cole, RD 1, Ridgeley, raisin-rice lamb chops; Mrs. Delores Lepley, 47 Thomas Street, double crust pork pie; Mrs. Hilda Stewart, 628 Yale Street, apple-plum dumplings; Mrs. Atlanta Hinkle, 512 Ridgewood Avenue, sunburst ham slice; Mrs. Mona Sensabaugh, 134 Massachusetts Avenue, Shanghai casserole; Mrs. Roy Lowery, Ellerslie, double-A pork chops, and Marion R. Lapp, Corriganville, marble cake.

Today and tomorrow classes will begin at 9:15 a.m. Doors open at 8:30 a.m.

Camper Club Seeks Members

The Allegany Camper Club is planning a membership drive on Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Members of the senior and junior bands, numbering about 200, will be dressed in uniform and will seek memberships from residents in Cumberland, Bowling Green, LaVale, Cresaptown, Rawlings, Locust Grove and other sections where students who attend Allegany High School live.

S. Lua Syckes, band director, said Harry Mills is in charge of the project, the proceeds of which will be used for band activities as well as football, dramatics and other activities of the school.

Last year about 2,000 memberships were sold. One of the big fund-raisers for the club is the sale of programs at the Thanksgiving Day football game.

Mr. Syckes said the club also raises money by sponsoring dances and card parties.

Business-Education Day

Boys Rescued After 2 Hours On Rock Ledge

Mountain Climbers 'Stuck' On Haystack

A holiday from the classroom resulted in a harrowing experience yesterday afternoon for two local boys who were trapped about two hours on a rocky section of Haystack Mountain approximately 350 feet above U. S. Route 40 in the Narrows.

Pulled to safety up over the face of the mountain for a distance of about 50 feet were Patrick M. Douglas, 14, of 707 Hill Top Drive and Ronald L. Bierman, 13, of 430 Grand Avenue, who were noticeably shaken by their experience.

Two of their companions, Daniel W. Young, 13, of 451 Henderson Avenue and Edward B. Baker, 14, of 717 Hill Top Drive, reached the top of the mountain in the climbing expedition.

However the Douglas and Bierman boys got as far as the rocky ledge and apparently "froze" with fright, according to volunteer firemen from LaVale and State Police who figured in the rescue.

A few minutes after noon yesterday Edward McGee, who is an employe of Frost's Atlantic Service Station located in the Narrows, heard one of the boys shouting. At first, Mr. McGee thought the boy was joking until he noticed the two boys in the predicament on the rocky ledge high above the road.

Police, Firemen To Rescue

State Police were notified and they in turn called for assistance from the volunteer firemen of LaVale, who responded with rescue equipment.

Tfc. Joseph Helmstetter and Trooper Ellsworth Mills made their way to the top of the mountain where they found Young and Baker. As Trooper Mills edged his way down the mountain toward the two stranded lads, he kept talking to them to keep them from getting panicky.

Fire Chief James Loar and six other volunteers drove a pumper to Wills Creek Avenue and walked up through the woods about half a mile to the top of the mountain.

They also crept down the mountain toward the two boys. The firemen made a sling of rope, lowered it to the boys, and hauled them up the mountain one at a time.

Both Boys Shaken

Chief Loar said Douglas was trembling when he arrived safely at the top of the mountain and his companion was also shaken by the unexpected ordeal.

The fire chief commended the State Police for their quick action.

The four boys were placed in the police cruiser and taken home.

Other firemen who figured in the rescue operation were Cromwell Zembower, Jerry Proud, assistant chief; Vincent Self, captain; Linn Moore, Lorimer Twigg and Waverly Rice.

The boys were pulled to safety about 2 p.m., said Chief Loar. The four boys had started their climb from the base of the mountain before noon.

Schools were closed yesterday for the annual Chamber of Commerce Business-Education Day program.

Catholic Census Begins In Area On November 3

Plans for a census canvass of Allegany and Garrett counties by the Catholic Archdiocese of Baltimore, were outlined to clergymen and laymen at a meeting last night at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Rev. Francis E. Montgomery, pastor of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, who is serving as chairman of the census in the two counties, told the audience of 40 persons the census will begin on Sunday, November 3.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Chester Griffith, archdiocese chairman, and Frederick A. Saffran, archdiocese layman chairman, both of Baltimore, also spoke to the group and explained the materials in the kit each volunteer census worker will use.

Msgr. Griffith said this is the first census ever taken in the Baltimore archdiocese and is being conducted to determine the needs of all parishes, both old and new.

It is estimated there are 442,000 Catholics in the archdiocese and the census will give an accurate count and help determine the future needs in the fields of parishes, homes for the aged, schools and aid for the handicapped.

Mr. Saffran said at least 50,000 archdiocese workers will be needed for the canvass to check every dwelling in the Baltimore archdiocese. He said, "The census is just looking for the pertinent facts for future needs in the ecclesiastical responsibilities to find the strengths and weaknesses of the archdiocese."

Pastors of all the Catholic churches were told that, once the information has been compiled in Baltimore, each parish will receive the data collected in the respective parishes. At the present time there are no designated boundary lines for parishes and the information compiled in the census may be used to establish boundaries in the future.

Patrick J. Quinn of Frostburg is serving as lay chairman for the canvass in the two counties.

Father Montgomery said the following territory assignments have been made:

Cumberland St. Patrick's — all of North End and to Williams and Park streets within the city to Green Ridge Mountain east on

Water Pollution Group To Draft Stronger Power

Mechanism Called Too Conservative

By TOM STUCKEY

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Water Pollution Control Commission voted Wednesday to have its staff draft a set of stronger regulatory powers for the commission.

"The commission is gravely hampered by a conservative mechanism for enforcing its regulations," said Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, commission member.

Director Paul McKee said the commission needs more power if it is to carry out duties set up by the legislature.

After the recommendations have been drawn up, the commission will consider them and discuss the possibility of asking the legislature for additional powers of enforcement.

The question of enforcement came up at the commission meeting during a discussion of dealings with A. H. Smith, a Prince Georges County sand and gravel operator.

Smith has been ordered by circuit court to abide by the commission regulations for discharge of wastes into Indian Creek, a stream which eventually feeds into the Potomac.

McKee said Smith has repeatedly refused to comply with the regulations.

The commission voted to send Smith a letter demanding that he bring his operations under the regulations within 30 days.

The commission also voted to ask the Potomac Electric Power Company for all the data it has on a study made of plans to build an earth deflector into the Patuxent River at its Chalk Point plant.

The company had a model study made at the Alden Hydraulic Laboratory in Worcester, Mass. That study showed that the proposed deflector would provide a satisfactory method of dispelling the hot water produced by the Chalk Point plant into the Patuxent.

Two Mt. Savage men yesterday were found guilty by an Allegany County Circuit Court jury of failure to abate a health nuisance by allowing drainage from kitchen sinks and basements to flow directly into a culvert along a state road.

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, who had presided at the trial of Thomas Frankenberry and Elmer L. Furlow Jr., then imposed the maximum fine of $10 for violating Section 50, Article 43, of the Annotated Code of Maryland.

Judge Cobey instructed Matthew J. Mullaney, attorney for the two men, to remind them that each day's continuation of a nuisance constitutes a separate offense and to express a hope that the necessary corrective measures will be taken so that the two men would not appear in court again.

Two sanitarians of the County Health Department, Gaylord Brooks and Conrad Zimmerman, testified that they had answered numerous complaints about the drainage nuisance along State Route 36 at Mt. Savage over a 15-month period.

Other prosecution witnesses called by Deputy State's Attorney Donald W. Mason were George Hale, State Roads Commission engineer, and Mrs. Hazel Wilhelm, a neighbor of the two defendants. Mrs. Wilhelm testified that the drainage from the Frankenberry and Furlow homes drained into the road culvert in front of her property.

Luther Hutter Sr. was foreman of the jury of 10 men and two women which deliberated about 45 minutes before finding the two men guilty.

1,000 View Cooking School Demonstrations

Third Session Set Today At 9:15 A.M.

Some 1,000 persons attended the second session of the Times-News Cooking School yesterday at the Strand Theatre. And for the first time, a man was a winner of one of the prizes which are awarded at each session.

Those attending were greeted by Reddy Kilowatt (Miss Joyce Meeks) as they arrived for the "Spotlight on Foods" presentation.

Miss Ann Norman and Miss Sandy Sime, the two talented and charming home economists from the National Live Stock and Meat Board, Chicago, prepared and displayed a variety of meat dishes which included beef, pork, lamb and variety meats, as well as several desserts.

Miss Norman's demonstrations were supplemented by reliable information in the field of nutrition, time-saving kitchen practices, techniques of garnishing and tips on food budgeting, all given in an entertaining and relaxed way by the lecturer.

American women are becoming as fashion-conscious about food as they are about their dress, Miss Norman observes. New styles in food are constantly being introduced and the fashion-conscious homemaker knows she must keep abreast of new fashions in food in order to give her family mealtime variety.

Meat Charts Included

Miss Norman also pointed out that the cook books distributed to the audience at each session this year contain meat charts showing the wholesale as well as retail cuts of beef, lamb and pork.

Her audience follows the preparation of each recipe using the cook book and Miss Norman often stops the proceedings to award prizes to some alert person who catches her in a "goof" or to someone who answers a question on some phase of the demonstration.

At the first session there were approximately 25 women who said they had attended each session of the school since it began. Yesterday, 18 indicated that they also attended all sessions of the school in the 30-odd years it has been held here.

William (Bill) Domer, 3 Avenue M. Potomac Park, who has attended three cooking schools, yesterday won his first prize, a food basket, and in so doing became the first male winner at the school.

Others winning food baskets were Isabelle Batie, 643 Hill Top Drive; Mrs. Donald Buser, RD 1, Oldtown; Laverne Ruppert, RD 2, city; Mrs. Laura Dasher, 923 Maryland Avenue; Mrs. Laura Pyle, 306 Harrison Street; Mrs. Dorothy Sneathen, 543 Arnett Terrace; Mrs. Matildia B. Vonderau, 330 Sunset Drive; Mrs. Effie Weber, 31 Ridgeway Terrace and Mrs. Henry Lowery, Ellerslie.

Miss Mildred Myers, LaVale, won a Taylor meat thermometer, and Mrs. W. E. Pullen, 220 Bond Street, received a case of Seven Up.

Camper Club Seeks Members

The Allegany Camper Club is planning a membership drive on Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

Members of the senior and junior bands, numbering about 200, will be dressed in uniform and will seek memberships from residents in Cumberland, Bowling Green, LaVale, Cresaptown, Rawlings, Locust Grove and other sections where students who attend Allegany High School live.

S. Lua Syckes, band director, said Harry Mills is in charge of the project, the proceeds of which will be used for band activities as well as football, dramatics and other activities of the school.

Last year about 2,000 memberships were sold. One of the big fund-raisers for the club is the sale of programs at the Thanksgiving Day football game.

Mr. Syckes said the club also raises money by sponsoring dances and card parties.

Players To Meet

The Algonquin Players, local theatre group, will meet today at 8:45 p. m. at the workshop on North Centre Street to elect officers for the coming year.

Business-Education Day
